A Great American at 93.
Mrs. Rockefeller No Socialist.
Air Mail to Return.
The Pleasure of Vengeance.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, one of the best judges the United States ever had, celebrated his ninety-third birthday yesterday. He may be proud of the respect and affection in which the nation holds him. The nation is proud of having produced such a man.

Appointed to interpret the Constitution, Justice Holmes always indicated his belief that the Constitution was made for men and women, not entirely for organized dollars.

MRS. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER III, daughter-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., authorizes denial of the statement that she has "turned Socialist," or joined the Socialist party.

Many are Socialists, not knowing it.

Socialism, properly defined, means various theories for improving conditions under which human society is managed.

Once respectable capital would have called "vile Socialism" a suggestion that the rich be taxed to educate the poor; now, everybody is taxed for the public schools, and few complain.

Once there were no fine parks, except those owned by wealthy private individuals, kings and nobles.

To suggest that the finest parks in the world should belong to the "common people" for their games, and amusement, would have seemed idiotic Socialism.

But in Chicago, New York, Paris, London, San Francisco, large parks all belong to the people, and are paid for by taxpayers.

AS FOR Uncle Sam, he is up to his neck and sinking rapidly in what would once have been called Socialism, with his NRA, regulating hours, wages and days of work in favor of workers, and his CWA spending billions to employ the idle.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT will restore air mail to commercial companies as soon as arrangements can be made, with contracts on a business basis, not longer than three years.

Any mail carriers shown to have obtained extravagantly profitable contracts by fraud will not be allowed to bid on future contracts. That program will suit the country and all honest mail carriers.

PRIVATE enterprise can produce good pilots, airplanes and records, as is shown by a flight from Chicago to New York, in three hours and ten minutes, by one of the Transcontinental and Western Air Line planes, carrying 13 passengers last Tuesday.

Col. Roscoe Turner, who has been "rambling" through the air in the South at 250 miles an hour, invited the writer to fly across the continent, guaranteeing to make the trip "comfortably" in eleven hours.

Ten hours from ocean to ocean will soon be a "safe, conservative speed," more conservative than twenty hours from New York to Chicago by rail.

A RESIDENT of Hollow Springs, Miss., whose seventeen-year-old daughter was mistreated by three Negroes, demands the satisfaction and vengeance of personally hanging the three men, now that they have been sentenced to death. The Mississippi Senate, nineteen to sixteen, votes to oblige him. This is printed because it is news.

A few hundred years ago, everybody of consequence, kings, lords of the manor, bishops, merchants, all had their separate gallows, and exercised by proxy the right to hang criminals, including petty thieves. That has changed.

MRS. ROOSEVELT, wife of the President, visiting the West Indies on a tour of inspection, especially to see "what can be done for the mothers and children," had flown over the water yesterday morning 1,258 miles, and will go on flying for some time.

No President's wife ever did that before, but Mrs. Roosevelt's energy need not surprise you. She is a genuine Roosevelt, niece of Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, much more nearly related to Theodore Roosevelt than is her husband, President F. D. Roosevelt.

GEN. JOHNSON, NRA, possessing self-confidence on which great careers are built, wants "chiselers" to know first, that he has been "too gentle," and they, "the chiselers" "ain't seen nothing yet." In other words, some are going to jail, unless Gen. Johnson is mistaken.

Also, chiselers, and indifferent patriots, need not hope to get rid of Gen. Johnson. He is there to stay. And if his methods are unorthodox, his job also is unorthodox.

MR. JACK WALLACE, of San Antonio, Tex., member of the NRA code authority on shoe manuufacture, thinks the government should control newspaper references to NRA, and asks:

"Why not government supervision of the press relating to the NRA?"

The gentleman will find his answer in the Constitution.

THE SOUTH will be glad to hear that Russia needs 500,000 bales of cotton, and will buy it here, if suitable terms of payment can be arranged.

Some of the biggest industrialists, General Electric, Ford Company, and others, say Russia's credit is good. She pays.

Even if it were a little shaky, it would be better to sell five hundred million bales of cotton to the Russians than to plow

STATE ASKS QUIZ ON NRA CHEATING

Johnson Expected to Act Shortly on Investigation

By JOHN W. SCOTZIN
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, March 9.—Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson is expected to act finally within a few days on a tentative plan submitted to him for investigation of NRA "chiseling" in Pennsylvania, it was learned today.

The program, Miss Charlotte E. Carr, secretary of the Department of Labor and Industry, revealed, was drafted by herself and state NRA officials. Pending action by Johnson she declined to discuss it in detail.

MENTIONED FOR JOB

Miss Carr disclosed that her name has been proposed to the recovery chief for appointment as state compliance director to head the investigation at a salary of $1 a year. She said, however, that she has not communicated directly with Johnson regarding the post. She declared:

"Nothing has been offered me and I have accepted nothing. It is up to Washington to approve or disapprove."

Miss Carr pointed out that under the plan cases of non-compliance with provisions of the Blue Eagle only would be investigated. Where a violation is found, the matter will be referred to NRA headquarters for prosecution, she said.

Labor Given 'Run-around,' Mrs. Pinchot Charges

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's Governor, charges that the National Recovery Administration has given labor the "run-around."

The fiery campaigner for labor causes, in addressing a meeting of several hundred strikers last night, challenged the NRA's chieftain, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, to name "more than one town in Pennsylvania with more than a dozen factories where the idea is not being violated 50 per cent or worse."

Mrs. Pinchot revealed that she had sent her challenge to Johnson with a request for "an answer and not a wisecrack."

Mrs. Pinchot read her letter to employes of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company, who have been on strike since last fall.

Club Raises Ransom For Kidnaped Dog

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP.)—Kid Boots, the Boston terrier kidnaped recently after winning best of breed in a Chicago show, will be returned to his owner, Louis Rudzinsky, if a New Jersey kennel club can raise the $500 demanded by the kidnapers.

The Union and Essex Boston Terrier Club has started a drive to raise that amount from lovers of dogs.

HEARST TO GIVE VIEWS ON NRA

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—William Randolph Hearst will speak over the nation-wide networks of the National Broadcasting Company tomorrow night as the guest of Merlin H. Aylesworth, NBC president.

The topic of Mr. Hearst's address will be "Business and the NRA."

Mr. Hearst will speak from Los Angeles from 8:45 to 9 p. m., Pittsburgh time.

Mr. Hearst's address will be heard in Pittsburgh through Station WCAE.

A cold wave from the Northwest and a warm belt from the Southwest were racing eastward today with the former holding the lead. Observer W. S. Brotzman predicted the mercury would slump to around 15 tonight, five above the low record.

Rivers continued to fall. The stage at the Point at 8 a. m. was 16.2 feet. All ice has disappeared from the streams.

4 MORE GET JAIL IN VOTE FRAUDS

Third Ward Board Members, Sleuth Given Terms

The prospective parade to prison of convicted vote cheaters was increased by four today in Federal Court.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker sentenced three members of the election board of the Sixth District, Third Ward, and a constable to a year and a day each in a Federal prison and to pay a fine of $1, as the outcome of their conviction of conspiracy to falsify ballots at the 1932 congressional election.

Those sentenced were Anthony Sibilia, judge; Jack Frankel and Henry Silverstein, inspectors and Constable Harry Kart.

TOTAL NOW 14

They make a total of 14 sentenced to penitentiary or jail terms in the government's drive against crooked elections. Two already have begun serving jail terms.

Appeals were taken in behalf of the four and they were ordered released in $2,500 bail each.

Attorney Sebastian Pugliese made a strong plea for leniency in behalf of Constable Kart. He characterized his conviction as a "miscarriage of justice" in that there was conflicting testimony as to wether Kart had been in the polls after they closed.

'ABIDE BY VERDICT'

Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh contended there was ample evidence for the jury to return the verdict of guilty.

Judge Schoonmaker said:

"The responsibility of deciding who was telling the truth is not mine. We must abide by the jury's verdict. If a man in public office is guilty of fraud, it is a serious thing. If I thought there was any error I would have granted a new trial."

In this case, Davey Slutzky and Harry Kalson, clerks, were acquitted.

On Monday three members of the election board in the Ninth District, Third Ward, will appear before the court for sentence. They are Mike Wendell, judge, and Carman Bosco and Charles P. Betters, inspectors.

Homestead Pair Free in Vote Case

Richard Lodman, judge, and John Catalano, inspector of elections in the First District of the Fourth Ward, Homestead, were acquitted late yesterday before Judge Thomas M. Marshall, on charges of violating the election laws.

Mrs. Marie Hilton, Democratic watcher at the November 7 election, charges they permitted a woman to vote more than once, and allowed voters to have assistance without making out the proper affidavit.

M'NAIR PROBES MONACA ROW

The Monaca Beer Garden, on the site of the pre-prohibition Monaca Club, today launched Mayor McNair on an investigation of an accusation that two city plainclothes officers were drunk there.

Police Capt. Jerry L. Deasy, of the Oakland Police Station, said James Courtney, 32, of 3802 Forbes street, manager of the place, lodged the complaint with the Mayor after Courtney was held on a disorderly conduct charge.

Courtney was held after a hearing in Oakland Police Court. Peter Patrick, 32, of 982 Greenfield avenue, was fined $10 or 30 days in the Workhouse.

Patrick was arrested by Officers James McInerney and John Novak in the cabaret early today. The policemen testified they dropped into the place because it still was operating at 4 a. m. in violation of the law.

They said Patrick started an argument and was abusive. Courtney, they said, seized the cabaret license and fled. Thereafter the officers ordered guests out and closed the place, they testified.

The Mayor put in an appearance at the Oakland Police Station soon after the hearing, according to Capt. Deasy, and wanted to see McInerney and Novak, because Courtney had told him both were drunk when they visited the cabaret.

Being on night duty, neither of the officers was there, but Capt. Deasy said they would be told to see the Mayor.

Courtney was released on bail pending a hearing of disorderly conduct charge when he showed up at Patrick's hearing this morning. Patrick was described as a guest in thep lace.

The Monaca Beer Garden is across the street from the Oakland Police tSation. In the preprohibition era it escaped the police attention until state police raided it and seized liquor and gambling devices.

Pinchot and Wife Fly to Washington

HARRISBURG, March 9.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, accompanied by Mrs. Pinchot and a woman secretary, today took off in a state-owned airplane for Washington, where he will entrain late this afternoon for Long Key, Florida, there to enjoy some eagerly anticipated fishing.

JAIL AIDE HIT BY GUARD OF DILLINGER

Fingerprint Expert Locked Him in Cell, Aged Keeper Says

CHICAGO, March 9.—(AP.)—The uproar over slippery John Dillinger's walkaway reached a new high today with a charge that a fingerprint expert locked a special guard in a cell a few minutes before the outlaw escaped from the Crown Point (Ind.) jail.

Attorney General Philip Lutz, Jr., of Indiana, said at Indianapolis that Matt Brown, 84, was the guard locked in. He said that the aged man testified to Assistant Attorney General Edward Barce that Ernest Blunk, fingerprint expert at the jail, locked a door on him "before I realized I had been decoyed into the cell."

DILLINGER ARMED

Shortly afterward, the guard was quoted as saying, Dillinger appeared in the jail corridor, armed with a machine gun.

Blunk is free on bond on a charge of misfeasance. He and Sam Cahoon, another jail attache, were arrested recently in connection with the desperado's escape.

At Crown Point the federal government took its prisoners out of the jail.

Eight men, held to await trial on the government's charges or under conviction for violation federal laws, were marched out of the jail that couldn't hold Dillinger and moved to St. Joseph County Jail, at South Bend.

Marshall A. S. Hosinky moved the prisoners, complying with an order issued yesterday in Washington, at the same time that Attorney General Cummings criticized the jailers from whom Dillinger escaped.

'SUPPLY CAR' FOUND

Chicago police today stumbled on whatthey believe may have been Dillinger's "supply car."

A sedan on the North Side, in the district where the search for Dillinger was first concentrated, was found with the following equipment: Seven suits of overalls, black grease paint, shell rimmed glasses, explosive caps, shotguns, revolvers and automatic tear gas shells.

The discovery led the police to take four persons—three men and a woman—into custody, Fred Beigelbeck, 29; John M. Sullivan, 29; Clayton Curtis, 33, and Thereasa Casper, 22.

Slayer Talks in Trial Of Dillinger Pal

LIMA, O., March 9.—(AP.)—Arthur Miller, convicted murderer, testified in the first degree murder trial of Harry Pierpont today that several times before last October 12, he warned Sheriff Jess L. Sarber that John Dillinger was planning to break out of the Allen County Jail. Pierpont is charged with slaying the Sheriff during the jail delivery.

Under cross-examination by Miss Jessie Levy, defense counsel, Miller said that Dillinger had told him that he intended to break out of the jail.

COUNTY TO ADD 4 RUM STORES

Four additional liquor stores have been alloted Allegheny County by the State Liquor Control Board, including one downtown and another in Squirrel Hill.

As announced at the office of Philip W. Gundelfinger, Control Board chief here, the locations of the new stores are 542 Sixth avenue, 5854 Forbes street, 322 Brownsville road, Mt. Oliver, and 211 Seventh avenue, West Tarentum.

The Control Board also is contemplating additional stores in West End and Millvale, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Harrisburg.

Employe Who Defied City Ouster Rehired

Suspended last week "for the good of the service," Louis Schwartz, city engineer inspector, was reinstated by Public Safety Director Ralph E. Smith today with his pay for the time he was suspended restored to him.

Schwartz refused to resign on Director Smith's request and stood on his rights as a civil service employe. There was no explanation of his reinstatement.

SHIPS CRASH IN OHIO, FLORIDA

Pilot, Aide Injured; Death Toll Soars To Eight

Death toll of Army mail fliers was increased to 8 today as a result of two crashes:

1—First Lieut. Otto Wienecke was killed when his plane crashed in a heavy snowstorm on a farm near Burton, O.

2—Sgt. Ernest B. Bell was killed in the crash of an Army bomber mail plane at Daytona Beach, Fla. Lieut. W. M. Reid, pilot, and Private Floyd Marshall were injured.

CHARDON, O., March 9.—(AP.)—Army Air Mail Pilot Otto Wienecke, flying from Newark, N. J., to Cleveland with the mail, crashed to his death in the midst of a heavy snow squall this morning on a farm northwest of Burton, near here.

Chardon is about 20 miles directly east of Cleveland.

The plane was destroyed, but 10 bags of mail were salvaged and brought to the postoffice here.

John Hess, a farmer in whose pasture the plane crashed, said he and several neighbors heard the plane's motor about 5 a. m. (Pittsburgh time), as it circled over Burton several times.

It apparently was sputtering, and Hess rushed out in time to see the crash.

Hess said Wienecke apparently had no opportunity to save himself. His safety belt was still hooked when the farmer reached his side.

Hess declared the snow was coming down in a heavy swirl at the time of the accident.

Army Mail Flier Killed, 2 Hurt in Florida Crash

DAYTONA BEACH, March 9.—(AP.)—Sgt. Ernest B. Bell was killed instantly near here today in the crash of an Army bomber mail plane within a few minutes after it had taken off from the local airpost, bearing mail for Miami.

Lieut. W. M. Reid, 24, pilot, and Floyd Marshall, 34, a private, were injured. The motors failed and the plane fell in a heavily wooded section two miles south of this city.

Row On Army Flying Mail Balked By House Recess

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—Hous Democratic leaders cut short with adjournment today a prospective Republican attack on the Army carrying the airmail.

"Another Army flier has just been killed."

So announced Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (Rep.), of Massachusetts, as she asked immediate consideration of a resolution saying Army mail carrying should be discontinued immediately.

But Speaker Rainey refused to recognize her.

Mrs. Rogers later asked permission to speak for five minutes. Majority Leader Byrns objected, and moved adjournment.

League Court Drive On in Schools

Endowment for Peace Spends Millions In Campaign

(Editor's Note — This is the second of a series of articles disclosing the activities of the huge propaganda machine, financed by untold millions, which is seeking to cancel war debts and put the United States into the League of Nations and the League's World Court. The material on which these articles are based was obtained from government records in Washington.)

By JOHN P. KENNEDY

For the past fifteen years the propadanda division of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace has expended approximately seven million dollars to create in America an "international mind."

Backing this program to get America "international minded" are the various Carnegie Foundations which have total funds of $246,035,319, and the principal object is to secure America's entry into the League Court.

It would be unfair to say that all of these funds are used for propaganda.

But few persons realize that the vigorous League Court propaganda efforts are controlled largely by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, which is headed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and by a few other leading internationalists.

RESOURCES VAST

The peace endowment has $11,720,000 at its command, but for such other funds as it needs, may go to the parent Carnegie Corporation of New York, which has $161,502,356 in its treasury.

Land of Queen of Sheba 'Found'

Towers and Temples Still Standing, Fliers Report

PARIS, March 9.—(AP.)—Capt. Corniglion Molinier and Andre Malraux telegraphed from French Somaliland last night that they had found the lost capital of the Queen of Sheba.

They reported their discovery to the newspaper Intransigeant that they discovered the legendary city by an airplane and had photographed it.

Its towers and temples are still standing, they said.

It is located, they reported, at the northern edge of the great sandy desert of Arabia called Ruba-el-Khali, and also called Roubat-el-Khali and Boubahi Kale. The point indicated is a thousand miles southeast from Jerusalem and 900 miles northeast from French Somaliland.

In those days the land of Sheba was one of the wealthiest of the world—the world that civilization knew.

The wealth of the region is hinted at in II Chronicles, Chapter IX, in the description of one of history's most famous visits:

"And when the Queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon she came to prove Solomon with hard questions at Jerusalem, with a very great company, and camels that bare spices, and gold in abundance, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart.

"And she gave the King an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices great abundance and precious stones: neither was there any such spice as the Queen of Sheba gave King Solomon.

"And King Solomon gave to the Queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked beside that which she had brought unto the King. So she turned, and went away to her own land, she and her servants."

BONUS AND ECONOMY LINKED TO BLOCK HOUSE REVOLT

LEADERS FIGHT FOR PLANS OF PRESIDENT

Free-For-All Battle On Vet Issue Expected

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—House Democratic leaders today linked the soldiers' bonus, veterans' economy and federal paycut issues in a desperate effort to hold the House in line for President Roosevelt's financial program.

Conceding that the House is likely to revolt against the President, House leaders decided to open the veterans and paycut issues to a free-for-all fight following a vote on the bonus Monday.

The hold of the administration on the heavily Democratic House was shaken when a party caucus last night refused to bind itself for the administration veterans' program.

Speaker Rainey, of the House, declared the bonus and economy votes will constitute a test for the recovery program. He said:

"If the modifications of the veterans' program and pay cut issues, together with the bonus, should pass over a presidential veto, it would wreck the economy program.

"Next week is going to be a critical week for the recovery program so far as the House is concerned."

Both Rainey and Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, Democratic leader, said the President would veto the independent offices supply bill if the House accepts the Senate amendments restoring the 15 per cent federal pay cut and modifying the veterans' economy program at an estimated cost of $350,000,000.

Despite the refusal of a Democratic caucus to bind itself for the President's program last night, Speaker Rainey asserted that a majority of Democrats would stand by him.

Looking Out for Their Own -:- By QUIN HALL

STOCK MARKET BILL REVISED

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—Two vital modifications in the Fletcher-Rayburn stock market control bill, lessening margin and broker restrictions, were tentatively drafted into the revised measure today.

In rough outline the relaxations would:

1—Permit brokers to carry customers until their margins dropped to 40 per cent.

2—Modify the drastic segregation clause of the original draft to permit members of exchanges to trade for their own account and act as brokers on a cash basis.

Both modifications represented big concessions from the original draft.

Under the new margin proposal, a buyer would have to put up 60 per cent cash in purchasing a security, but the broker would not be compelled to call him for further money until the stock had dropped to the point where the cash represented only 40 per cent of the market value.

The second alteration would permit exchange members who did not extend margins to customers to trade in their own behalf. It was designed to meet the objections of broker dealers in cities outside of New York who contended the complete prohibition would throw them out of business.

Budd Workers Defy Compliance Board

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—(INS.)—Heedless of the National Compliance Board's order postponing the balloting for 10 days, the Employes' Association of the E. G. Budd Manufacturing Company went ahead today with the election of representatives for collective bargaining.

Holding of the election today amounted to virtual defiance of the edict issued last night by William H. Davie, national compliance director, deferring the voting until March 19.

Girl, 5, Scalded With Soup, Dies

ARMY INQUIRY VERDICT NEAR

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—A grand jury began balloting today on whether to return any indictments after its inquiry into War Department contract awards.

For several weeks the jury has been endeavoring to discover whether undue influence by lobbyists played any part in the awards, particularly in the Army motorization program.

Harry H. Woodring, Assistant Secretary of War, and other department officials, are representatives of businesses concerned have been among the witnesses.

Meanwhile, in executive session, a House Military Sub-Committee today heard Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Army Chief of Staff, testify about purchases the War Department has made since 1926.

The General, at the request of the committee, produced voluminous data covering all kinds of purchases, from airplanes and trucks to gogles.

INSULL FOUND FIT TO TRAVEL

ATHENS, March 9.—(AP.)—Physicians who examined Samuel Insull, Sr., reported to the Ministry of the Interior today that the former Chicago utilities operator, wanted on charges of embezzlement, could travel if precautions were taken to guard his health.

It was understood previous to the doctors' report that Premier Tsaldariras might take the next action on the status of Insull, who was ordered last Tuesday to get out of Greece within 48 hours.

The 48 hours expired yesterday, but Insull is still in Athens and, from all indications, intending to stay here.

The newspaper Ethnos said the doctors' report said luxury liners, presumably those operating to the United States, would be an ideal medium of conveying Insull from the country.

TARIFF BARGAIN AROUSES G. O. P.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The admission of administration spokesmen that the President's tariff bargaining program would eventually close up some "economic" industries provoked opposition in the House Ways and Mean Committee today.

Republican committee members, virtually unanimous against the bill, planned to renew their demands upon the administration for a list of industries which would suffer in tariff trades to increase American exports.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, frankly declaring the United States must be prepared to take a "real increase" of imports from other countries to increase exports, aroused the fire of Republicans when he hinted at the type of industries which would suffer.

Challenged by Representative Treadway (Rep.), of Massachusetts, Wallace said many types of handwork, mostly non-competitive, and luxuries, could be imported from Europe and the Orient and some of the finer types of textiles.

FIND STAVISKY JEWELS

PARIS, March 9.—(AP.)—Some of the missing jewels of the late Serge Stavisky, subject to an intensive detective search, were found today in the Orleans municipal pawnshop and were seized by the government.

The gems, valued at 1,200,000 francs (approximately $78,000), were pawned by an associate of Stavisky for 200,000 francs (approximately $13,000).

They were recovered by M. Bony, the detective who found missing stubs of checks for millions of francs written by the man credited with the collapse of the Bayonne pawnshop. This disclosure led to the arrest of Stavisky's widow, who is still in jail.

A pretty young mannequin aided in the search for the jewels, supposed to have been used by Stavisky to get funds from the Bayonne pawnshop.

Film Firm Fights Award to Princess

LONDON, March 9.—(AP.)—An appeal was filed on behalf of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Film Company, Ltd., today against the £25,000 (normally $125,000) damages awarded Princess Irena Youssoupoff in her libel suit because of the film "Rasputin and the Empress."

The judgment was awarded last week, when notice of appeal was given. Counsel for the Russian princess has announced she would file similar suits in all other countries in which the film appeared.

NEW AIR MAIL PLAN DELAY INDICATED

Congress May Shelve Controversial Bill To Speed Session

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—A hint that the President's air mail plan may be laid aside till the next session of Congress was dropped as the Senate balked debate today on the controversial subject.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, majority leader, intimated that if such legislation threatens to prolong the session unduly it might be laid away. He declined to predict passage before the May adjournment date, saying it depended on conditions.

Republican opposition to the Roosevelt plan to return the air mail permanently to private companies on a drastically revised basis continued unabated.

EMERGENCY BILL DELAYED

The Senate delayed consideration of a bill to facilitate mail transportation by Army fliers during the emergency period. Tucked into it, however, is a clause authorizing temporary contracts to private concerns.

It was pointed out privately in some Senate quarters that if the emergency bill is adopted with its temporary private contract clause, the air mail can be returned to private hands and a permanent plan adopted later.

The Senate and House Postoffice Committees nevertheless prepared to introduce by next week bills embodying the President's ideas. Hearings, possibly of protracted length, would then be necessary.

The administration's intention to demand a complete reorganization of the air mail companies which held now-cancelled contracts became increasingly plain.

SHAKEUP IN INDUSTRY

Postoffice officials indicated that many prominent aviation executives would have to be dropped before their companies would be given new contracts under the President's plan.

Included in the indicated list were those airline officials who attended the now famous 1930 conference at the Postoffice Department here, from which arose administration charges that fraud and collusion entered into the contract making.

Air Line Pilots Laud Mail Ruling

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—The Air Line Pilots' Association in a message to President Roosevelt yesterday termed his air mail legislation proposal "the soundest and most constructive move yet taken in the entire history of air commerce in this country."

Parmelee Drivers Strike in New York

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP.)—Four thousand taxi drivers of the Parmelee System voted a strike today in protest against alleged efforts of the company to coerce them into "company unions."

The drivers voted to walk out after Samuel Jaffee, a shop steward, was discharged.

Philippine Freedom Backed in Senate

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—The Tydings-McDuffie Philippine independence bill was reported favorably today by the Senate Territories Committee. The House committee already has taken similar action.

SURVEY BY U. S. SHOWS GAINS IN BUSINESS

Expansion Declared Greater Than Seasonal

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—A more than usual business gain in February and a moderate improvement in January were reported today by the official "survey of current business" by the government.

The report said:

"The expansion in industrial production has been greater than the usual seasonal rise for this period, and the statistics of car loadings also show a favorable trend in primary distribution."

Although employment and payrolls declined between mid-December and mid-January, preliminary data as of mid-February indicated an improvement in private employment and payrolls.

Retail sales data indicate a decline in January of about the usual proportions, following the greater than seasonal increases of December.

Construction contracts have tended to lag since December and the seasonally adjusted index has declined following the rapid rise in the last four months of 1933.

Foreign trade statistics revealed a decrease in exports in January which was only partially accounted for by seasonal factors and a rise in imports.

Commodity prices have tended upward in recent weeks. The wholesale commodity price index was about 5 per cent higher in the week ended February 17, than in the third week of December. Retail prices and the cost of living also advanced in January.

POWER PROBE O. K.'D IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—The Rankin resolution to authorize the Power Commission to investigate rates charged for electricity was approved today by the House Interstate Commerce Committee.

The resolution already has been approved by the Senate.

Chairman Rayburn (Dem.), of Texas, said the measure probably would be brought up in the House next week.

The inquiry, sponsored by Representative Rankin (Dem.), of Mississippi, would be directed into rates charged residential, rural, commercial and industrial consumers throughout the United States by private and municipal corporations.

Auto Injures Wife Waiting to Be Hit by Trolley

DETROIT, March 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Clara Nelson was in a hospital today because, her husband told police, an automobile intervened while she was waiting to be run over by a street car.

As the husband, Jess Nelson, explained the incident, he and his wife had quarreled, and Mrs. Nelson lay down on the street car tracks, announcing she was going to be run over. Nelson said he just sighed and walked on, for she had done the same thing before and always got up before a street car arrived.

But this time, an automobile swung around the corner and struck her, breaking one leg and inflicting internal injuries.

MINERS' STRIKE CALLS MILITIA

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 9.—(AP.)—Three companies of the Alabama National Guard were mobilized early today for patrol duty in the strike torn areas of Walker County, where more than 4,000 coal miners have struck demanding the "checkoff system."

In announcing the mobilization order, Brig. Gen. John C. Persons said:

"No violence has been reported in the areas, but mobs have been marching around trying to intimidate those men who want to work. The troops were called out upon the request of the Sheriff of Walker County."

The officers were sent into the area on instructions from Gov. B. M. Miller, after Sheriff A. N. Barrentine had reported the situation out of his control.

The Sheriff wired the Governor yesterday after between 200 and 300 miners, armed with guns and clubs, had marched on the Coal Valley mines of the Debardeleben Coal Company, in an effort to enlist workers there in the strike.

STRIKERS URGE U. S. ACTION

Two delegates representing Local No. 18356, Aluminum Workers' Union, of New Kensington, were in Washington today to ask officials of the Department of Labor to intercede in the strike of workers of the New Kensington plant of the Aluminum Company of America. They were to request that an investigator of the department be sent to New Kesington in an effort to bring peace.

Last Friday union leaders and officials of the company, at a conference in Pittsburgh, signed an agreement to end the strike, which was voted down by members of the union when it was presented them that night.

At a meeting Wednesday night, I. W. Wilson, vice president of the company, declared the union had broken faith in refusing to recognize the terms of the agreement, and added that until the men returned to work the company would refuse further negotiation with union representatives.

NRA IN MOVE TO PUNISH CHISELERS

Expansion of Code Compliance Staff Ordered

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—The NRA moved today to have the law on persons accused of breaking its rules. At the beginning of a week-end lull in other NRA activities, aides of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson seized the opportunity for a quick expansion of a central code compliance staff.

This augmented personnel plans to expedite cases for prosecution. It is in line with Johnson's announcement that President Roosevelt wants a more stern enforcement of Blue Eagle rules.

EXTENDED SIEGE

The NRA faces an extended siege of negotiation before its goal of slashed working hours can be attained. Two committees of industrial leaders which were picked to help Johnson work out plans to put more men to work postponed all definite action until next week.

The administrator, almost exhausted from 10 days and nights of continuous effort, during the big code congress, planned a breathing spell before pitching again into the task of convincing the code men that they have to act, and promptly.

Widely divergent courses were taken by the two assisting committees.

The one representing consumers' goods contained men in agreement with Johnson's plan. They went to consult with their colleagues. There was an expectation that they would propose fairly soon a definite alternative to the Johnson 10 per cent hour shortening plan.

ACTION PUSHED

The capital goods committee—representing makers of machinery, construction goods, supplies for manufacture—was authoritatively shown to be embarked upon a far less direct course.

Most of them expected to come back next week, then to undertake a deliberate program for helping their own industries. Their spokesmen thus far have shown more interest in having the administration's securities act amended and in stopping a drastic exchange regulation bill than in work hour shortening.

NEW DEAL HELD 'LIVING ON HOPE'

An assertion that the new deal has not met expectations was made by Senator L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, last night at the annual dinner of the Traffic Club of Pittsburgh in the William Penn Hotel.

Declaring the new deal had survived the first year on hope, the Senator said the administration must live on accomplishments the next year or perish. He added:

"Unless confidence is restored, unless private capital re-enters business, the government can carry on only for a limited time.

"If we continue to overspend our earnings, if we continue to live on borrowed money, there is only one answer and that is debt repudiation."

The Senator was introduced by the toastmaster, J. F. Deasy, vice president in charge of operations of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Doumergue Slashes Government Budget

PARIS, March 9.—(AP.)—Premier Doumergue, making the first use of his dictatorial decree powers, slashed 160,000,000 francs ($10,400,000) off the government's expenses today to assure a balanced budget.

The decrees marked the beginning of economies which ultimately are expected to exceed a billion francs before the budget is safely balanced. Savings are to be obtained by paring expenditures in various departments, including numerous subsidies.

Young Roosevelt Heads Political Club

BOSTON, March 9.—(INS.)—James Roosevelt, son of the President, today headed a new political organization, the Democratic Club, made up of state legislators and city councillors.

The view of the organization was to promote greater harmony in the Democratic Party during the next state election. After the meeting last night, young Roosevelt left for New York and Washington.

U. S. Collects 12 Cents Overpaid to Admiral

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Uncle Sam might have murmured "a penny saved is a penny earned" today as he pocketed a 12-cent "kickback," but it cost the genial old gentleman an extra two-bits to get the dozen pennies back.

It all resulted from airtight economy practiced by federal paymasters abroad who decided to dock a rear admiral 12 cents for overestimate dexpenses.

Last summer, Rear Admiral Richard H. Leigh went to Geneva as naval adviser to the American delegation to the Disarmament Conference. He was listed on the State Department payroll with an allowance of $6 a day for expenses.

On his business-like expense voucher, the admiral listed his daily allowance from the time his boat was scheduled to dock at Havre—8:30 a. m.

Today, many months later, the admiral was in receipt of a communication from the American paymaster in Paris, solemnly declaring that inquiry has disclosed the ship wasn't docked until 9 a. m. Therefore, the paymaster reports, the admiral was overpaid 12 cents.

Admiral Leigh estimates the correspondence has cost the government 25 cents, but he's going to return the 12 cents regardless. Inquisitive newspapermen have learned, however, the admiral had to defray the cost of 12 formal dinners, which he was expected to give because of his rank and position, and that these functions far exceeding his $6-a-day allowance.

First Lady Eats Lunch With Factory Girls

CAGUAS, Porto Rico, March 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today sat down to lunch with 15 girls—all of them native workers in a tobacco factory.

She ate a special diet prepared by the girls themselves in an effort to secure balanced rations to see if those who followed such a diet do more work than the other girls.

There were no especial preparations for the distinguished visitor, who dismissed her motorcycle escort en route here from San Juan and had her chauffeur change his livery for a plain white suit.

Caguas gave the First Lady a vociferous welcome, despite her efforts to avoid display, for the streets were lined with cheering men, women and children.

Mrs. Roosevelt went directly into a factory where 500 women were stripping tobacco.

There were no whispers and almost no motion as she walked along the long aisles of the large, light room.

She asked the manager if the workers really wanted a higher standard of living. He replied that country women were content with their present state.

Mrs. Roosevelt, surveying economic and social conditions in the West Indies, also visited the Munoz Rivera School, a relief administration project, where tuberculosis prevention work is being carried out.

METHODISTS IN CLASH OVER ATTACK ON 'PATRIOTISM'

RITES TO FLAG, U. S. ANTHEM DEFENDED

Pastors Assail Report Hitting Preparedness, 'Gettysburg Speech'

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—(AP.)—Denunciations of nationalism and military training in the schools, contained in a report which the Social Service Comsion made to the Phidalephia Methodist Episcopal Conference, were criticized today by two clergymen attending the session.

The report, which was read last night, protested against what was called the 'growing spirit of jingoism and hyper-nationalism to the point that it has become the religion of nations." It commended college students "who for conscience's sake have refused military training."

DEFENDS PREPAREDNESS

The Rev. James J. Bingham, of the Bickley Memorial Church, declared that "everyone will be in the next war, and a lot of people who are decrying preparedness will be asking the government to protect them". He said:

"The next war will be highly technical and it would be slaughter not to train our youth for it. We know that nothing can be substituted for an adequate defense when war comes."

The Rev. J. Wesley Baer, of Summit Hill, said if the United States had been prepared in 1917, Germanuy would have been afraid and this country would not have been compelled to declare war.

The report under fire today had asserted:

"Nationalism has become intensified and in many instances has become the religion of the nation.

"It erects its own God. Its chief symbol of faith and central object to worship is the flag with its curious liturgical forms and attitudes, to which the child is taught the strictest allegiance.

"The national anthem is listened to with awe in a standing posture and with uncovered head.

PAGAN NATIONAL HOLIDAYS

"Our national festivals—Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day and Armistice Day—vie with the distinctly religious holidays of Christmas and Easter.

"Nationalism has its Holy Scriptures—the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, Washington's Farewell Address, the Monroe Doctrine and Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg, which on the whole are better known to the average boy and girl than the classical portions of the English Bible."

THEOLOGY OF NATIONALISM

The report says public schools are "held strictly accountable for any lapse from the official theology of nationalism" and adds:

"Woe betide the tactless textbook writer who dares to throw the light of honest inquiry upon any glorified legend or myth."

Pointing also to orations and pilgrimages to tombs, the commission finds that such "worship culminates eventually in immoral jingoistic dogma first enunciated by Decatur:

"My country, right or wrong."

'INVITATION TO WAR'

It contrasts the proposed naval appropriation of more than $500,000,000 for warships and fighting planes with "the fact that many public schools are closed for lack of funds." It says:

"This is an invitation to war, not to peace. We may shortly see our sons conscripted for cannon fodder, to the enrichment of the munitions makers."

Earlier in the day the Board of Temperance in its report asserted that the federal administration "cracked the whip" and "wheeled jobhunters into line" against prohibition. It asserted:

"Intoxicating liquor is still liquid damnation despite government indorsement."

Besieging a 'Bad Man'

The news cameras' story of how more than 100 policemen and firemen worked for almost two hours to dislodge barricaded 67-year-old Walter Bevin, Spanish War veteran who seized two 15-year-old girls, stood off besiegers with gunfire from a house in Green Lane, Manayunk, Philadelphia.

DIVORCES WIFE WHO VANISHED WITH PASTOR

Says She Skipped Off With Preacher After Quarantine Romance

International News Service.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 9.—Paul E. Schlottman got neither scarlet fever nor romance, and so, not to be outdone by either his wife or the Rev. James Ingalls, he got a divorce.

It was scarlet fever that Mr. Ingalls was exposed to in the home of Mrs. Schlottman, in Grayslake. But was romance he got.

So today Schlottman is a free man. He was granted a divorce after he explained to Judge Ralph Dady, of Waukegan, that after his wife and pastor got out of quarantine, she skipped away with the pastor.

Mr. Ingalls, who is 27 and handsome, was pastor of the Grayslake Congregational Church. Schlottman is a publisher.

It was really all just a coincidence, as the publisher related the story. Mr. Ingalls called last October to administer spiritual guidance while Schlottman's 3-year-old son, John, was ill. Before the pastor could leave, health authorities had tacked up a scarlet fever sign.

The authorities wouldn't let the minister leave then. When they didn't want him to leave he wanted to and when they wanted him to leave he didn't want to.

On January 19, Schlottman said, Mr. Ingalls gave up his pastorate. Two days later, Mrs. Schlottman left. The publisher told the judge the couple have been living in Chicago—and are not quarantined either.

Schlottman was granted custody of his children, John and Muriel.

KIDNAPING PLOT THWARTED

OTTUMWA, Ia., March 9.—(AP.)—An alleged attempt to kidnap T. Henry Foster, president of John Morrell & Co., was frustrated last night by Foster's son-in-law, Ralph Vernon.

Three men closed in on Vernon as he drove into his garage. His home adjoins that of Foster, and the would-be kidnapers supposedly had mistaken Vernon for the elder man.

Vernon convinced the trio of his identity. Knowing that his father-in-law was away, he directed the men to the Foster home.

The three warned Vernon to remain in the garage for five minutes and left him. At the end of that period, Vernon telephoned a warning to Foster, who was a guest at a home in another section of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster spent the night in a hotel under police guard.

VAMPIRE BITE KILLS BOY

International News Service.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, March 9.—Bitten by one of the large vampire bats which infest Trinidad, an 8-year-old boy died at Arima today.

The boy was sleeping when attacked. Within a few days he was suffering from creeping paralysis. He was ordered to a hospital where physicians who have made a study of the baffling disease resulting from attacks by bats made every effort to save his life.

Only rarely have cases been reported of bats biting human beings. The Trinidad Legislature has annually appropriated large sums to subsidize farmers for waging war on the bats, which have killed thousands of cattle .

Man Kills Bride, Self in Farm Row

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., March 9.—(INS.)—Mrs. Julia Bernell, 40, who eloped from Lawrence, Mass., with Kastantis Bolis, 45, after a secret marriage, was shot and killed today by her bridegroom of a few months, who then turned the gun on himself and committed suicide.

Authorities concluded that the fatal shooting had come after an argument over the ownership of a farm near here.

BERLIN RIOTING BANS FILM

International News Service.

BERLIN, March 9.—Future exhibitions in Berlin of the film "Catherine the Great" were prohibited today, as a result of demonstrations last night.

The film, an English production, features Elizabeth Bergner, an exiled German Jewish actress, and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

A mob of men staged a demonstration outside the Capitol theater, shouting "no Jewish films" and hurling eggs and other missiles at signs advertising the picture.

Police cleared away the crowds, permitting the audience to enter the theater, but the boos and hisses of the crowd inside forced cancellation of the second performance.

PRINCE, BRIDE BACK HOME

BERLIN, March 9.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. Sigvard Bernadotte, the former Prince Sigvard, of Sweden, and his commoner bride, arrived today at the Zoo Station from Hook of Holland. Only the bride's family chauffeur and a girl friend greeted them.

The former Prince, who lost his title by marrying the blonde actress, Erika Patzek, looked bright and happy. He assisted Erika out of the train.

She wore a simple navy blue dress, a gray traveling cloak, and a blue hat. Bernadotte was in gray, with a brown soft hat. The bride carried a bunch of white violets which she told her girl friend had been given her in London "for luck." They mixed with the other train passengers in the station and drove off in the Patzek car quite simply.

POISON HINTED IN MAN'S DEATH

The Coroner's office today was investigating the death of James McNerney, 34, of 513 Arch street, who died late yesterday in Allegheny General Hospital.

He was taken to the hospital after his mother found him early yesterday lying in the doorway of his home. Deputy Coroners Stanley Guzenski and John McQuade said that physicians told them the man showed symptoms of having been poisoned.

Late Wednesday night McNerney left home with two men, the mother told police. Early yesterday, when she answered the doorbell, she found him slumped in the doorway.

Unable to revive him, Mrs. McNerney summoned North Side police, who took him to the hospital. The body was later taken to the morgue, where an autopsy was performed by Dr. J. W. McMeans, Coroner's physician. He announced that he would confer today with the Coroner on his findings.

Engineer Blamed For Train Wreck

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(INS.)—The collision between two passenger trains on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad at Java Junction, S. D., on December 22 last, was caused by the failure of Engineer Champlin properly to control the speed of his train approaching a meeting point, the Bureau of Safety of the Interstate Commerce Commission reported today.

The accident resulted in the death of two persons and the injury of 52 others.

SKELETON FAN, NUDE DANCERS SHOCK N. Y.

Police Launch Cleanup Of Vulgar 'Sights' In Cabarets

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Was his face red?

He was a young, weather-tanned policeman assigned to gather evidence against the many night clubs along Broadway which are featuring the lewd, the nude and the indecent.

After what he saw last night his face was still the color of an overripe tomato today.

Here are some of the things he saw and heard in the line of duty:

A pretty girl performer singing an endless song in which every word known to vulgar profanity was used.

A Negro mandolin player leaning over to whisper the verses of an obscene song into the ears of women guests. Sometimes the singing was by request and other times it was uninvited. The male escort of the woman guest was generally left out of the "entertainment."

CHORUS IN THE NUDE

"Strip acts"—singles, doubles and in one case a mass discarding of clothes by a chorus of 12 girls.

A fan dance by a naked dancer. The fan was a skeleton fan.

A "flirtation" act between a Negro and a beautiful young white girl.

An indescribable revue entitled, "It Gets Hotter and Hotter."

The soliciting of money from patrons by entertainers.

PATRONS SHOCKED

A score or more of summonses have been handed out to managers and proprietors of night clubs and cabarets by plainclothes policemen. They call for their appearance at hearings to be started next Wednesday by Second Deputy Police Commissioner Harold L. Allen.

The investigation of the entertainment spots was the result of many complaints received from shocked patrons.

If found guilty of charges of conducting an indecent type of entertainment, night clubs and cabaret owners are subject to revocation or suspension of licenses.

JOHN D., STILL GOLF FAN

International News Service.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 9.—Illness may have forced John D. Rockefeller, Sr., to forego his daily round of golf, but his enthusiasm for the game has not dimmed.

The 94-year-old retired emperor of oil, on the few occasions in which he has emerged from the seclusion of his winter estate here since his arrival several weeks ago, invariably has motored to the Ormond Beach Golf Course to watch other golfers.

Rockefeller is convalescing from an influenza attack to which he fell victim early in the winter. Members of the household said it is doubtful whether he will be able to resume his golf this year.

Although considerably improved, the aged financial genius is feeble and must be assisted in and out his car when he goes for an afternoon ride.

Judge Threatened For Probe Demands

DES MOINES, Ia., March 9.—(INS.)—Twice threatened with death because he instructed a grand jury to probe charges that Des Moines is a "hideout" for notorious criminals, District Judge Frank S. Shankland was being closely guarded today by deputy sheriffs.

Court Postpones M'Clure Hearing

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—(AP.)—Judge Joseph Buffington, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, today had ordered the hearing on the appeal of State Senator John J. McClure and 58 others convicted of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law, postponed until March 19.

The hearing, before a full bench, had been scheduled for next Monday. Judge Buffington said he postponed the case because of the illness of his colleague, Judge Victor B. Woolley.

Helen Morgan Signs For Dramatic Role

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP.)—Helen Morgan, blues singer of musical comedy and night club fame, signed a contract yesterday to become a dramatic actress. She will appear in "Memory," written by Myron Fagan, who also will direct.

Miss Morgan leaves next week for Los Angeles, where the play will have its premier on April 23. It will open on Broadway in September.

P. O. WORK HIT BY ELLENBOGEN

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—Representative Ellenbogen (Dem.), of Pennsylvania, charged today that "negligent and slipshod work generally," or the poor quality of the stones were responsible for cracks and fissures which he said have developed in the stone and granite facing of Pittsburgh's new postoffice building.

In a letter to Rear Admiral Christian Joy Peoples, director of the Treasury Department's procurement division, Ellenbogen said he felt sufficient time had elapsed to determine whether low temperatures have had any effect on the structure, as contended. He wrote:

"I might say at this time, after considerable investigation, it would seem to me that neither the heat of the summer nor the cold of the winter are the ultimate cause of the cracks and fissures. These cracks seem to be due in the last analysis to faulty bedding of the stones, to negligent and slipshod work generally, or to the poor quality of the stones and blocks."

Ellenbogen requested that immediate action be taken to fix responsibility for the defects, have them corrected and to protect the government against loss.

CONGRESSMAN'S TRIAL DELAYED

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—Trial of Representative Shoemaker, of Minnesota, on a charge of assaulting a taxicab driver was deferred today until next Thursday, after the Congressman had served notice he would contest the case.

Shoemaker told Judge R. I. Hitt, in District of Columbia Police Court, that he had employed his colleague, Representative Cannon, of Wisconsin, as his counsel but that the latter could not appear today owing to his wife's illness.

Cannon formerly served as counsel for Jack Dempsey and defended "Shoeless" Joe Jackson in the famous 1919 "Black Sox" baseball scandal.

After six hours of waiting and searching, two detectives arrested Shoemaker last night as he stepped from his office in the House Office Building. The warrant was sworn out by Charles Newman, who asserted that when he failed to start his taxicab quickly at a traffic light, Shoemaker ran into him and then knocked him down as he got out to remonstrate.

Shoemaker once served a term in Leavenworth. He recently had a row with a neighbor, who complained to the police later that Shoemaker struck him in the face.

Boy Truant Spends Day In Coal Bin

Eleven-year-old William Cain, a sixth grade pupil at St. Boniface School, North Side, left his home at 1626 Howard street yesterday morning without apparent concern.

His arms were full of books. He had just bade his mother, Mrs. Catherine Cain, goodby. Although his last month's report card was not up to his usual high standard, the only parental warning was that his principal "would be called."

"Bill" didn't think so much of his marks either, because he neglected to bring them home. They came through a classmate.

Early last night, when he had not returned home, his mother became concerned and notified police. Investigation disclosed he had not been to school. Several hours later, his uncle, William Cain, 22, went down to the cellar of the home.

There, resting contentedly, with the same armful of books, was the young truant. His face was just the opposite of "clean" and his clothing showed signs of dirt.

He said he had climbed into the coal bin in the cellar a minute after he had closed the front door yesterday and had remained there since.

Hitler Falls in Love With Egyptian Queen

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service.

BERLIN, March 9.—"I have fallen in love with this Egyptian queen and I cannot give her up."

That, in effect, was what Chancellor Adolf Hitler told Dr. Eberhard von Stohrer, Germany's minister to Egypt, it was learned today.

The queen from whom Germany's bachelor Chancellor declared himself unable to separate, is the exquisite Egyptian beauty, Nefertiti, now resident in the Berlin Museum.

Three years ago Egypt demanded the return of the sculptured head of the ancient Egyptian queen. When the German government refused, Egypt severed "archaeological relations" with the Reich.

Ever since that time, Hassan Nachat Pasha, Egyptian minister to Germany, has worked unremittingly to get the German government to restore 3,500-year-old Nerfertiti to her people.

Dr. Von Stohrer, it is understood, recently pleaded for more than an hour with the Chancellor. Hitler is said to have told his envoy he appreciated the difficulty in which the Cairo legation had been placed, but added:

"I have fallen in love with that beautiful head and cannot surrender it, much as I would like to oblige the Egyptians by giving back their ancient queen."

COUNCIL DOOMS MAGEE MOVE TO CUT PAY

With Council rejecting a 10 per cent salary cut for higher-paid city employes, and taking no action on a proposal to cut their own salaries 16⅔ per cent, prospects appeared dim for any far-reaching economies in the city budget.

Action on the pay cut for Council and other city officials whose salaries are set by law is expected later, however.

Meanwhile, Council is having prepared an appropriation bill which they believe will make it possible for them to accomplish the plan of staggering work among employes and not require any change of rules of the Civil Service Commission.

MAGEE MOVES FOR CUTS

The Commission has refused to make any change in its regulations and the opinion of Council is that the division of work can be accomplished by another method.

Both pay cut motions were made by Magee. Declaring that the budget must be reduced if the city government is to carry on during the present year, he pointed out that the one place left in the budget that will stand cutting is in the higher salaries.

His first motion was to reduce by 10 per cent all salaries and wages over $1,200 with the exception of laborers, the workers who are to be staggered and the salaries set by law. He added:

"If the first motion prevails, I will then move to reduce the appropriation for the statutory salaries 25 per cent."

COUNCILMEN CLASH

The debate became a sharp clash between Magee and John J. Kane. The latter lashed at "efficiency engineers," who he charged with responsibility for bringing about unprecedented unemployment. He said:

"I intend to give every moment of my time to the work of Council. I don't consider it a part-time job."

He accused Magee of talking in theories and being "academic," which Magee angrily denied.

Councilman Charles Anderson said:

"We have the money. I think it should be paid to the employes up until the time we're broke."

Magee replied that Council is entrusted to run the government in the interest of the public.

OPPOSED SLASH

Robert Garland stated that while he had voted against raising salaries for the employes receiving $1,500, he would not vote for reducing salaries. He said many individuals as well as cities are not balancing their budgets.

When the motion for the 10 per cent cut was put, only Magee voted for it. He then moved for a 16 2-3 per cent cut in the appropriations for the officials whose salary is fixed by law, but action was deferred at the suggestion of P. J. McArdle until Council acts on the appropriation bill.

UNDERTAKERS, of whom some prefer to be called "morticians," will read with mixed feelings of sympathy and admiration about the suicide of Andrew Mearkle, rich Philadelphia manufacturer.

Mr. Mearkle studied efficiency, knew the importance of service. He stepped into a taxicab, directed the driver to take him to an undertaking establishment, blew his brains out on the way, and was all ready when the taxi reached the undertaker.

Council Probes House Permit On City Ground

City Council has ordered an investigation of the home-making activity, approved by Mayor McNair, which has resulted in a cottage being started on a city lot near the county jail.

The model dwelling, being erected on property at Diamond and Forbes streets and Sixth avenue, which cost the city $33 a square foot, is referred to about city hall as the "Harrison R. McCready memorial."

AUTHORITY MYSTERY

Where the authority came from to start work on the city property is more or less a mystery, but Mayor McNair has stated that he approved the project.

The issue was a subject for serious debate in Council yesterday, after Councilman P. J. McArdle introduced a resolution to request the City Solicitor to find out by what authority permission was granted private interests to build on city land.

The rare spectacle of Councilman William A. Magee defending one of Mayor McNair's "pet schemes" developed from the controversy. McArdle, in presenting the resolution, said:

"I doubt if even Council by ordinance has authority to grant a permit to put a building on this property."

CIVIC ORNAMENT

Magee replied that the ground was not in use; that the building would serve to demonstrate the possibilities of housing of that type; that it was not a fire hazard in that spot, and would serve as a civic ornament.

McArdle called attention to the traffic hazard of a building shutting off the view of motorists. He added:

"And they will stop there. They won't pass by as if it were a monument to some home-making pioneer."

Magee and Thomas J. Gallagher voted against the resolution.

CITY MAY PROBE RADIO REPAIRS

A councilmanic investigation of the contract which the Barton Auto Radio Corporation has held for servicing city police radios looms as a result of hearings started by Controller James P. Kerr.

Although Mayor McNair has not yet signed the contract for 1934 and has suggested that all bids be thrown out and new specifications prepared, the Barton corporation has carried on under its old contract and payment for the service rendered this year will require special action by Council.

The Barton corporation has been accused by a competing firm, the Aircraft Radio Products Company, of overcharging the city for radio parts.

Attorney Leonard Mazer, for the Barton Corporation, has insisted that his clients be given a chance to be heard in their own defense. Controller Kerr had suggested dropping the hearings in view of the Mayor's action. If new bids are not authorized, another hearing will be held Tuesday, Kerr said.

Dewey Invades M'Closkey's Town

EBENSBURG, Pa., March 9.—(AP.)—Avoiding any extensive discussion of politics, Secretary of Internal Affairs Philip H. Dewey has invaded the stronghold of Mayor Eddie McCloskey of Johnstown, the man who seeks his job.

Dewey as speaker at a dinner in his honor last night, stressed the importance of confidence to bring about national recovery and advocated an industrial program to further the interests of business. The Secretary remarked that he already had announced his candidacy for re-election. He is a Republican. McCloskey is seeking both the Republican and Democratic nominations.

M'NAIR DENIES HE WILL OUST SMITH

Mayor McNair has declared he will not ask Director of Public Safety Ralph E. Smith to resign.

Director Smith has declared he will not resign.

And Director of Supplies W. R. Dunlap, slated to be named to Smith's place, according to reliable sources, had nothing to say yesterday as a growing cloud of uncertainty shrouded the safety directorship.

COUNCIL POLLED

It was learned that members of Council had been polled on their willingness to confirm Dunlap and that the indications were favorable to the Director, a Republican holdover, who cleaned up the department after the scandal that swept Mayor Charles Kline out of office.

A rumor that efforts were being made to prevail on Smith to resign was widely circulating at City Hall.

Frequent conferences between Smith and McNair and McNair and Dunlap marked the hectic day. In the afternoon Smith and Dunlap entered McNair's conference room together.

But, whatever the negotiations, they apparently ended in deadlock. Smith remained Safety head and Dunlap Supplies head, and no official announcement of change in the status quo was forthcoming.

DENIAL BY M'NAIR

The Mayor, however, stated that he had not asked Smith to resign, nor asked anyone else to ask him. If matters ever went that far, he declared, he himself would make the request.

Both Dunlap and Smith are personal friends of the Mayor.

The storm clouds broke over Smith's head when, following a shakeup in which 20 detectives were discharged, he fired Police Supt. Ben R. Marshall. Marshall was promptly sworn in again by the Mayor.

It is reported that the demotion of Frank R. Boyd, in the general shakeup, from inspector to captain of detectives, has proved of considerable embarrassment to Smith.

BANKS FOR CITY FUNDS NAMED

Council has approved the Colonial Trust Company, the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, and the Union Trust Company as depositories for active accounts of city moneys. A list of banks for inactive accounts, drawing 1½ per cent interest, was also approved.

The action was taken at the request of Mayor McNair, who wanted a confirmation of the banks selected by himself, City Treasurer James P. Kirk, and Controller James P. Kerr. Councilman P. J. McArdle presented the resolution.

Dunlap Bid Rule Brings in Taxes

The city is going to get $300 a month in delinquent taxes as the result of an announcement by Director of Supplies W. R. Dunlap that bidders with their taxes paid up will get preference when bids are equal.

Dunlap said he had been informed by a large supply firm here that its board of directors had voted to pay $300 monthly on back taxes following his new ruling.

Judge Richardson Honored at Banquet

More than 300 men and women, including Allegheny County judges and members of the District Attorney's office, last night honored County Judge Joseph A. Richardson at a banquet sponsored by the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, North Side. Judge Richardson is superintendent of the Sunday school of the church and teaches a class of boys.

MARTIN KEEPS HAT FROM RING

General Says Time Not Ripe for Candidacy

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 9.—While the Washington County Democratic Committee was lambasting his party at a scheduled rally, Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, returned to his home here last night and declined for the present to throw his hat into the gubernatorial ring.

Declaring party solidarity was the first need, the General said the present was not the right time to become a candidate for Governor.

Meanwhile, Joseph F. Guffey, a Democratic candidate for United States Senator, was speaking, urging opposition to the Republican party and urging the voters to throw more clods on its grave. He said:

"Let us add a few more clods and a few more shovels of earth and bury still deeper the remains of that which symbolizes those generals of greed and those marshals of materialism that we interred in November, 1932."

Then he added that the Republican party wasn't dead at all at the present time. He said it has been playing possum, stating:

"One year ago it was dead—at least as dead as anything can be that is breathless, bloodless and brainless."

He continued to lambast the Republicans, referring to the Mellons, the Grundys and the Reeds as the specter of the Bourbons of yesterday. Later he made apologies for his party. He admitted it made mistakes, that it sometimes elects the wrong man to public office.

Apparently referring to Mayor McNair, Guffey said:

"Do not lose faith if some officeholder should fail to measure up to his responsibilities. . . . We will, perhaps, at times elect the wrong man to public office and perhaps often be on the unpopular side of a public question."

Gen. Martin returned home after a tour of the state and a trip to the national capital sounding out the sentiment as to the choice of candidates to be supported by the organization in the primary.

He asserted Senator Reed was conducting his campaign independently, but added:

"We will aid him, of course."

G. O. P. Not Dead, Playing Possum, Guffey Says

Boroughs to Vote On Consolidation

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 9.—Citizens of Roscoe and Elco will vote on consolidation of the two boroughs at the primaries, May 15. The merged community, if authorized by a majority vote of both boroughs, will be known as Roscoe with a population of 2,600.

REED ASSAILS MACKEY MOVE

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—(AP.)—Plans for United States Senator David A. Reed's campaign for renomination were discussed last night at a private dinner given in his honor by Col. Vincent A. Carroll, Assistant District Attorney.

Presence of Judge Harry S. McDevitt, of the Philadelphia Common Pleas Court, at the dinner gave rise to reports of a possible tie-up of the candidacies of Reed and McDevitt, the latter for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Senator Reed criticised the efforts of former Mayor Harry A. Mackey to get Mayor J. Hampton Moore to enter the senatorial race, saying:

"As I read the situation, Mackey is acting for Gov. Pinchot. He is simply trying to get another candidate in the field who would split my vote."

The Senator said he would formally announce his candidacy some time next week.

NEW P. O. CHIEF IN M'KEESPORT

J. B. Hershey, postmaster of McKeesport for 12 years, stepped out of office yesterday and John J. Haughey, Democratic chairman of McKeesport for 16 years, was to take over the job today.

Haughey, recommended for the position by County Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence, received word of his appointment from Postmaster General Farley yesterday.

Hershey resigned Monday.

For the past 49 years Haughey has been employed in the National Tube Works at McKeesport.

Mrs. William Webb, 60, of 5610 Donson way, died in the St. Francis Hospital today from a fractured skull suffered when she fell on steps of the soldier's monument at Butler street and Penn avenue, Wednesday, the Coroner reported. She was running for a street car at the time, the report stated.

Tips On Cooking Veal

In recent years veal has increased enormously in popularity, as we have learned new and better ways of cooking it. Many of these ways come from foreign nations such as Italy, Germany, Austria—among whom veal has long been a prized dish. General points to remember about the cooking of veal are:

First, it must be cooked long and slowly, in order to taste best and be most digestible.
Second, it should be cooked with a larger amount of fat than other meats (butter, cream, pork, bacon) because it is in itself so lean.
Third, because its own flavor is so delicate, it can stand high seasoning with such ingredients as onion, garlic, pepper, tomatoes, lemon, vinegar, or wine to sharpen its flavor. Because of its lack of fat, and its high amount of connective tissue, veal must never be roasted at high temperature. And it should be well basted. Let it brown at 375 F. for 10 or 15 minutes. Then reduce heat to 350 F., and roast 20 to 30 minutes to the pound (depending on size of roast) plus 25 minutes extra.

GERMANY SET FOR MODERATE REARMING

GENEVA, March 9.—(AP.)—Disarmament is an illusion, says Germany, hence she is going to re-arm. But in a document published today for the first time, she promised to be moderate.

With disarmament reaching a crisis, the League of Nations issued simultaneously in Geneva, London, Berlin and Paris a collection of all disarmament documents exchanged by those governments.

Revelations through publication deepened pessimism here over prospects of disarmament and concerning the political situation in Europe.

France retorted to Germany that the Reich had already begun to re-arm, in defiance of treaties.

Declaring her readiness to disarm "down to the last gun," Germany maintains disarmament of other European countries hinges on the reduction of armaments in every country of the world, but "nobody believes any longer in the possibility of a general international disarmament."

The United States, as the surest means of keeping Americans out of a European war and to lessen the chances of war, has made considerable contributions to international security, but can make no additional commitments, was the impression in authoritative quarters here.

The document shows that in a memorandum of December 18, 1933, Germany warned France that as heavily armed countries had no intention of disarming or did not feel in a position to do so, Germany "is entitled to obtain in one way or another equality of treatment as regards her own security."

Germany's memorandum, which like a letter of Louis Barthou, new French foreign minister, to Arthur Henderson, president of the World Disarmament Conference February 10, was hitherto unpublished, indicates the tenseness of the disarmament situation.

An encouraging angle was a proposal by Chancellor Hitler for European nations to guarantee an unconditional maintenance of peace by pacts of non-agression. He pledged Germany would "settle amicably any dispute between France and Germany."

BRITAIN DROPS DISARMAMENT

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
Universal Service.

LONDON, March 9.—Definite abandonment by Great Britain of hope that any real world disarmament is possible was indicated in announcement of an $8,250,000 increase in 1934 Army estimates, following increases of millions of dollars for naval and air expansion.

British policy, it is learned by Universal Service, is now predicated on the supposition that Europe and the world are headed for rearmament.

Premier Mussolini, it is learned, bluntly told Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, when the latter was in Rome, that the disarmament conference is a "complete failure," and that the question now is to limit armaments rather than attempt to decrease them. This, it is understood, is the thesis held by Capt. Eden and also by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary.

Germany intends to rearm, whether or not the former Allies grant permission, it is said in high diplomatic quarters. France has no intention of decreasing her present strength, Paris has bluntly told all concerned.

Propaganda for League Court Subsidized in Colleges of America

functions through three divisions, of which that of intercourse and education, according to its director, Dr. Butler, frankly is a propaganda outfit.

Defeated in 1919 in the effort to thrust the United States into the League, those internationalists, with the Carnegie Endowment as their principal prop, began a powerful campaign in American schools, colleges and churches.

Under the guidance of the endowment's intercourse and education division, which Dr. Butler candidly admits is a propaganda outfit, PROFESSORS AND TEACHERS WERE TAKEN TO GENEVA WITH ALL EXPENSES PAID.

There they were imbued with the spirit of the League organization.

There they sponged up internationalist ideas to take back to American campus and classroom.

Not many of these professors have failed to write books and pamphlets favorable to the internationalist propaganda to hurl America into the league and its World Court.

PROPAGANDA CLUBS

One of the greatest forces of the internationalist propagandists among American institutions of higher education are the so-called international relations clubs. They were founded by the Carnegie Endowment, which spent $35,000 on them last year.

In such clubs, students gather around one of the itinerant professors and hear books and pamphlets written by League propagandists. This carefully prepared list of books is usually supplied free to college libraries by the Carnegie Endowment and similar agencies.

BUT THE COLLEGE LIBRARIES SEEM TO CONTAIN LITTLE OR NO INFORMATION on any purely American point of view on the subject. Material to present the ideas of persons opposed to American adherence to the League Court is almost entirely lacking.

PAID AGENT TO TALK

In the year ending in June, 1932, there were 402 international relations clubs and they held 12 regional conferences. One such conference is to be held at Harvard this weekend. Prof. Manley O. Hudson, Harvard law teacher and author of "The World Court," is to address the gathering. Hudson was disclosed in 1930 as being a paid official of the League at Geneva.

Churches, chambers of commerce, women's clubs, Rotary clubs and innumerable other organizations have leaped at the chance to hear speakers furnished by the clubs without charge. Dr. Butler, in a recent report on the club activities, wrote:

"There has been a noticeable growth of the clubs in normal schools. Most of the graduates of these schools will become teachers and come into contact with young people who never reach college."

LEHMAN ASKS ECONOMY IN COUNTY RULE

International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y. March 9.—Enactment of legislation to pave the way for a complete reorganization of county and town government, in the interest of economy and efficiency, was demanded yesterday by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in a special message to the legislature.

After asserting that local government is marked by waste, duplication of functions, inefficiency and useless expense, the governor declared:

"Today the taxpayers demand local government that is businesslike and efficient. Today the taxpayers want economy in local government, not more taxes."

The governor urged adoption of a constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide alternative forms of government for all counties, except those wholly within a city, and for their submission to the voters of the counties.

Any new form of government proposed for a county, under the Governor's plan, could not become operative unless it was first approved by a majority of the voters of the county at a general election. The Governor told the legislators:

"By such a provision a new form of government cannot be adopted in any county without its approval by the people living both in the urban centers and in the rural areas of a county. Thus, my proposal clearly adheres to the principle of home rule. In other words, it is up to the people of each county to decide what its form of government should be."

Gov. Lehman insisted that adoption of his proposal eventually will mean a reduction in taxes.

MELLON POLICY ON TAX BACKED

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—Secretary Morgenthau has a precedent from a Republican predecessor, Andrew W. Mellon, in his advocacy of removal of tax-free labels from federal, state and local securities.

Old-timers at the Treasury recalled that back in 1921, Mellon wrote the House Banking Committee indorsing a constitutional amendment permitting the government a share of the income from exempt obligations. He said:

"The ever-increasing volume of tax-exempt securities represents a grave economic evil, not only by reason of the loss of revenue which it entails to the federal government, but also because of its tendency to encourage the growth of public indebtedness and to divert capital from productive enterprises."

Since that time the federal public debt first declined and then returned to around $26,000,000,000, with more heavy borrowing in prospect.

Like Mellon, Morgenthau told a House committee yesterday he favored income taxation of future issues—whether federal, state, county of municipality.

Model Government Plan For All Counties May Be Voted by New Jersey

Today's article, one of a series being published in the Sun-Telegraph, indicates the trend in New Jersey to modernize local governments. This series of articles is part of the Sun-Telegraph's campaign to reduce governmental costs through elimination of waste and overlapping in governmental services.

The model county government plan, as offered by the National Municipal League, and which was reviewed here several weeks ago, may be given a state-wide tryout in New Jersey. A bill is now before the State Legislature, completely reorganizing county governments. This bill would permit a shift from the present control by various elected officials, to a small county board which functions administratively through a trained county manager, responsible to the board alone.

If the bill is approved, it makes reorganization optional with the voters of any county but makes mandatory a special referendum on the subject whenever a petition signed by 15 per cent of the voters is formally filed with the county clerk. If reorganization is voted for, no election to reconsider it is permitted for six years. If the vote is adverse, the proposal cannot be brought before the voters again for four years.

The move in New Jersey to give the counties home rule is in keeping with the action last November in Ohio. Counties in Ohio now have the right to vote on reorganization of the local governments.

Under the bill in New Jersey, which was presented by State Senator Ely, the county manager is to be selected on the basis of his qualifications and need not be a resident of New Jersey. The manager can be removed only on a resolution signed by a majority of the county board.

The reorganization plan goes into effect eight weeks after its adoption. Six weeks later a general election selects the members of the county board, at large and without party designation. With the election of the county board, the former elective officers are automatically abolished and all appointive offices except those under state control cease to exist.

The county board will vary in size from three members to nine members, depending on the size of the county. The members' salaries will be from $500 in the smaller counties to $3,000 maximum, in the bigger counties. The members serve for three years in overlapping terms and they can be removed by recall election.

Under the Ely bill the county manager is the sole executive authority. He prepares the budget, executes all laws and ordinances, appoints and removes all his department heads and their assistants, negotiates contracts and enforces their conditions. He attends all county board meetings with the right of participating in discussion but without the right to vote.

In plain words the county board maps out the program and the manager sees that it is carried out.

The New Jersey bill was drawn up after a careful study of county governments elsewhere in which experts of national standing were consulted.

Single Tax Topic For Moritz Speech

Mayor McNair's secretary, Attorney Theodore L. Moritz, was to speak at the Henry George Club's luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce at 12:15 p. m. today. His subject is "Controversial Aspects of the Single Tax."

TAX PAYMENTS UP IN DETROIT

DETROIT, March 9.—(AP.)—There were plenty of smiles at city hall today. Some of the more optimistic bookkeepers looked forward to the day when they can discard their bottles of red ink and announce that Detroit is "out of the hole."

The optimism resulted from the announcement of Deputy City Treasurer Albert E. Cobo that Detroit's deficit has been cut in half. Instead of the estimated 18 million dollars deficit, the amount on the wrong side of the ledger will be nearer nine million dollars, he said. An unexpected influx of tax payments is the cause.

At one time city officials foresaw a deficit of $18,200,000 by June 30, but a series of happy events changed all that. First of all, business and employment took a decided spurt, then the City Council offered substantial inducements to delinquent taxpayers and finally the city budget was drastically reduced. The result is that more than two million dollars in unanticipated tax receipts is reposing in the city's coffers.

W. VA. HOUSE, SENATE SPLIT ON TAX PLAN

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 9.—(AP.)—Another $10,000,000 revenue program, radically changed from the one sponsored by Gov. Kump and passed by the House, is ready to come before the Senate, with a strong opposition already aligning against it.

The program, reported out by the Senate Finance Committee yesterday by the close vote of 9 to 8, calls for a three per cent consumers' sales tax, a 20 per cent luxury tax on tobacco and a 20 per cent increase in existing levies on utilities and other corporations.

The Governor's measures provided a two per cent sales tax, a 20 per cent luxury tax on candy, bottled drinks and amusements as well as tobacco and a 60 per cent surtax on utilities and other businesses.

The Finance Committee's proposals come before the Senate Monday, both House and Senate having adjourned yesterday until that day.

The Senate program was brought out of committee through the vote of Senator Herold, of Braxton County, who said, however, he would oppose the measure.

That the two Houses probably will be thrown into a deadlock over the two programs was indicated by Speaker Hiner, of the House of Delegates. He said he believes the House will reject the Senate plan.

Herold proposed as an alternative a net income tax and a depletion tax on natural resources.

WHAT TAXES FORM INCOME DEDUCTION

Personal Property Levy for 1933 Exempt

This is the eleventh of a series of articles explaining the proper procedure in making out income tax returns.

Taxes form an important deduction from gross income on many income tax returns. Taxes on real estate and personal property paid during 1933 are deductable. So-called taxes, which are assessed for local benefits, such as streets, side walks, drainage and other improvements are not deductible since they increase the value of the property. The federal income tax may not be deducted.

Customs duties paid by a person on articles imported for his own use are deductible. Admission taxes are deductible but the taxpayer must show that an account has been kept. Taxes on club dues also are deductible.

The tax on electrical energy furnished before September 1, 1933, is deductible, but after that date it ceased to be deductible. Other deductions include taxes on telephone calls, radio messages, telegrams and on checks.

Automobile and drivers' licenses are deductible but the Pennsylvania and Federal gasoline taxes are not deductible.

Interest paid on either personal or business indebtedness also is allowable. On the other hand, interest received is considered as income and is taxable.

New taxes in 1933 include the Federal excise tax withheld on dividends by corporations. This is deductible by the dividend recipient who should report the entire dividend, not excluding the tax which has been withheld as gross income.

Charitable contributions are deductible when they are made to a corporation, trust, community chest, fund or foundation operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. Contributions made to churches, whether in the form of outright gifts, pew rents, dues or assessments, are deductible.

Gifts to an individual are not deductible. The deduction for charitable purposes is limited to 15 per cent of net income, exclusive of the contributions.

The cost of operating an automobile used exclusively for business purposes is deductible. If it is used exclusively for pleasure it is not deductible. If an automobile is used partly for business and partly for pleasure the cost of operation may be deducted in proportion to the time it is used for business. For instance, if a car is used 75 per cent of the time for business and 25 per cent of the time for pleasure, 75 per cent of the cost may be deducted. The purchase price of an automobile may not be deducted.

Traveling expenses for business may be deducted but the taxpayer is required to attach to his return a statement showing the nature of the business, the number of days away from home and the total amount spent for meals and lodging, and the total amount of other expenses. Tips, in reasonable amount, are allowable.

Store for Children To Open Tomorrow

The Children's Store, catering exclusively to the needs of children from infancy to 14 years of age, will be opened tomorrow at 330 Fifth avenue. The success of such an establishment in New York has encouraged the local management, it announces, to make elaborate preparations for a gala opening. Free souvenirs for children will be given to each child accompanied by an adult.

MEDICAL COSTS REVEALED BY RESEARCH

By KATHERINE GRANTHAM
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Dr. I. S. Falk, authority on costs of medical care, said today:

"Princess Mdivani, Woolworth heiress, will probably spend an average of $80,000 annually, during her life, for medical attention.

"And Mary Smith, dime-store salesgirl, will pay doctors and dentists an average of about $20.80 a year."

Dr. Falk's comparisons of medical costs for individuals of varying incomes are the result of his researches throughout the United States. The study was made for the Milbank Memorial Fund, whose annual report was released today.

Dr. Edgar Sydenstricker, director of public health activities of the fund, pointed out that medical costs worry neither the city poverty-stricken classes, who get free hospitalization and medical services, nor the wealthy. He added:

"Medical costs are a back-breaking burden on the low-salaried white-collar classes."

He advocated nationwide medical insurance for wage earners and the middle classes.

MEDICAL TOTAL LOW

Dr. Falk declared tobacco, liquor, ice cream and soft drinks cost Americans $1,200,000,000 a year more than medical attention. He added:

"That comparison is not alarming, either. We spend enough on medicine when we spend $3,666,000,0000 a year for it, the doctors and nurses to administer it, and hospital services.

"We don't spend that money intelligently. The average American spends 4 per cent of his income for medical care. Reputable medical attention, patent medicines, quack doctors, cost about $26 annually per person.

"Yet the attention is not adequate. The bill would be only $27 to $28 annually, for adequate care, if the plan we advocate were put into effect."

Specific proposals for health insurance, similar to that in effect in England and in Germany, will be published by the Milbank Fund executives in the fall.

It calls for co-operation of government, employer and wage-earner in systematic weekly savings so that the burden of caring for the sick will be distributed.

FUND PLAN DRAFTED

Government costs will not be increased by the plan, Dr. Falk declared. Government funds already provided would be administered in a different but no more expensive fashion. Doctors would be sure of receiving a definite income, even in times of depression, if the plan were in effect, he said, adding:

"Already similar insurance plans now cover about 2,500,000 of our population. Every year 47.1 per cent of us have no illness. Five or more illnesses annually are the lot of 7 per cent of our population. Health insurance would keep the cost distributed."

HOLDER OF TWO JOBS ASSAILED

District Attorney Andrew T. Park yesterday filed a writ of quo warranto against Henry Lamperski to show by what right he is holding the position of Harrison Township Commissioner, since he is also holding a federal job.

Park asserts Lamperski was elected November 7 as a township commissioner, taking office January 2. January 25, Park says, Lamperski was appointed a deputy collector of internal revenue and stationed at the Schenley distillery. Holding the two offices is illegal under the state Constitution, Park maintains.

Judge William H. McNaugher fixed a hearing for March 26.

U. S. TO MAKE RUM, RIVAL 'WHISKY RING'

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Using the government-owned Virgin Islands as a proving ground, President Roosevelt is launching a program of government participation in business which may eventually be tried out in the United States.

At the President's orders, and backed with a million dollars initial capital, the United States is setting up a government monopoly of all Virgin Island industries, in which the native workers will share 50 per cent of the profits.

TO MAKE RUM

Studies are under way in Porto Rico, adjoining the Virgin Islands, preliminary to trying a similar setup there as a solution for Porto Rico's economic distress.

Government business ventures in the United States proper, based on developments in its West Indian proving grounds, will be confined to a possible government cement industry, to offset what Secretary of Interior Ickes and other presidential advisers consider is a monopoly in that business, and to establishment of certain industries among tribes of the Indian Territories.

Government-manufactured Virgin Islands rum will be on the American market this fall, according to present plans, as the first challenge to an American industry, which in this instance is the "whisky ring" blamed by government officials for high prices and poor liquor.

RULING SOUGHT

The first scene of any government business establishment on a large scale probably will be the Tennessee Valley. This would be apart from encouragement of municipally owned utilities such as light and power, being financed by public works funds in certain areas.

An opinion has been asked of the Attorney General as to the legal phases of the initial set-up in the Virgin Islands.

Originating with Oscar Chapman, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, in collaboration with Gov. Paul Pearson, of the Virgin Islands, the plan was approved by the President.

4 HELD, 14 PAY FINES FOR RUM

Eighteen alleged state liquor law violators, arraigned for hearings before Alderman Raymond E. Schneider last night, were fined or held for court. Informations had been preferred by W. H. Beachy, Pittsburgh representative of the Bureau of Revenue.

Those held for court were Michael Marmokas, of 17 Kirkpatrick street; Richard Easton, 1009 West Warrington avenue, and Charles Sargat and Albert Darges, both of 107 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks.

Those fined $25 and costs were Marcus Somin, of 1703 Progress street; Anton Doshek, 1200 River avenue; John Krotec, 4805 Harrison street; Jake Dzelalia, 1128 Progress street; Mrs. Barbara Maricich, 207 Pindham street; James Fenton, 4 Bigbee street; Thomas Hirshberger, 173 Steuben street; John Darges, 107 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks; John Milewski, Pittsburgh street, Cheswick; Pete Zalesky and Jake Battistone, both of Cuddy, Pa.; Raymond Skalski, 1206 Main street, Sharpsburg; A. Halushchak, 1111 Bingham street, and Steve Bielski, of 1705 East Carson street.

Police Trace Pipes In Raid on Still

Tracing gas pipes that led from a 100-gallon still confiscated in an early morning raid on a vacant dwelling at 3407 Ligonier street, police arrested Mike Caruso, 39, of 3409 Ligonier street, on a charge of violating the state liquor laws.

Police said that, although no one was in attendance when they smashed in the door of the dwelling to find the still in operation and a quantity of moonshine whisky, pipes which operated the still led to Caruso's gas meter next door.

Falls on Icy Street Injures Pedestrians

John L. Smeyres, 63, of 523 Columbo street, was in a serious condition in St. Francis Hospital today as a result of a fall on slippery pavements at Penn avenue and Main street last night.

Slipping on the sidewalk at Brushton avenue and Frankstown avenue early today, Lawrence Morra, 36, 8121 Conemaugh street, was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital with a leg injury, police reported.

LIQUOR PRICES IN PENNA. HIT

HARRISBURG, March 9.—(AP.)—Complaints that Pennsylvania has boosted the price of liquor to an unreasonable level and that better intoxicants are for sale in other states were made yesterday by Philadelphia liquor dealers.

Neil Bonner, president of the Philadelphia Retail Liquor Dealers' Association, told the Control Board the present situation is causing restaurant and hotel men much grief and loss of trade.

He said the state is charging $2.50 to $3 a quart more than was paid by the public to wholesalers prior to opening of state stores. He cited two brands of whisky which sold for $4.50 to $4.75 prior to January 2 and said the state stores charged $7 a quart for the same brands.

Bonner also protested the closing of state stores at 9 o'clock each night.

He asked that Pennsylvania stores, particularly on Saturday nights, be permitted to remain open until 10:30 or 11 o'clock and until noon on holidays.

JUDGE ASSAILS RUM RAID LAW

HARRISBURG, March 9.—(AP.)—The state's power to "inspect" homes for liquor without warrants was challenged yesterday in County Court in a test case brought by a woman whose home was raided.

The liquor control law was assailed both by Judge William M. Hargest and defense counsel.

The judge asserted "the Legislature has fallen all over itself to pass a revenue measure and has forgotten social justice."

The home of Mrs. Alice N. Miller was raided by city police and revenue agents who had no warrants. They say they found liquor, a still and mash.

Mrs. Miller was arrested and charged with manufacturing without a permit, failing to report and pay a tax, and sell unstamped and unlicensed liquor.

HELEN KELLER INSULT DENIED BY SHAW

International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 9.—George Bernard Shaw did not insult Miss Helen Keller at their historic meeting in London a year ago.

The noted English author made that clear in a letter made public here today by R. Bryson Jones, of Kansas City, a close friend of Miss Keller.

The letter, which was a reply to one written to Shaw by Jones a year ago, declares:

"My own conversation with her was apparently of the friendliest character, and neither I nor anyone else present had the faintest suspicion that she was displeased. We were astounded when we learnt that the newspaper reports, instead of being as we supposed, mere ill natured gossip, were actually based on a statement by Miss Keller herself. I find it difficult to believe she has been rightly interpreted * * *"

APPEARED HAPPY

Declaring that Miss Keller had appeared happy among those present, Shaw added:

"My compliment to her on seeing and hearing so much better than most of her countrymen could not have been misunderstood as an insult by even the stupidest observer (such a brutality would have banished me from decent English society); but I cannot answer for the manner in which it was conveyed to her.

"It is possible Miss Keller may not have fully understood the English social point of honor, which was to avoid any air of sympathizing with Miss Keller as an unfortunate person, and to make her feel as much as possible that she was a highly distinguished visitor and at no disadvantage whatsoever with us."

DIDN'T EXPECT REPLY

The letter to Jones is dated February 19, 1934, aboar' the Rangitane, en route from London to New Zealand.

Jones, commenting upon the letter, said he had great admiration for Shaw, but had never met him. He said:

"It distressed me that such a misunderstanding should be reported between two persons whom I regard so highly. I wrote Mr. Shaw and informed him I believed there had been an error in the report of the incident and would be glad to see it cleared up. I did not expect Mr. Shaw to reply to me personally."

MAN HELD OVER IN NUMBER RAID

Jacob Schwartz, arrested by police yesterday in a raid at 6343 Ebdy street, was held over for investigation today by Magistrate Charles F. Papale in East End Police Court, and six others were discharged.

Capt. Walter V. Kaiser reported seizing numbers pads and adding machines in the raid. Schwartz, who gave his address as 5623 Pocusset street, was arrested three weeks ago in a numbers raid by city detectives.

ROMANO FREE IN SLAYING

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 9.—(AP.)—Frank Romano, of Pittsburgh, is free of the charge of murder in the death of Benjamin Oliver, former mayor of Yorkville.

A jury acquitted Romano last night after deliberating less than an hour. Only two ballots were taken. The first was 11 to 1 for acquittal.

Scattered applause in the court room as the verdict was announced was quickly silenced by Judge J. C. Oglevee.

BEEBE TO DIVE HALF-MILE UNDER SEA

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 9. — A splash of a half-mile beneath the ocean's surface off the coast of Bermuda to study submarine life will be attempted by Dr. William Beebe, skipper of the submarine "Bathysphere," a hollow steel ball, it was announced here today.

The half-mile dive will be financed by the National Geographic Society.

Dr. Beebe, director of the department of scientific research of the New York Zoological Society, will be accompanied by an assistant. The submarine explorer already holds the record for descent—2,200 feet—established during dives in the Bathysphere in 1930 and 1932.

THICK-SHELLED BALL

The Bathysphere is a thick-shelled diving ball, four and a half feet in diameter and weighing two tons. The sphere has windows of fused quartz, so constructed as to withstand the terrific pressure exerted by the water as the ball dives to the depths.

Through these windows, beams of light are projected into the surrounding waters, bringing into view the strange submarine life.

The observers are first sealed into the diving ball, which then is lowered from a barge at the surface. Rubber-inclosed wires afford telephone communication and electric light, and an automatic valve inside the Bathysphere steadily releases an oxygen supply. It has been found impracticable to furnish air from the surface for the observers.

FORMER DISCOVERIES

During Dr. Beebe's descents in 1930 and 1932 a number of forms of sea life not known before were discovered. Many of the strange creatures were found to possess glowing and flashing light organs which help them in their battle for life in the weird blue-black depths.

Dr. Beebe expects to add many new discoveries this year, and with the aid of additional and new apparatus it is hoped to prolong the dives to four and even five hours in order that detailed observations can be made on the wholly unknown activities and habits of deep-sea creatures. As to the possibilities for pushing farther into the sea depths, he has written:

"Next to going to Mars, there seems nothing more exciting or unpredictable."

Had Good Time, Says Count Jailed Over Dog

NEW YORK, March 9.—(INS.)—Count Vasco da Gama, Spanish nobleman and big game hunter, who was discharged from the West Side Jail after serving an eight-day sentence for the killing of a chow dog belonging to one of his neighbors, today had nothing but praise for American prisons and American jailers.

The Count described his brief term behind the bars as "the most splendid time of my life."

He said the food in the jail was excellent and the attendants extremely courteous. He deplored the fact that hardened criminals were confined in "such refined surroundings."

Boy Coaster Hurt In M'Keesport

George Giffin, 19, of 201 Bowman street, McKeesport, is in the McKeesport Hospital today suffering injuries received when his sled struck a bus at Highland avenue and Elm street, McKeesport, last night.

CRIMINAL 'PELT' BOUNTY URGED

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—Representative Randolph (Dem.), of West Virginia, today had called on the country to declare an "open season" on criminals and "offer a rich bounty for their pelts."

In an address prepared for delivery over the radio, Randolph suggested a $50,000 reward for every person killed while attempting to hold up a bank and a $25,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of any bank robber. He said:

"When wild animals become too abundant and destructive to property the state declares open season on them, which means that they are shot at sight by all and sundry persons who enjoy the kill.

"If the open season fails to bring relief, the state then offers a bounty for heads and pelts. Then the fur and feathers begin to fly in earnest.

"This country has reached the place where open season must be declared on criminals."

Truck Demolished In Plunge to Rails

A delivery truck owned by Benjamin Hartman, grocer, of 41 Pius street, was demolished yesterday when it toppled 200 feet over an embankment to the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks.

No Harsh Irritants

OF COURSE, accidents will happen, and it's entirely possible that after you've told one of our saleswomen you don't WANT to be "waited on," that you're "just looking," some other bright and ambitious little "new girl" will step up and ask the same old "Something FOR You?". It's possible, we say. But not probable. And it's only ONE little way in which we try to express our regard for the feelings of our customers. Number two way is the treatment you get when you open an account. Under the excellent tutelage of one Joseph A. White, swarms of beautiful girl assistants appear from nowhere to edit your life story. And what a superb job of condensation they do! What's your name? Where to you live? What other stores are you doing business with? And that, with a reference or two, just about completes the catechism. Finally, when the time to make that inconsequential little payment arrives—weekly or monthly, as you've arranged—and you're a day late—we WON'T have the sheriff on you, no, siree. "Just one happy family," as they say on the "Nort" Side. And what a parade of customers has found that out in the 26 years we've been doing business! And so-o-o-o!—our business is growing—old customers stick, new ones get to like us. Maybe you're still one of the skeptics. In that case why not come in and shop our Four Floors of fashionable, well-bought, right-Priced Apparel—and let your TASTE decide.

P.S.—Not a cent beyond our regular cash prices is required for the use of our Budget Plan.

P.S.S.—Not a purchase, whether 5c or $50, but carries our unqualified guarantee: IF you can buy Harris quality for less than Harris prices, it's YOUR MONEY BACK.

CITIZENS TRUST TO GET LOAN FROM RFC

The bugaboo of a court order holding its methods illegal having been removed, the State Banking Department went ahead today with plans for liquidating closed state banks with the aid of federal loans.

Depositors of the closed Citizens Trust Company of Bellevue will get the benefits of a $316,000 loan from the R. F. C. after having withdrawn an action on which the court order against the Banking Department was based.

DENIES 'TRADE'

Deputy Attorney General David Glick denied the loan was pressed in exchange for the withdrawal of the depositors' suit, but the petition for withdrawal stated the petitioners wished to withdraw to enable the Banking Department to pay a large dividend to the depositors.

It was revealed today that in addition to the granting of a loan to the Bellevue bank, the RFC has granted loans to two closed Blair County banks. Depositors of those banks—the Mountain City Trust Company of Altoona and the Miners and Merchants Deposit Bank of Portage—also have filed exceptions to the accounting of Banking Secretary William D. Gordon.

35 COMPLETE PLANS

Thirty-five restricted banks have been given until June 1 to complete reorganization plans and reopen on a normal basis, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Harrisburg.

Dr. Gordan expressed confidence that all will reopen and said 19 have completed sound plans of reorganization and should reopen on a normal basis within 30 days. These included the Brentwood State Bank, the McKees Rocks Trust Company, the Hazelwood Savings and Trust Company, the West End Savings Bank and Trust Company and the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of Sharpsburg.

13 GIVEN APPROVAL

Dr. Gordon said plans of reorganization of 13 other banks have been approved and are obtaining necessary depositor, creditor and share-holder approval. They include the Ohio Valley Bank, of Pittsburgh.

The Braddock Trust Company, one of the three remaining banks operating on a restricted basis, has made progress in reorganization plans, Dr. Gordon said, and its program is awaiting final approval of the Banking Department.

Marconi Defends 'Machine Age' Before Il Duce

ROME, March 9.—(AP.)—Man is ungrateful to a benefactor when he lays his woes to the machine, says Guglielmo Marconi. The wireless wizard and famed scientist told Premier Mussolini that last night in a speech that won much attention today in the Fascist press.

"Man's sheer selfishness" drew the fire of Marconi is, in the presence of Italy's scientific elect, he gave his report as president of the National Research Council. He said:

"The defective distribution of wealth and resources and, above all, human selfishness, have cheated us of the benefits the machine brought."

The council, he said, will work tirelessly to distribute employment among the people and reduce fatigue through proper utilization of machines.

During the speech Il Duce nodded emphatic approval.

2 Autos, Street Car In Triple Collision

A street car operator and two motorists were given tags to appear in Traffic Court today as the result of an accident in which two persons were injured in Fifth avenue last night, police reported.

Police said that the machine of William Weinheimer, 38, of 310 Climax street, was struck by a street car operated by Fred Paul, of 128 South Twenty-fourth street, when the former pulled from the curb. Weinheimer's machine in turn crashed into another automobile, police said. Two passengers in Weinheimer's machine were treated for minor injuries at Mercy Hospital.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have, Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Woman Who Burned $15,000 Held Insane

SEATTLE, March 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Katherine Pfenninger, 55, wealthy Chicago and San Francisco widow who burned 15 one thousand dollar bills here, and then leaped into Elliott Bay, was committed to a hospital for the insane yesterday.

Judge William G. Long took the action after hearing testimony of policemen that she had told them she burned the money "because people were after her." Dock attendants pulled her from the water February 25.

$25,000 in Bank, He Steals Fowls

SEATTLE, March 9.—(AP.)—With $25,000 in a bank in Portugal, Louis Rogers, 48, a Portugese laborer, went to jail yesterday for three months for stealing chickens.

Rogers told police he had only $2,000 or $3,000 in Portugal, but Detective F. G. Sands said he discovered the amount is worth $25,000 in American exchange. Rogers said he deposited his earnings in the Portuguese bank after one he had funds in here failed.

FIRE COMPANIES APPEAL FOR AID

Two Stowe Township volunteer fire companies were pushing campaigns today for equipment to enable them to answer a fire.

As matters stand, one company had plenty of fire hose, but no truck. The other had a truck, but lacked fire hose.

Not long ago the new township fire chief A. P. Smith ordered the members of the old Independent Company out of their own firehouse, and then established a new company.

Simultaneously, the chief's opponents charge he seized the old company's modern $5,500 pumper. They reclaimed the fire truck and have intimated they would take legal action to recover the firehouse. In the meantime they answer alarms. All they have, however, is the truck. They still owe $2,000 on it.

The other fire company, with headquarters near West Park, has a coal truck full of hose, but no pumper.

Both are appealing to Stowe Township residents for funds to buy new equipment.

DUCHESS, ONCE U. S. GIRL, DIES

ROME, March 9.—(AP.)—The Duke and Duchess D'Arcos will be buried together in Rock Creek Cemetery, Washington, in accordance with their joint wish, it was understood today.

The Duchess, who died last night of pneumonia at 80, was the former Virginia Whitbury Lowry, of Washington. Her husband died six years ago, and burial was at San Sebastian, Spain.

She left a will 15 pages long, in which she gave $1,000,000 to American institutions and other bequests believed to total $500,000. It was learned she left her art collection to the National Art Gallery at Washington.

Funeral services probably will be held here Sunday, after which arrangements will be made to take the bodies of both the Duke and Duchess to Washington.

Pittsburgher Dies In Indianapolis Jail

INDIANAPOLIS, March 9.—(AP.)—A man tentatively identified as Joe Kane, 64, of Pittsburgh, died in the city prison 45 minutes after he had been arrested on a charge of drunkenness last night.

THE JOY OF GOOD TASTE

And good taste is one great pleasure you find in every Lucky Strike, for only the finest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos are used in Lucky Strike . . . and only the center leaves. They are the mildest leaves, the most tender. Every Lucky Strike is fully packed . . . always so round, so firm—no loose ends.

Always the Finest Tobacco and only the Center Leaves

NOT the top leaves—they're underdeveloped—they are harsh!

The Cream of the Crop
"The mildest, smoothest tobacco"

NOT the bottom leaves—they're inferior in quality—coarse and always sandy!

Spiritualist Broadcasts Message

"An Enquiry Into the Unknown" will be made over the WJAS air waves this afternoon at 4:20, when Sir Oliver Lodge, British espouser of spiritualism, broadcasts a message into the great beyond.

Sir Oliver, who has interested himself in spiritual research for several years, will broadcast his message over the American network from London.

While more practical scientists figure that any message the old gentleman may send out to the great spaces would require some thousands of years to reach its destination, it will be interesting to hear it started on its way.

* * *

Lewis James, singing "Ich Liebe Dich," shares the spotlight with Jessica Dragonette during the Rosario Bourdon concert, heard over WCAE tonight at 8 o'clock.

Miss Dragonette's numbers are "Deep in Your Eyes," "Ti Quiero," "Poor Butterfly" and "Can't You Hear Me Calling, Caroline?"

* * *

JAILBREAK

Desperate John Dillinger's escape from jail; Russian Princess Youssoupoff's $2,000,000 damage suit over the film about Rasputin and other highlights in the last week's news are dramatized during tonight's March of Time, broadcast over WJAS at 8:30.

* * *

Giggling Olsen and Johnson are heard over WJAS at 10 p. m. with Harry Sosnick's Orchestra.

* * *

Royal S. Copeland is heard over an NBC network for the second time this week on a WCAE program at 10:30 this evening. Tonight, the radio Senator discusses the Food and Drug Act.

* * *

BARKS, SQUAWKS

Phil Baker, Beetle and Bottle broadcast over KDKA, from behind the counter of a noisy pet shop, tonight at 9:30.

Regretfully, we pass the word along that Phil will play as his accordion solo the overdone "Carioca."

* * *

Arthur Pound, lecturer and author, traces the social consequences of the development of motor transportation, over WCAE at 7 p. m.

* * *

A new violin duo, performing under the names of Kelly-Oyer, will be heard over KQV at 8:30 this evening.

* * *

The Russian Orthodox Choir of Homestead entertains for a quarter-hour on KDKA tonight at 6 o'clock, with Rev. Deacon Gregory Romanoff conducting the group in songs in their native tongue.

Peter Mock, soloist, will sing "Polanka" the national folk song. The choir will sing a special arrangement of "Song of the Volga Boatmen."

Local Highlights On WJAS Tonight

Fran Eichler's band plays "Trees," a special arrangement by Vance Boughner, a member of the band, as the high spot of the 6:15 to 6:45 program.

Variety features—Paul Gannon's songs at 6:45 and Barnyard Frolics at 8.

Late bets—the Allegheny-Four at 11 and Eddie Peyton's band at 11:30.

CWA Band to Play At Sharpsburg Fete

Music by CWA orchestra features the mardi gras and food show to be held at the Northeast Branch of the Y. M. C. A., Sharpsburg, tomorrow evening from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. Mrs. John D. Sholl is in charge of arrangements.

Swimming and life-saving exhibits, articles made by unemployed and by the Mothers' Club will also be shown.

Notes About Radio Stars, Studios

By AIRCASTER

Local talent will get a break in the new "Smile Hour," sponsored by a downtown department store and beginning over KQV Monday morning. The show will run six days a week from 9 to 10 a. m.

Elsie Rutter, Buddy Miller, Dorothy Day and Ted Kaye will appear on the initial program with Herbert Fritsche's orchestra. Other local artists may be drafted from time to time.

The theme tune: "I Wake Up Smiling." (Who wouldn't, at 9 o'clock.)

* * *

Marty Gregor's band and Vern Stern's musicians engage in a musical tug-of-war at a local dance hall St. Patrick's eve.

Marty's men have been entertaining the KDKA listeners; Stern's band playing over WWSW.

They will alternate at the dance.

EASY-LIKE

Nancy Martin is doing a swell job in those 10:45 p. m. programs, playing her own accompaniments, singing a song or two and chatting informally with the listeners.

She does the job alone, even to writing the scripts.

Pretty soon, she'll get around to calling Mr Webber, "Fred."

* * *

I'll take back what I said about those day-time organ-music programs—one of the morning recitals, at least. The playing soured my late-breakfast coffee cream this morning.

* * *

It remains for some one of the stations to introduce a program with real hurdy-gurdy music. Spring's coming, and a hurdy-gurdy in the streets is one of the first harbingers.

* * *

AIR BREAKS

The NBC Red network begins a new series March 16, in which untried talent will be tried out on the network each Friday afternoon.

* * *

A golf tournament at Atlanta, Ga., will be broadcast over CBS March 22, 23, 24 and 25, afternoons. Bobbie Jones is entered in the competition.

* * *

The first of 13 taxicab-sponsored programs, conveying a personal message from the Parmelee System to people of Pittsburgh, was broadcast over WCAE Wednesday night.

The series will be principally musical, with brief talks on service, etc.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The veterans are once more sitting up and taking notice. When they tore off the February page and the March dates stood revealed, many mentally computed the number of days remaining before the bonus from the state of Pennsylvania would be paid to them.

It is no use to call for information about the payment right this moment, but watch the Sun-Telegraph about the first of the next week and listen for a special blast from the Griffith-Globe Trotter veterans' combination.

Lieut. J. Guy Griffith is in Harrisburg attending a special meeting of the state board in charge of veterans' compensation. This board will remain in session tomorrow and the Lieutenant, filled with the last minute decisions on special questions, will be here Monday.

To the Lieutenant, who will probably read this in Harrisburg: Expect you for the noon broadcast Monday, to tell us everything that's new about the payment to veterans.

One case that will be taken up by the board is the question raised by Mrs. T., of Connellsville, whose husband, a veteran, is now in an institution. The board will decide whether Mrs. T. can get the bonus money.

Col. Costello at the Recorder of Deeds office says that they are still furnishing application blanks and aiding veterans to fill them out in his office.

* * *

This is a strange request.

The letter tells of a father out of work, a crippled mother, a 14-year-old boy who wants a guitar.

"I want a guitar so bad," he writes.

I have an idea it would make mother very happy, too, if he had one.

Next time you take a trip up in the attic will you look around?

Veteran Sports Writer on Air

James J. Long, dean of sports writers, gives his weekly review of athletic events over WCAE this evening at 6 o'clock.

The Globe Trotter is heard over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 and 2:15 p. m.

George Seibel broadcasts over WCAE at 6:30 p. m.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Jim Tully has written a history of Haym Salomon for the screen. It is called "Son of Liberty" . . . Haym was the Polish Jew who lent the nation $600,000 and saved the American Revolution . . . Tully did the story with Arch Gaffney . . . Haym began his career at 32 in America. He died at 45 in an English prison from tuberculosis, in poverty . . . All movements in Congress to recognize his merit have failed . . . Although Woodrow Wilson spoke eloquently of Haym . . . A statue was to be erected to his memory —but the World War ended that . . . Congress later refused a medal to be struck, which would have cost $250 . . . Ah, the "ingratitude of Republics!"

President Taft, in 1911, said of Haym: "I did not come here to make a speech—I came to second the motion for a memorial to the Jew who stood by Robert Morris and financed the American Revolution—the friend of Kosciuszko and Pulaski—both of whom have monuments here! (In Washington, D. C.) . . . A man who apparently gave all he had—for he had nothing when he died—or at least there was nothing except what he ought to have collected from the government—which failed him."

If you asked me, the feature I like best in the New Yorker is the profile dep't . . . They are always excellent reports of important people—but most interesting in a long spell was a recent profile about Cardinal Hayes, of New York and St. Patrick's Cathedral . . . He is a grand man, the Cardinal, and the magazine's historian is to be saluted for putting on paper so tender and readable a portrait . . . Not only has Cardinal Hayes the love and respect of his own faith—but of citizens generally throughout the nation.

I recorded the fact that the Mayor of New York was irked by another's rumor that he and his wife intended switching their residence . . . To the snooty section—Park Avenue . . . He wanted it known that he intended doing nothing of the kind . . . Probably because he felt that many citizens who couldn't afford luxury—might be pained by his sudden change in living, etc. . . . Yet, the President of the nation is given a mansion in which to dwell—and the Governors of various states have their official mansions—but the next most important post in the country—Mayor of New York—hasn't one, at all . . . And so I suggest that the Mayor rate an official home—in Central Park . . . That would be one way of solving what to do with the Central Park Cursino.

The reports recently that Herbert Marshall and his wife, Edna Best, were definitely going to get a divorce are not true, according to intimates who dined with the couple only the other night . . . Hollywood gossip had parted the stars—and some of the gazettes here were so informed . . . Willie Howard's comrade, one Sir Joseph Ginsberg, is among the Street's characters . . . Howard has staked the old gent for many, many years—and "carries" him for amusement, it appears . . . Recently, Howard gave Joe a gold pencil—which cost a tidy sum . . . Joe, however, was disappointed . . . "It ain't got no rubber on the end!" he complained. Another character who makes good copy, I think, is the industrious chap who has been a press agent for little money . . . He began his career for a hotel—they paid off with a room and phone service . . . Then he worked for an orchestra which paid him in postage stamps and copy paper and carfares. A night club allowed him to put its name in the gazettes—for which they paid him two meals a day. I encountered him the other night and inquired about his current job . . . He is pressagenting the city's only surviving breadline . . . Still working for coffee and cakes.

One of the better known New York girls returned from Paris last week and she gushed and gooed about her trip to the Eiffel Tower heights . . . "Have you ever been to the top of Al Smith's Empire Building?" one of us asked her . . . She hadn't . . . She never thought of seeing New York, New Jersey and the Sound that way, at all . . . And I suppose many of us here haven't gone to the 103rd story of Smith's tower—but were we in Paris—we'd certainly take in the Eiffel Tower, which is a midget by comparison . . . And so some of us went there the other day—and in two minutes our elevator had reached the top . . . It is indeed, among the thrills I'm glad I finally had . . . Broadway, frixample, with its maze of color—seemed like one of the miniatures they build for the screen . . . The dirty old New York bay—and the liners plodding their way—the three immense bridges that link the boroughs and the endless streams of humanity that appear like insects. It is something to see—and 99 out of every 100 locals who haven't gone there—will probably thank me for noting it now . . . And I suspect so will Alfred E. Smith.

Clark Gable Given Pay Boost

By CINEMA

HOLLYWOOD, March 9.—Clark Gable comes back from a personal appearance tour to find he has had his pay raised. The young man who threw all the American high school girls into a panic, gave extra work to hundreds of policemen, required the employment of extra truant officers, merited, Metro decided, a new contract with a tidy tilt in pay. Box office riots are rare and valuable.

Clark himself has retained his modesty. He attributes his popularity to lucky breaks, says he knows it won't last forever, and wonders why it ever happened at all. When the boys and girls ask him what he's doing with the money, he smiles significantly. They say his New York week alone brought him an extra $20,000, nine for a radio broadcast. And he hasn't a chinchilla overcoat, and the swimming pool isn't being retiled with alternative platinum and green gold. Clark says that in New York he had to pay $3 for breakfast.

Watch John Milian skyrocket. May West, who stipulates that her leading men be "tall, dark an' handsome," has chosen John to be the leering menace in "It Ain't No Sin." And to play menace to Mae, who always seems able to take care of herself, is a strong assignment. "It Ain't No Sin" also will feature George Raft, as the hero.

Hollywood is cautious over kidding Mae over her fanciful birthdate in 1900. Even the superb astrologists out here are confused. If Mae says 1900 it must have been 1900. But the recent publication of "They All Sang" brings to light a remarkable photograph of the great West at the age of 12. As "They All Sang," Edward Macks' colorful reminiscences of the music business, is currently favorite reading, everyone is casting puzzled glances at Mae. She maintains her haughty nonchalance, a remarkable woman, even at the age of 12.

* * *

As the action of "Twentieth Century" takes place on board that train, it is safe to assume that George E. Stone will not be shown in the electric chair in this Columbia production. George E., who has occupied the hot seat in picture after picture, has been cast to support John Barrymore and Carole Lombard in this Hecht-MacArthur comedy hit. He will be featured. Howard Hawks is directing the film, for which Walter Connelly and Roscoe Karns also have been engaged.

* * *

Three totally new faces will appear upon the screen in First National's production of "The Dark Tower." John Eldredge, Barbara Blair and Arthur Aylesworth, all from the stage, have been given important roles.

* * *

When studios begin borrowing a player, that actor can begin to feel a little set up. At the age of 4, Shirley Temple is enjoying the distinction. Under contract to Fox, which expects her to be a sensation in the "Follies," Shirley now has been loaned to B. P. Shulberg for a role in "Little Miss Marker." Educational also will star her in a short comedy.

Shirley has studied singing, dancing, and, apparently, economics. She socks her paycheck right in papa's bank. Temple pere is in a Los Angeles financial institution.

* * *

Cecil B. DeMille doesn't just make a discovery and forget it. He introduced Judith Allen to the screen with "This Day and Age." Now he will present her as Octavia, the wife of Marc, in his production of "Cleopatra." Judith has been studying, these several months, and wants a chance at an ambitious acting role.

Grand Movie In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

There's a new blonde cutie to win your heart in the Fulton. She is Elizabeth Bergner, petite Viennese, and swell actress, who is costarred with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in "Catherine the Great," historical drama made in England by Alexander Korda, the man who turned out "The Private Life of Henry VIII." The photoplay presents a sympathetic picture of the great Catherine of history, and no better actress for this type of treatment could have been chosen than Miss Bergner. As the little German princess elected to be the bride of the unstable Grand Duke Peter, whom she loves, though he neglects and flouts her, a stranger in turbulent court, she makes friends with the audience immediately, and retains it throughout.

The film is slightly mistitled, since it is not a picture of Catherine the empress, but of difficulties of the girl destined to become one of the great rulers. Yet what it is not makes it just as interesting as its positive factors, for one thus escapes views of military turmoil and alleged intrigues that tradition and history impute to the foreigner who became the empress of Russia upon the assassination of her husband after he had succeeded to the throne. The film ends at that point.

In short, it is a picture of a young woman trying to win her husband—and failing. Court plots and counterplots are merely asides, but the picturization of them makes grand display.

Miss Bergner is superb. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is good in an unsympathetic role. Flora Robson, as Empress Elizabeth, who is succeeded by Peter, impresses equally with Miss Bergner.

Kindler to Conduct Concert Tonight

The National Symphony Orchestra, with Hans Kindler, conductor, will make their first appearance before a Pittsburgh audience tonight at Syria Mosque. Arthur Anderson, bass-baritone of the Metropolitan Grand Opera, will be soloist. Mr. Anderson is a former Pittsburgher.

'Blooming Basement' Open Tonight

Jean Gros, local impresario and puppeteer, announces that Armand Rochefoucauld, French director of intimate continental rooms, it to open "The Blooming Basement" in the Schenley Hotel this evening. The Blooming Basement will be filled with varieties of exotic and fun-provoking flowers, and will have the first Stroblite panel exhibited publicly in Pittsburgh. This is an effect depicting an undersea scene that glows in the dark. Entertainment, too, will be of a novel nature by "The Rochefoucauld Angels," and "Les Marionettes Francaises," in ridiculous sketches spoofing political and stage people. This "teatro intimo" seats only 90 persons, and is expected to have a "class" appeal.

Theater Bills Change

Joe Penner, popular comedian, is featured in the stage attraction in the Penn. The screen is presenting "Six of a Kind," with Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland, Alison Skipworth, W. C. Fields, George Burns and Gracie Allen in the principal roles.

"Wonder Bar," with Al Jolson, Dolores Del Rio, Dick Powell, Kay Francis and Ricardo Cortez, is being held for a second week in the Stanley.

James Cagney and Bette Davis have the leading roles in "Jimmy the Gent," Warner screen feature.

"Long Lost Father," starring John Barrymore, and "The Meanest Gal in Town," with Zasu Pitts, El Brendel, James Gleason and Skeets Gallagher, comprise the double bill in the Davis and Regent.

"Pat Rooney's Revue," featuring Pat Rooney and Pat Rooney III, is the Pitt's current stage attraction. Wynne Gibson has the featured role in "Sleepers East" on the screen.

"By Candlelight," starring Paul Lukas and Elissa Landi, will open tomorrow in the Enright.

Banquet scenes in "The Firebrand" fed 500 extras. The boys and girls dined on wild boar (from Kansas). Louis Calhern will play heavy in Edward G. Robinson's "The Dark Tower."

Wheeler and Woolsley and Thelma Todd have the featured roles in "Hips Hips Hooray," comedy, heading the new Sheridan Square bill.

All in a Day -:- ...By... Mark Hellinger

Heart's Desire

THERE WAS nothing unusual or spectacular about Millie's daily routine. It was much the same as that of many other girls who lived and worked in New York City. She got up too late every morning, rode a long distance downtown in the subway, toiled all day at an unromantic job, and returned each night to an overcrowded flat far uptown. Sometimes, in the evening, she went to a movie. Sometimes, she went to a dance hall. To her great disgust, it was all very ordinary.

To say that Millie was discontented would be putting it mildly. The future offered no rosy prospects. All the boys she knew were as poor as she was. Marriage to any one of them, Millie knew, would be merely a continuance of her present mode of living.

There seemed little chance that she would ever meet a rich and dashing hero who would lay his heart and his worldly wealth at her feet. Such things, Millie was beginning to suspect, happened only in the movies. Yet that did not keep her from dreaming about such a pleasant possibility.

She thought of it often. She thought of it while she was filing letters in wrong folders. She dreamed of a rich fur coat, a servant all her own, an apartment on Riverside Drive.

That, to Millie, represented the acme of perfection. Her imagination could reach no further. An apartment on the Drive! Preferably, it would be away up high. It would have a silken boudoir, such as her favorite movie heroines languished in. It would be "de luxe," as the advertisements asserted. Thus far, the closest she had come to the de luxe apartment of her dreams was a seat on the top of a bus. But Millie made life a little more bearable by pretending to believe that some day she would actually live in one of those tall buildings. This would be accomplished by a felicitous marriage. Nothing less. She wanted to be sure of that de luxe apartment for life.

She was 23, and beginning to despair of ever achieving her heart's desire, when she met George. She met him in a Broadway dance hall, and if the truth is told, she was not greatly impressed by him at first.

George was a trifle older than most of the boys she knew. He was, she judged, somewhere in his late thirties. His clothes were quieter, his manner was a little more subdued. On that first evening, he danced with Millie several times. And at the close of the evening, he asked to be allowed to escort her home.

Millie hesitated for a moment. Then, since no other prospect presented itself, she accepted his offer. She felt ill-at-ease riding home with him. He was different. He had no line. Millie didn't know what to say to him.

She asked him, for want of a better subject, where he lived.

"Where?" George repeated casually. "Oh, over on Riverside Drive."

And at that moment, Millie almost swooned into his lap.

"You got an apartment there?" she managed at last.

George said, "Yes, why?"

"Nothing," replied Millie. "I just wondered."

She said little during the remainder of the ride. Before George left her at her door, she asked shyly, "I suppose—I suppose you've got money?"

George smiled in an amused fashion. "Quite a little," he confessed. . . .

There followed what is known in the news columns as a whirlwind courtship. George called at Millie's every night during the following week. He took her to a theater, to a night club, to one or two of the bigger movie houses. And at the end of the week, he asked Millie to marry him.

Before replying, she asked him but one question.

"If we get married," she inquired, "would we live where you're living now? Would we live on Riverside Drive?"

The man appeared a trifle surprised.

"Why, of course," he asserted. "Certainly, we'd live there."

"Then," said Millie, "it's okay with me. Sure, I'll marry you, George."

They were married almost immediately. Millie would have liked to prolong the engagement for a while. She would have liked to gather for herself a few expensive presents, indulge in a little more might life. But George was impatient. He already had the license. And she reasoned that she had better grab him while the grabbing was good. Thus, she relinquished her dreams of a large and impressive wedding. They were married quietly at City Hall.

"Millie's mother cried a little when her daughter left the old nest. But Millie did no crying. She was only too happy to close the door forever on the poverty, the drudgery, the old drab existence.

She and George took a taxi. They drove west, and then downtown. Millie was the happiest girl in the world when they passed Grant's Tomb. All her life she had dreamed of this moment. Now here is was.

The entrance of the apartment house was all she had visualized.

George was saying as they entered, "They've been telling me right along I ought to get married."

His people, of course. Millie hoped nervously that they would like her.

They stepped into the elevator. George pushed a button. Then, to Millie's horror, the cage began to descend.

George was beaming broadly.

"I guess you haven't done so bad," he boasted. "It isn't very girl that's got a husband with a good, steady janitor's job and two hundred dollars in the bank." . . .

Fear of Maid Roles Changes Name

Claudette Colbert, co-starred with Clark Gable in "It Happened One Night," was born Claudette Chauchoin. She changed to the more English sounding name when she went on the stage because she feared being "typed" and spending the balance of her career playing French parlor maids.

COLLEGE ADDS COURSE ON 'SUCCESS'

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP.)—Are you the type of man who stands out in a crowd? Do you throw your shoulders back? Are you known as a doer?

Those, and 411 other "key" queries are asked in New York University's "personality improvement course" created by Newman Leander Hoppingarner, a native of Nebraska, now New York University's professor of business psychology.

ASK SELF-ANALYSIS

The course begins with self-analysis and ends with a five-year plan. By that time the person is aware whether in a drawing room, he is good, bad or indifferent—how he smiles, frowns, talks, walks—what his weak points are and what he's going to do about it.

The self-analysis tests cover such personality traits as impressiveness ("is your facial expression forceful?") leadership ("do you have a positive, dynamic personality?") and utterance ("do you speak briefly and to the point?")

Some probe the student's knowledge with a short-answer query, as: "Is the orpington a kind of fowl, horse or granite?" Others take two hours to answer, and the student is advised to have a supply of sharp lead pencils at hand.

PROBES OWN WEAKNESS

When he has finished the tests the student compiles his score and determines his personality batting average. Then he goes to work on his weak points.

The five-year plan for the future is outlined in a term paper on the subject, "My Vocational Aim and Program for Continuous Personality Improvement."

In it, the student discribes his good and bad points. One said, "the writer is of the persuasive type of personality, but is noticeably thin in both figure and face."

The crux of the course is the question:

"Would you hire yourself?"

MILITARY RITES SET FOR VET

Military honors will be accorded Joseph F. Oglesby, 53, of 311 Kathleen street, whose body was taken from the Ohio River at Belpre O., Wednesday, at funeral services tomorrow afternoon.

Oglesby was one of three men in Allegheny County who had been members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for 25 years or more. One of the other two is County Controller R. G. Woodside.

Oglesby served four years in Cuba and the Philippines during the Spanish-American War. Despondent because his military service was not allowed to supplement his 26 years as a mail carrier to entitle him to a pension, he disappeared December 19. In his clothing was a scrap of paper torn from the Sun-Telegraph stating that the writing would serve to identify him.

Members of Corp. H. O. Diller Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, assisted by United Spanish War Veterans, will have charge of the funeral services to be held in the William Slater & Sons undertaking rooms, Virginia avenue and Kearsarge street.

Fall Down Stairs Kills Renton Man

Stanley Krzycnaski, 59, Renton, was fatally injured when he fell down a flight of stairs in his home last night, according to a morgue report.

Found by his wife on the cellar floor, he died before aid could be summoned.

'Just Terrible!' Verdict on U. S. Girls' Voices

NEW YORK, March 9.—(INS.)—American women may be the best dressed in the world, but as far as voices are concerned—

Addressing 200 members of the National Opera Club, Dr. William Braid White, musical authority, said the voices of American women are "just terrible."

The remedy, Dr. White believes, lies in the training of the child's ear receptivity (whatever that means).

DESERTED BRIDE ASKS DIVORCE

They were married in Wellsburg, W. Va., and he went home to get his "belongings," but never came back.

That was the story Mrs. Elaine Lovell, 22-year-old stenographer, of Forty-second street, told Judge Elder W. Marshall today when she asked for a divorce from Roy Lovell, 23, of North Jackson street, Bellevue.

Returning from Wellsburg September 17, 1931, Roy went to his home to pack and meet her the next day, Elaine testified. He stayed away and her letters failed to bring him back, Elaine said.

Compromise May Make Martin Candidate

By MARK SHIELDS

By a process of adroit political manipulation, Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, today stands as a probable "compromise" candidate for the gubernatorial nomination of the regular organization of the party.

Mr. Shields

Gen. Martin, so far as the surface is concerned, cannot be charged with having brought about this situation.

He has thrown open the gates of conference to the consideration of more than a score of names of men who are either eligible for the nomination, or think themselves eligible.

But this very thing has worked to the advantage of those who all the time have been for Gen. Martin.

There was an expected inability for conferees to agree when each candidate was making protestations of his right to support. Each was permitted through himself or through spokesmen to have free say while Gen. Martin remained discreetly in the background, asserting his only interest was in an open primary.

The result was that the other candidates killed themselves off, certainly at the moment, so far as any unity of organization sentiment was concerned.

There was nothing more natural than that in the circumstances there should be something of an automatic return to the name of Gen. Martin, the party leader, who because of his position was discussed in every conference.

Present drift toward Gen. Martin comes from some regular county leaders, James M. Hazlett, city leader in Philadelphia, and Senator James J. Coyne, of Pittsburgh. None of these men at any time favored Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon, for example, and all were inclined to deprecate his boom when it was first inflated.

* * *

Martin, in Private, Covets Nomination

Hazlett, Coyne, State Senator Harry B. Scott and some other regular leaders always have secretly leaned to Gen. Martin.

While Gen. Martin says he does not wish to encourage talk of his candidacy, it is known he would like to be the candidate. If he is satisfied that a substantial group of the following of other candidates can be brought into his fold he will announce his candidacy within a few days.

Party followers who take their Republicanism straight are anxious for a decision, whether it be right or wrong—and they can only hope it is right.

The turn of sentiment to Martin is embarrassing to Senator David A. Reed, who has been insistent that the gubernatorial candidate of the regulars should come from the East.

The Senator has taken this position despite reiterated claims that he intended to run alone. But the Senator cannot impose conditions on the organization.

Leaders assert that it comes with bad grace that he should attempt dictation when he has not in the play of practical politics made his contribution to the organization. They stress particularly his refusal to take an active part in the last Pittsburgh mayoralty election.

And this feeling of resentment is more pronounced elsewhere in the state than Pittsburgh. As a matter of fact, the boys in the trenches would willingly sacrifice Senator Reed if they could be sure of landing a friend in Harrisburg.

Democratic State Chairman Warren Van Dyke, just before leaving Pittsburgh last night for the East, issued a short statement declaring that the state ticket backed by the State Committee would stand for social legislation. He said:

"Child labor, the sweat shop, privately-paid deputy sheriffs, the domineering tactics of big business and the greedy profits of the milk distributors will be eliminated when the Democrats come into power in Pennsylvania."

* * *

Shun Charge Regular Democrats Partisan

Mr. Van Dyke intimated that he would not manage the campaign of the organization ticket, headed by George H. Earle, of Philadelphia, for Governor, and Joseph F. Guffey for the United States Senate.

He will, as prescribed by the rules of the committee, circulate and file their petitions. However, by not managing their campaign, it is evident that Mr. Van Dyke and his backers, Mr. Guffey and David L. Lawrence, hope to somewhat subdue the charge by anti-organization Democrats that the State Committee is being made a partisan and not a party agency.

Conferences already have been held as to who shall be the organization campaign manager, but no decision has been reached, Mr. Van Dyke said.

Representative James H. McClure has declared himself a candidate for the State Senate in the district now represented by Senator William D. Mansfield. He is receiving support from Senator Mansfield, who is not again a candidate because of his position as County Commissioner.

This district promises to see some of the hardest fighting in the county in the primary election, as some organization elements will oppose McClure, and a number of independents, including Alexander P. Lindsay and Carl J. Baldridge also have petitions in circulation.

McClure is a legislative veteran chairman of the important Judiciary General Committee of the House, is an assistant county solicitor, and lives in Glassport.

2 HURT AS AUTO SKIDS, DROPS 250 FEET

Occupant Trapped in Wreckage as Another Car Crashes Tree

An automobile, forced off the highway by another car traveling in the opposite direction, struck a tree at Noblestown and Baldwin roads, early today, and pinned one of its three occupants against the tree.

West End police worked 25 minutes to free Harry Freeman, 29, of Oakdale, from the wreckage. He was taken to the South Side Hospital.

Robert Cummins, 27, Oakdale, another passenger, was slightly injured. The alleged driver, George Nealon, 32, of 2550 Noblestown road, escaped injury. The latter, police said, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

TWO ESCAPE DEATH

Two men narrowly escaped death early today when their automobile skidded and went over a 250-foot hillside to a street below. They picked themselves up from the wreckage and hailed a passing motorist, who took them to Allegheny General Hospital.

Girard Grundler, 21, of 33 Overbeck street, and George Guckert, 33, of 110 Milroy avenue, were in the car which skidded at Brahm, near Solar street, and went over the embankment. The auto turned over six times in its descent to East street.

Half-way down, Guckert fell from the car and rolled down the steep hill. Grundler was carried to the bottom. He suffered hand and leg injuries and bruises. Guckert, driver of the auto, was bruised on the face and head. The car was demolished.

PHYSICIAN INJURED

Two men, one a physician, were injured in a four-car collision in the 1700 block West Carson street last night, police reported.

Dr. John H. Humes, of 717 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, driver of one of the cars, suffered brain concussion and was taken to Ohio Valley Hospital. Homer Brining, of 3774 Windgap road, driver of another car, suffered lacerations on the face which were treated at South Side Hospital.

James Osborne, of 3340 Francisco street, and Harry B. Hodges, of 12 Wynne avenue, Ingram, drivers of the other two cars, escaped injury, police reported.

Mrs. Antoinette Sabino, 45, wife of Justice of the Peace Francis V. Sabino, 210 Second avenue, Rankin, was slightly injured yesterday when a street car struck an automobile in which she was riding, on Monongahela avenue, Swissvale. Her son, Joseph, driver of the automobile, said his car stalled on the tracks.

GRAB 2 IN FIGHT DOWNTOWN

Accused of having in their possession several American Express Company money orders stolen from a drug store in Youngstown, O., two men were arrested here today by city detectives.

The prisoners gave their names as William Cane, 34, of Cleveland, and Thomas Jackson, 24, Negro, of Alexandria, Pa.

According to Detective Thomas Morgan, when he approached the men at Seventh avenue and Grant street, Cain pulled a gun. Morgan and Detective Robert Marshall disarmed him, police said, in a brief struggle which attracted a crowd of spectators.

Berger Bequeaths Estate to Brother

The entire $45,000 estate of Herman Berger, of McKeesport, goes to his brother, Martin Berger, by terms of his will filed for probate today. Letters of administration were issued to the brother.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 9.

Lots of news. Mr. Roosevelt gives a very clear statement of what they are doing to straighten out the air mail. And you remember days ago I wrote you that the Army men (especially the privates, whose Army salary is very small) who had to leave their home barracks and pay for food, rooms, and everything, that the government hasn't given 'em any extra money.

Will Rogers

Well, it's still like it was then, only they are more broke than they was then.

An old boy whose picture appears before me, Zara Agha, don't mean anything, does it? Well, ladies, you better wake up, for Zara is on the loose, looking for his fourteenth wife. Zara is 160 years old and a Turk. Zara is coming to Hollywood.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

BEST SPELLERS TO GET CASH 'BEE' PRIZES

Hundreds to Compete In 'Spell-Downs' In City, County

Three more prizes totaling $50 were offered today in Allegheny County's forthcoming old-fashioned spelling bee.

Hundreds have enthusiastically entered the contest started a week ago, according to Dr. C. E. Dickey, county superintendent of schools, who is directing the bee.

The first and second prizes, trips to Harrisburg, already had been announced by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, which is sponsoring the "spell-downs." The new awards are:

Third prize $25.
Fourth prize $15.
Fifth prize $10.

BAR STUDENTS, TEACHERS

The contest is open to anyone not now in school or college as a student or teacher. To enter, submit your name to the nearest school principal.

Dr. Dickey yesterday extended the time limit of the preliminary contests to not later than Monday night, March 19.

Most of the contests, however, will likely be held next week in the 12 city high schools and 118 county districts.

The initial matches will be followed by the final county "spell-down" in Schenley High School Tuesday night, March 20, when the preliminary winners vie for honors.

The Sun-Telegraph will pay the expenses of sending the county's champion speller and "runner-up" to the state finals at Harrisburg on Wednesday, April 4.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM

C. W. Peters, assistant superintendent of county schools, who is planning the competitions in the 118 county school districts, said:

"Great enthusiasm is being shown in most districts for the contest. I don't doubt but that many persons in Allegheny County are already sitting up nights leafing through dictionaries."

Dr. R. M. Sherrard, associate superintendent of city schools, reported an equal enthusiasm for Pittsburgh.

Spelling bees are being held throughout Pennsylvania by the Department of Public Instruction in Harrisburg as part of the public school centennial celebration.

Watch the Sun-Telegraph for time and place of contests.

$50 in Prizes Weekly for News Tips

Are you alert? Do you wish to make your alertness pay? The Sun-Telegraph is presenting the opportunity. Every week it is offering a total of $50 in prizes for NEWS TIPS telephoned to the News Tip Editor, Grant 6500.

If you know of any accident, of a business merger, of a big building project—that is NEWS. Watch especially for unusual stories about children and animals and for stories that lend themselves to interesting pictures.

For the best exclusive news tip of the week $15.00 will be given, for the second best, $10.00, and for the next 25 best, $1.00 each.

JOHN J. KANE — FRANCIS BIDDLE

PAUL S. LEHMAN — SHIPPEN LEWIS — J. W. MADDEN

Gov. Pinchot's commission in Pittsburgh today—Ambridge tomorrow—in a study of the state's recent coal and steel labor violence: Mr. Kane, Pittsburgh councilman; Mr. Biddle, Philadelphia lawyer; Mr. Lehman, Lewistown former judge; Mr. Lewis, Philadelphia attorney, and Mr. Madden, University of Pittsburgh law teacher. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

3—Proper names will not be used.

4—The speller will be expected to pronounce the word before he attempts to spell it.

5—Words will be repeated or defined at the request of contestants.

6—Correction of spelling will not be permitted after a word has been completed.

Pinchot Probers Open Hearings in Labor Wars

Searchlight Turned On Using Deputies In Strike Rows

A record of the bloody labor conflict in the coal and steel industries was being compiled today by a commission similar to that which investigated Pennsylvania's sweatshops.

Details of shootings, gas bombings and sluggings were sought at interviews with coal operators and miners, and tomorrow accounts of the Ambridge steel riots will be heard at a public hearing in Ambridge.

The commission was appointed by Gov. Pinchot. It was set up to investigate the private employment of deputy sheriffs in labor disputes. It differs from the sweatshop commission in that the latter was created by the Legislature.

QUESTION OPERATORS

Shippen Lewis, Philadelphia attorney and chairman of the commission, said the investigation will be impartial and is designed to provide specific recommendations for policing strikes throughout the state.

The employment of deputy sheriffs succeeded the old industrial police system which Gov. Pinchot eliminated by revoking the commissions of all such police. The law permitting industrial police, however, still is on the statute books.

Councilman John J. Kane and J. W. Madden, Pitt law professor, are the Pittsburghers on the commission. They met with Lewis, Paul S. Lehman, former judge, of Lewistown, and Francis Biddle, Philadelphia attorney, today to interview coal operators, United Mine Workers of America and others regarding strife in the coal fields.

HEARING ON RIOT

Lewis said:

"We want to get the views of the operators and miners on the employment of deputies or coal and iron police and what they think ought to be done."

The Ambridge hearing will begin at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the Ambridge Senior High School. County authorities, strikers, steel company officials and persons who were not parties to the steel strife last October will be heard.

Lewis said he expected at least 40 witnesses to appear. He was in Beaver County last week and arranged for their appearance.

HUSBAND FAILS AS OWN LAWYER

Mathilda King Guthrie, 984 Greenfield avenue, won her divorce suit against Aloysius M. Guthrie, who acted as his own lawyer in contesting the case.

Judge Harry H. Rowand, in granting a decree to the wife yesterday also handed down an order, denying a motion for a rehearing, Guthrie having since obtained counsel. The court added:

"Guthrie has had his day in court and a rehearing in this case would serve no just purpose, but merely permit this libellant to be further embarrassed and humiliated."

The wife had testified her husband had threatened to kill her and the baby, and that after the marriage he told her that she would have to go to work and support herself. Mrs. Guthrie was employed by the University of Pittsburgh.

Chance to Vent NRA Grouches Is Big Surprise

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

That invitation to criticize the NRA took the grouches by surprise.

Some businessmen were so astonished they showed the dentist the wrong tooth.

We're all like that. We would rather sulk in the corner, muttering that times were so tough our tape worm had lost 17 feet.

We remember another invitation some years ago. A ghost had chased a man three miles and caught him. It tapped the frightened citizen on the shoulder and said:

"Now it's your turn to chase me."

The invitation was refused. And not many accepted Gen. Johnson's.

'FINE PROJECTS' TO GET AID IN COUNTY

Work Would Succeed CWA Activity Set To End May 1

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Allegheny County will possibly get enough funds from the Federal Emergency Relief Administration to furnish work for 50,000 men for a year, Administrator Harry L. Hopkins declared here today.

Hopkins said:

"In Allegheny County, as an example, it will be a simple matter to furnish work for 50,000 men for a year on fine projects."

The work is to be carried on through the Work Division of the administration, financed by a $950,000,000 appropriation from the present Congress.

CWA'S SUCCESSOR

This work, it is understood, will succeed the CWA.

A letter from the Allegheny County Commissioners, shown Hopkins, explains the disturbed situation in the county, and points out that the county furnished materials and equipment costing $1,400,000 for CWA projects. If these projects are cut off from federal aid May 1, unfinished, and the county is called upon to finance their completion the county's finance will reach the breaking point, the letter stated.

PROJECTS MENTIONED

Included in the list of "fine projects" mentioned by Hopkins are many still pending approval, but which would be eligible under the new plan. They are:

Relief map Allegheny County	$ 2,363.14
Ohio River boulevard extension survey	1,144.00
Dam in North Park	23,737.68
Relocating oil lines, North Park	8,109.53
Second Division Memorial, A.E.F.	10,530.42
Grandstand, South Park	71,735.89
Stable, South Park	30,000.00
Conveyances Museum, So. Park	30,500.00
Western Pennsylvania Memorial	1,946.70
Renovating wills records	20,810.04
Collecting laws, Coroner's duties	720.00
New index, Prothontary's office	7,837.75
Total	$209,434.97

The county's share in the above listed projects is estimated at $93,192.21. The total estimated cost of the county's share of all projects to February 23, 1934, is $1,216,141.29. These included highways, tunnels, bridges, parks, etc. Under Hopkins' survey similar projects would be approved providing a long list of permanent improvements.

5 TIMEKEEPERS FIRED BY CWA

Dismissal of five timekeepers charged with collusion and falsification of the records, was announced today by James L. Stuart, Allegheny County Administrator of the CWA. Some time ago six men in similar positions were dismissed as a result of an investigation by Stuart's office.

Stuart said that the men discharged yesterday had been guilty of marking workers as present when they were working on jobs other than CWA projects, and then sharing the pay checks with the employes. Investigation into other alleged irregularities was announced by the administrator.

450 CWA MEN TO GET PAY

James Cleary, county CWA paymaster, announced today that 450 CWA workers employed on city playground projects will be paid late today and tomorrow for the work they have done since February 9.

The workers may receive their pay at work relief division offices throughout the city at 4 p. m. today and all day tomorrow after 9 a. m. in the basement of the City-County Building, he said.

The CWA pay has been held up since February 9 because the original appropriation of funds was exhausted.

COUNTY SPELLING BEE OF 1908 RECALLED

Prof. McMahon Tells Of 'Jawbreaker' Words Given

Special "jawbreakers" may be needed to decide Allegheny County's champion adult speller.

Prof. M. J. McMahon, of 2 Stowe street, Ingram, expressed this opinion today as he recalled some of the difficult words in the city's first spelling contest, held May 26, 1908, in Carnegie Music Hall.

McMahon, who was then principal of the old Duquesne Grade School, looked over his carefully collected newspaper clippings, taken from the old Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph, which sponsored the "spell-down." Then he said:

"Robert Earle Spence won the contest. But before he won his crown he had to negotiate such stumblers as orangoutang, amaurosis, diplodocus, testaceous, opodeldoc, chameleon, stalactite, hautboy and many others."

Adeline Bernstein, of the Liberty School, McMahon said, was the last person to stand up against Spence, losing out when she subsituted "i" for "y" in "Amaryllis." The judges, however, proclaimed her "Pittsburgh's Best Girl Speller."

McMahon continued:

"If words like those had to be used to spell down schoolchildren, think of the 'jawbreakers' that will be necessary to floor the adults in the forthcoming bee sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph."

Loud applause and cheers rang through Carnegie Hall, McMahon said, when he rewarded Spence with a gold medal for his spelling supremacy. He added:

"The bee was a big event in the life of the city, and I believe there is much enthusiasm for the coming county bee."

PROF. M. J. M'MAHON . . . HE RECALLS 'AMAUROSIS, TESTACEOUS, HAUTBOY, CHAMELEON'

Meat Market Owner Socks Bandit on Chin

A bandit trio that looted the cash register in the meat market of Dan Greenberg at 2250 Center avenue and fled after Greenberg dealt one of them a blow on the chin last night was sought by police today.

The thugs, one armed, ordered Greenberg to hold up his hands while they rifled the register. Then one of them led Greenberg into a rear room. As he walked into the room, Greenberg threw $20 in cash and $18 worth of checks to the floor and punched the robber.

Frightened, the thug and his accomplices fled into the street and boarded an auto which, Greenberg said, resembled a taxicab.

Posing as customers, three bandits held up George J. Smith, manager of the W. L. Douglas Company shoe store, at 419 East Ohio street, and escaped with $35 last night.

One of the men asked for a pair of shoes and when Smith reached for a pair, the thugs pointed revolvers at him, emptied the register and escaped.

For the second time in three weeks, thieves yesterday broke into the home of Joseph Colton, 1683 Creedmore avenue, Brookline, police reported. Shirts, linens and tools valued at $60 were stolen.

In the first robbery, the thieves carried away clothing and jewelry valued at $500, police said.

BARR BLOCKING REGISTRATION AIDES' PAY

County Commissioner C. M. Barr will not sign the payroll for the newly appointed Registration Committee, he said today, until "the salaries are made to conform with those in county departments."

And until either Barr or Commissioner C. C. McGovern sign, and McGovern is away on a vacation, the 16 employes of the Registration Commission will go without their pay envelopes.

Commissioner William D. Mansfield signed enough payrolls before he went to Florida, and two signatures are required before the paymaster hands out the stipends.

Registration Commissioners Jacob Frank and Thomas Joyce, busy trying to install their new system of permanent registration, postponed any action on the salary problem, although they learned that the Salary Board, with the Commissioners' agreement, January 25, approved the 56 jobs in the new commission and the salaries.

And the salaries are the lowest on the records of the county—some typists and clerks getting as little as $75 a month. And they were set by the Commissioners and others on the Salary Board.

SINGER LAUDS SCHOOLS HERE

Arthur Anderson, Metropolitan Opera star and a former Pittsburgher, in town for an appearance with the National Symphony Orchestra, of Washington, at Syria Mosque tonight, had high praise today for Pittsburgh's public schools.

Anderson, who sang in a local church choir before going to Italy to complete his studies, said:

"I am happy to note that the public schools nowadays, especially the Pittsburgh schools, are leaning more toward the teaching of music, especially the fundamentals. I believe that it is now possible to obtain as good a musical education in the United States as anywhere in Europe.

"I'm in sympathy with the idea of Lawrence Tibbett that all operas should be sung in English, especially those outside the Metropolitan Opera. There are plenty of good American singers who could be trained to sing operatic roles provided the roles were translated into good English prose and poetry."

Anderson said that he had secured a special leave of absence from Gatti Casazza, director of the Metropolitan Opera Company, to sing at Syria Mosque tonight.

2 'RUBIES' CLAIM $20,000 GEMS

MIAMI, Fla., March 9.—(AP.)—Jewelry valued at $20,000 was locked in the vault of the United States Marshall here today while two women, each named Ruby Ridgeway, had until April 2 to present their claims of ownership in Federal Court.

The jewelry was surrendered to the Marshal, on replevin order, by Miss Ruby Ridgeway, Miami teacher. Federal authorities said she understood documents were coming here from Oklahoma to substantiate the claim of Mrs. Ruby Ridgeway, visitor here from Tulsa.

The jewelry was sent by registered mail on January 23 by a Tulsa bank to Ruby Ridgeway, in care of a Miami bank. The postoffice notified Miss Ridgeway of the package's arrival and she accepted it.

She believed it had been sent by her father, who had lived near Tulsa, but through police began an investigation to determine identity of the sender. The search started about the same time a claim was filed by Mrs. Ridgeway with an insurance company to cover the loss.

Bowman received checks totaling $1,500 at his reception to members of the 17 nationality committees of the Cathedral of Learning held in Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Hall last night. More than 450 committee members were present.

Following his speech he offered to answer any questions his guests had concerning the structure. His response unexpectedly came in the form of slips of paper swelling the present room funds. With a few words expressing their deep interest in their projects, representatives of the Hungarian, Czechoslovakian, Jugoslavian, Italian, Lithuanian, Polish, Scottish and German room committees presented Dr. Bowman with checks amounting to $1,500.

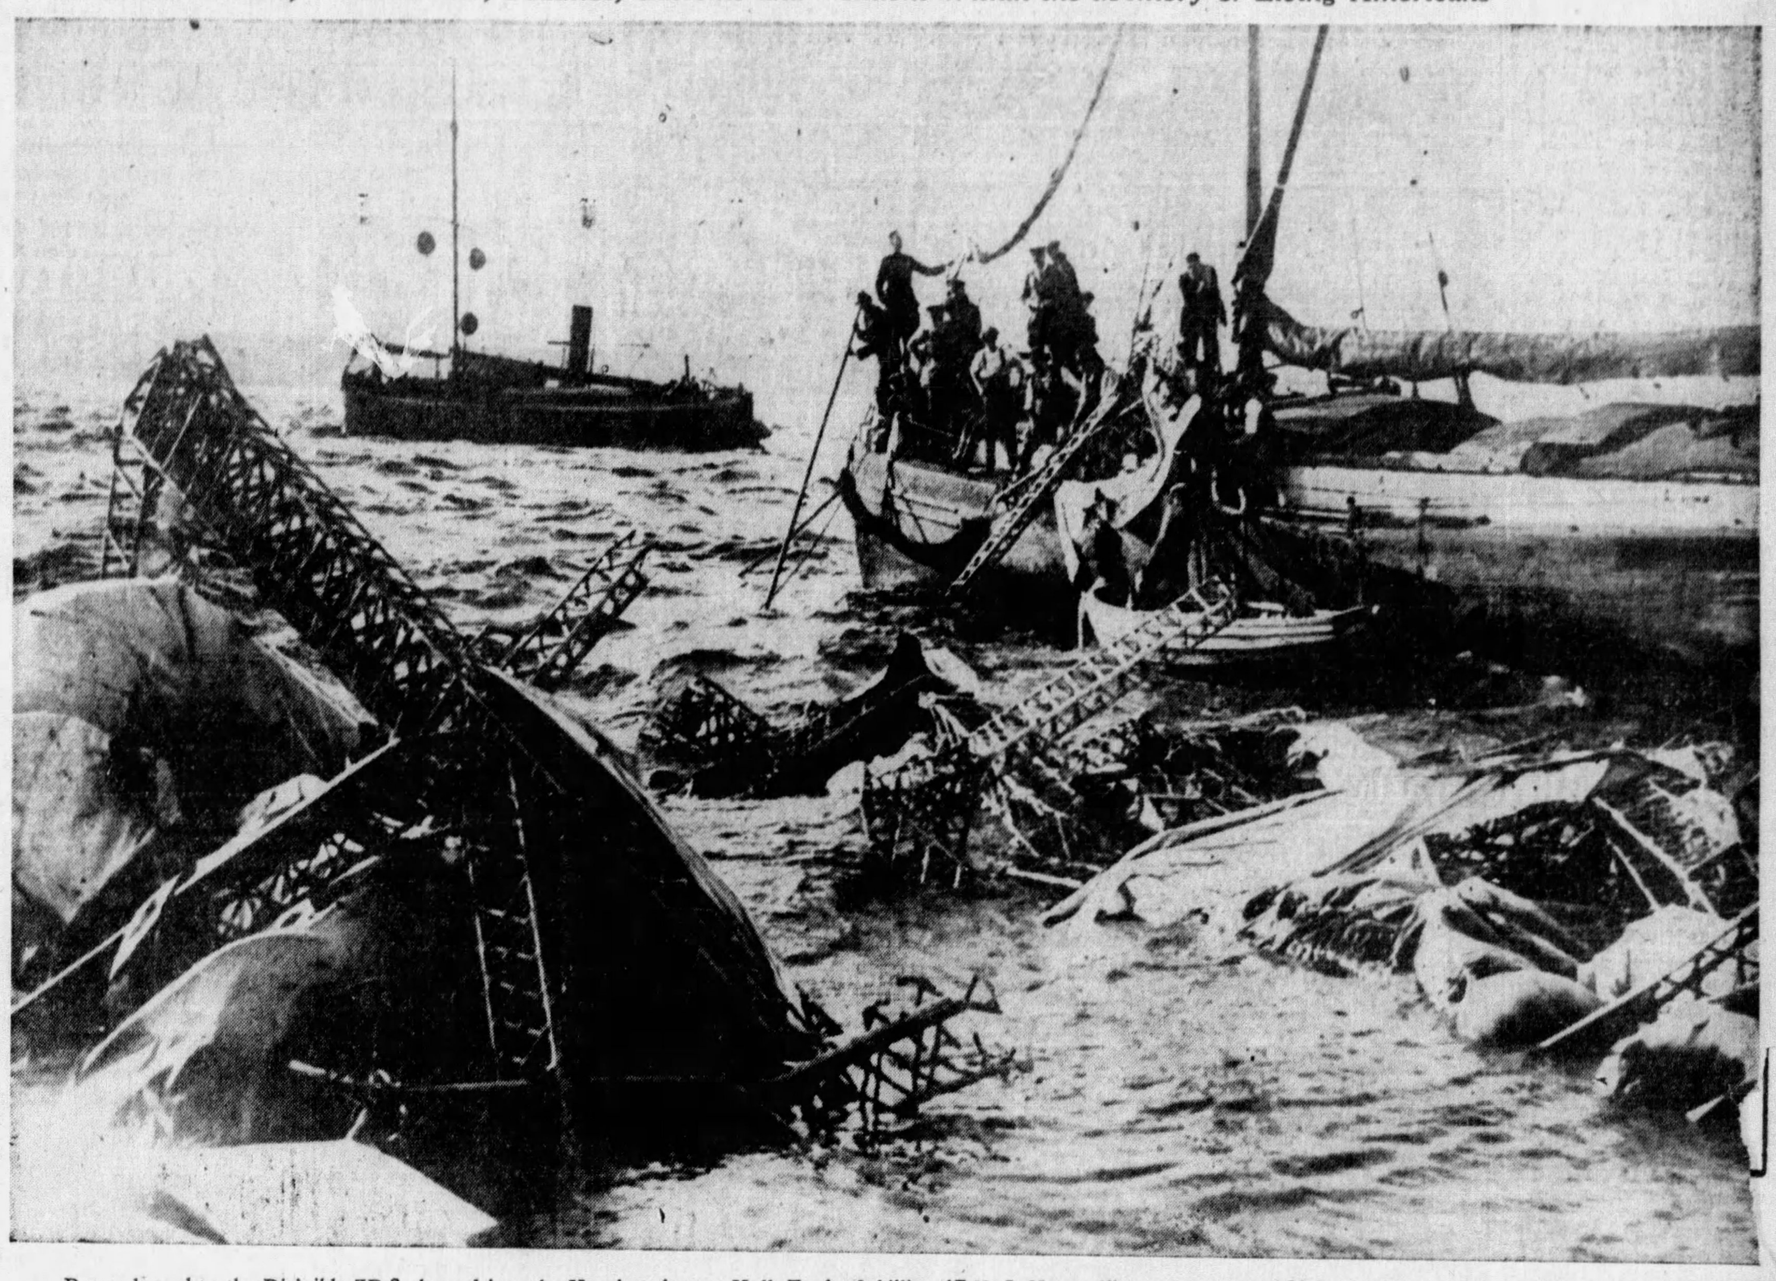
REMEMBER WHEN THE BLUE AND THE GRAY SHOOK HANDS?

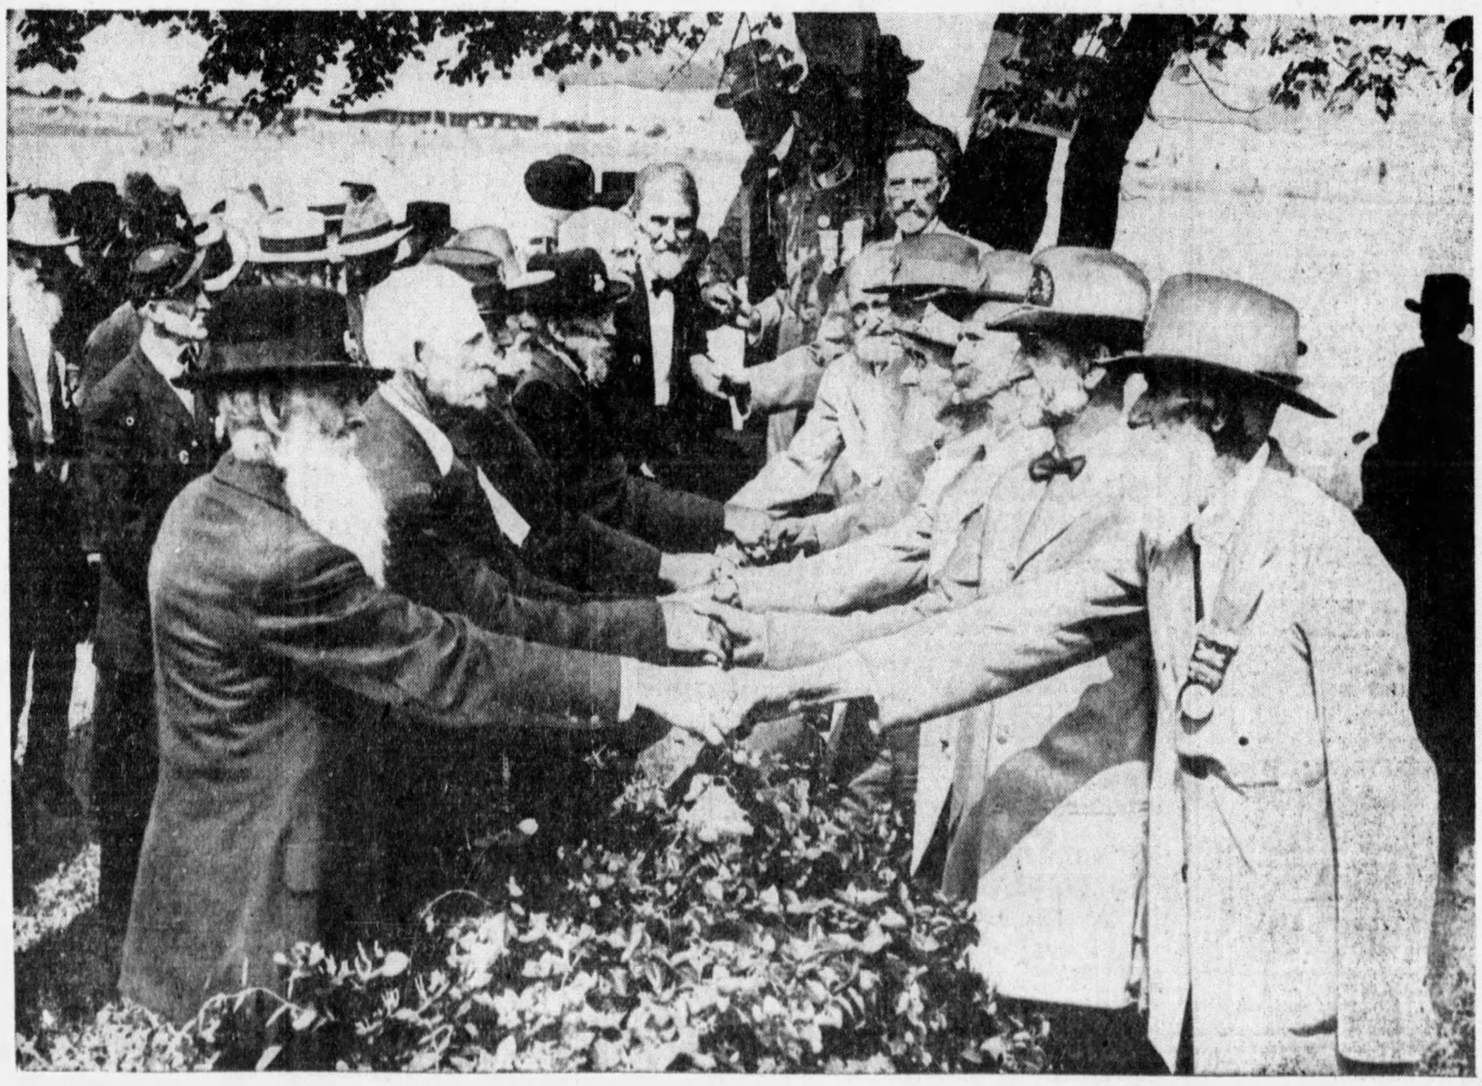
This is a Picture-Story of Dramatic Events, Personalities, Beauties, Customs and Fashions Within the Memory of Living Americans

Remember when the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher and his sister Harriet Beecher Stowe campaigned against slavery? She wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as a serial in 1850.



Remember when the Dirigible ZR-2 plunged into the Humber river at Hull, England, killing 17 U. S. Navy officers and men and 29 British Navy officers and men? The Americans were preparing to take over the dirigible, then the biggest ever built, after the U. S. had agreed to buy it for $2,000,000. The crash was on August 24, 1921. Only five of 51 aboard lived.

Remember when Capt. John Alcock (left) and American-born Lieut. Arthur W. Brown, British Royal Air Force fliers, on June 15, 1919, landed in an Irish bog to complete the first non-stop airplane flight over the Atlantic Ocean? They cracked up only because after taking off at Newfoundland they had dropped off the plane's running gear to lighten it. The ship was a two-motored Vickers-Vimy biplane. The fliers are pictured here shortly after the flight's end.



Remember when the Blue and the Gray met again—50 years after the Battle of Gettysburg? Here in 1913 they met on the very battlefield, shook hands across the famous stone wall that witnessed much of the fiercest of the fighting in that important battle of the Civil War. And all were friends again.

Remember when Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh represented Minnesota? Here he is with his son, then only seven years old. The son? He's today's Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Film Study Charged Denied

WEST CHESTER, Pa., March 9.—Taking sharp issue with the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, whose motion picture committee characterized the four-year investigation of the Payne Fund as unscientific, and "without a leg to stand on," William S. Short, director of the Motion Picture Research Council, spoke at the State Normal School here Wednesday night.

The recently published research showed that children are three times as emotionally affected by the films as are adults, catch 70 per cent as much of the situations, settings, wise cracks, as do their parents, and remember 90 to 100 per cent of what they recalled next morning three months after seeing a film.

Further studies showed that seven out of 10 pictures are concerned with crime or love as interpreted by the movies, which is characterized as an unbalanced film diet for children.

Mr. Short said what real social scientists of standing and importance think of the research is shown by the fact that the Magazine of Educational Sociology devoted an entire number to a description of the intricate and valuable techniques evolved by research experts for these studies; the American Educational Research Association voted it the most important research of the year, and ranked the two books summarizing the studies—"Our Movie Made Children," by Henry J. Forman, and "Motion Pictures and Youth", by Dr. W. W. Charters—as among the 60 most important books of the year.

Incidentally, the Parent's Magazine, of New York, regarded the work as sufficiently significant to award a medal to the council.

Mr. Short advocated education of children by parents to understand that the films are not real life but "only stories," and the use of the high school text book, "How to Appreciate Motion Pictures," by Edgar Dale.

The council is encouraging the production of educational pictures for use in schools and of entertainment pictures especially designed for children. Its work is under the leadership of Mrs. August Belmont, of New York. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge is honorary vice president.

Gossipy Chat

Deb-of-the-fall Mathilde Reed has found to her astonishment that she can sell!

She's selling dresses. Every day, she hops into her automobile and is off to interview clients-to-be. And she's having a grand time.

* * *

The walls of the living room in her home, Fifth avenue, are hung—every bit of them—with beige brocade. It's an interesting treatment, we think. And I almost forgot—in front of the windows, reaching from ceiling to the floor, are decorative screens of wrought iron.

Gordon Fisher III, who's not three yet, was so fascinated by a photographer's camera at a recent "sitting" that the camera man had a hard time pursuading him to pose for a picture. Young Gordon is the son of the junior Gordon Fishers.

THROUGH THE SPYGLASS

Viewing the New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

Sly as a fox, you'll choose a fox for your Spring suit . . . a silver fox! And we are just the girl to tell you where to find some at more-than-low prices now. Only a very few to be exact . . . but such beauties that the lucky damsel who gets there first will not find her haste in vain.

For these are three-quarter silvers, and almost-three-quarter (meaning very much silvered, you know) . . . and their prices range $65 . . . $85 . . . and $99.50. All of which is worth a rave or two if you are up on current silver fox prices!

* * *

And still the knitting bee goes on! Modern Priscillas are going clickety-clack with their knitting needles quite as efficiently as their rather more demure sisters of Miles Standish days.

And small wonder with shops like the one we have in mind offering such beautiful new yarns! We have just come from ogling one for coat-making . . . a nubbly tweed which is second to none for good looks. In a variety of mixed-up tones which can't be equalled. 100-yard balls at 95c.

Also new linen yarns for the suits and frocks you'll wear later in the season. Grand shades, these . . . with plenty of the new aquarelles so popular now. And low priced—200 and 250-yard balls at 60c (two weights, medium and light). Also all sorts of clever new patterns, including a hug-me-tight-at-the-throat sort of sport coat.

* * *

A manufacturer sat on his doorstep weeping bitter tears! "Ah woe is me" he cried. "All this beautiful pastel colored satin and no one to make it into gowns for!"

'Round the corner cantered the heroine . . . rescue at hand! "What! Regular $8 and $10 satin going to waste. I'll just buy it for nighties to sell for $3.50!" . . . . .

So . . . . . SHE BOUGHT THE FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH of satin-for-nighties (maybe it wasn't that much really, but it looks it!) . . . and the grieving manufacturer made it up into the sweetest little gowns for you and me!

And today . . . this very day . . . our heroine has REDUCED these samesters to $2.95 (because she's like that). Thus endeth the saga of the satin! N. B. Pardon all the foolishness! The weather no doubt! But these gowns ARE grand!

QUICK RESPONSE IN RUSHMORE CONTEST

Evidence of the tri-state district's interest in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial inscription competition being sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph revealed itself today by receipt of the first entries by the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee.

This early response, since the competition rules were announced only last Sunday, emphasized the patriotic spirit aroused throughout the country as Hearst newspapers invite every man, woman and child to join in the task of preparing the 600-word text that will tell the nation's history for ages, upon the South Dakota mountainside.

Patriotic and civic groups continued to plan for active participation. Praise expressed by various groups included an indorsement from William J. Blakely, president of the Federated Patriotic Orders of Allegheny County.

The Federation, allied with the Grand Army of the Republic, is composed of the Sons of Union Veterans, Auxiliary to Sons of Union Veterans, Daughters of Union Veterans, Woman's Relief Corps and Ladies of the G. A. R.

Pledging to urge active support among the organization's membership, Attorney Blakely said:

"Any project that serves the purpose of kindling the imagination of the American people to inspire them to a deep realization and appreciation of the heritage of freedom and liberty handed down by our forefathers, is worthy of the united support of all our people.

"This competition sponsored by the Hearst newspapers to aid the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission in selecting the final inscription is a national patriotic movement. I believe it will result in receiving from our patriotic citizens a message to our country that will live and forever remain as our nation's permanent message to posterity.

"I feel the different units of our federation can heartily support and participate in this competition."

URGES OLD P. O. FOR POLICE USE

Abandonment of the Postoffice Building at Smithfield street and Fourth avenue would be detrimental to business interests of that section, Joseph I. Winslow, attorney, declared in a letter to Mayor McNair. As a means of keeping people in the district he suggested that the Bureau of Police and all magistrate courts be moved into the building as a means of continuing the area as a center of activity.

Attorney Winslow asserted that Central Station in Water street is improperly constructed, and that many of the difficulties in carrying on work of the Morals Court are due to physical handicaps of the present building.

He drew attention to the fact that thousands of people enter and leave the postoffice daily, and that with the closing of the building it may remain idle for years to come.

Rushmore Text Spurs Interest in History

Students Reading to Write Texts for Mountain

By KENNETH M. ELLIS

From the little red school house to the spacious libraries of our greatest universities, American students are reading history these days!

They are striving to write—in 600 words—an immortal characterization of their nation's greatness!

They are doing this in the competition sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers, to secure the best possible text for the use of the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission in determining the final inscription to be carved by Gutzon Borglum on the backbone of the Rocky Mountains!

Boards of education in a dozen American major cities, and in dozens of smaller centers have organized their own machinery for the collection and judging of preliminary texts in this great movement to get the American people to express its ideals for permanent perusal.

Public school educators are enthusiastic. In New York, Dr. George Ryan, president of the Board of Education, and Dr. Harold G. Campbell, superintendent of schools, are on the local committee. In Washington, Dr. Hayden Johnson, president of the Board of Education, and in Chicago, Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, member of the Board of Education, and Dr. William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, and Otto Aken, superintendent of Cook County's school system, are on the local judging board; in Syracuse, Mrs. E. R. Robertson, president of the Board of Education, and Dr. Carl Alverson, superintendent, have accepted committee posts and in Seattle, Supt. Worth McClure is a committee member.

In Pittsburgh Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, and Dr. Charles E. Dickey, superintendent of the Allegheny schools, are on the regional board of judges, as is Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Education. In Albany the public school system is represented on the judging committee by Supt. Austin Coulson.

The great interest of the parochial schools in this competition is shown by their representation on the various local committees. In New York Prof. Cornelius Justin, of Manhattan College, and Prof. Samuel Kelfair, of Fordham University, are members; in Syracuse, the Rev. David C. Gildea, diocesan superintendent; in Seattle, the Rt. Rev. Gerald Shaughnessy, Catholic bishop of Seattle; in Pittsburgh, the Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of Pittsburgh's parochial schools — all these are in the first organized reports from the nation.

These intensive school campaigns are expected to stimulate a fresh interest in the great epochs which made our national unity—the creation of the Declaration of Independence, the construction of the Constitution, the Louisiana Purchase, the ceding of the Floridas, the acquisition of California, the settlement of the Oregon boundary dispute, the purchase of Alaska and the cutting of the Panama Canal.

Special articles on each of these epochs are being prepared for publication in the Sun-Telegraph to enable you to better form your thought in your effort to win either the cash or medal prizes offered by the Hearst newspapers for the best suggestion for the commission's use.

In addition to these articles there is appearing daily in the Sun-Telegraph full accounts of the latest activity in the nation-wide competition. By reading it carefully every day you will keep yourself fully informed as to the rules, the prizes, the closing dates and the material itself.

No angle will be left untouched. Obviously it cannot all be printed every day, in full detail. Therefore, you ought to read every issue during the competition, so as not to miss a single vital matter.

On Sunday there will be announcements you will not want to miss!

Address any inquiries you may have to make about the competition to J. G. Shradle, Mount Rushmore National Memorial Inscription Competition, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

INSPIRED IDEAL IN CONTEST

By MRS. SILAS STRAWN

Member of the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission

The appeal to the entire country for an adequate epic for Mount Rushmore Memorial is an inspired ideal at the present moment. Nothing more inspiring could be found to turn us to a thoughtful study and respect for our great statesmen, our history, our institutions.

Our Master said:

"He sent His word and healed them."

Words that thrill, words that heal, words that glorify great deeds—that inspire greater deeds are invited from each of our countrymen; words to be graven in stone for all time. It is a challenge worthy of the cause.

TEACHERS MAKE TIME PROTEST

A report published in the Pittsburgh School Bulletin by the Elementary Committee of the Pittsburgh Teachers Association recommends to the board of directors that quitting time for elementary teachers on days preceding holidays be the same as for high school teachers, 3:05 p. m.

On such days, elementary schools are dismissed at 3:45 p. m. The change the report suggests, would create a better morale and relieve discontent aroused by inequality.

Another recommendation is that the grade teachers' time schedule be rearranged to include a 40-minute period each day for special instruction for backward pupils.

The committee refers a special request for a 50-50 representation of high school and elementary teachers on the executive board to the nominating committee.

VALUABLE SUBSTANCES IN DRY FRUITS

Health-giving Vitamins A, B and C Are Made Available in Good Quantities All Year Around Through the Use of These Foods; Dried Varieties Should Be Thoroughly and Carefully Washed Before Using.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City.
United States Senator from New York.

Food is fuel. It is just as important to the human body as gasoline is to a car. Proper food is essential to good health.

Dried fruits contain health-giving substances. They should be more liberally included in the diet of the very young child, the school child and the adult. Every member of the family will derive beneficial results from the eating of dried fruits.

Dried fruits, such as dates, figs, raisins, apricots and prunes, have a low water content. During the dehydrating process the water is removed, but the flavor of the fruit is not changed. It is an excellent method of preserving fruit.

These dried varieties may be substituted for fresh fruits. Indeed, many fruits are especially grown for the express purpose of drying. Whenever possible, they are allowed to ripen on the tree. Thus the natural sugar content is increased and the flavor of the fruit is finer.

It is said that fresh peaches contain 10 per cent sugar and after drying contain 39 per cent. Other dried fruits contain 45 per cent to 55 per cent sugar.

VITAMINS RETAINED

Dried fruits are rich in lime, iron, copper and other essential minerals. Iron, combined with copper, builds up the hemoglobin, the coloring matter of the blood. Lime builds strong bones and teeth. Dried fruits are among the most valuable purveyors of minerals.

For many years it was believed that all the vitiamins were lost when fruit was dried. Today, it is known that a very large proportion of the vitamin content is retained. Vitamins A, B and C are found in good quantities in the dried fruit.

Vitamin A is found in apricots, prunes and peaches. This vitamin prevents infections of the eyes, ears, nose and throat. It gives vigor to the body. It promotes healthy and normal development. Without it, the growth of the body is retarded.

SHOULD BE INCLUDED

Vitamin B aids the appetite. It is necessary for the proper working of the digestive organs. Foods containing it should be abundantly included in the diet of the nursing mother, as it perfects the quality of the milk.

Children should receive an adequate amount of vitamin C. Their diet should be planned to include fruits and vegetables in which it is plentifully found. This vitamin must be daily replenished, as the body is unable to store it. It prevents disease and gives strength to the body.

All dried fruits should be thoroughly and carefully washed before using. Few of them require much soaking. The best manner of preparation is to stew them slowly in a small amount of water.

They can be served in a variety of ways. They are delicious and nutritious when served as a breakfast food, for desserts, or in combination with other foods.

Celebrities in abundance, the atmosphere of glamour, the anticipation of something new (excepting that at The Warwick there's scarcely ever a whisper of criticism from the sophisticated). COLLEGE RULING ON MAE WEST STIRS STARS

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, March 9.—Hollywood was a bit stunned, amazed and speechless today over the news that an Ann Arbor (Mich.) college debating society had "done Mae West wrong."

It wasn't so much, you understand, that the trim, straight-away figure of popular Zasu Pitts had been preferred in the judge's decision over the curvaceous lines of Mae West, but that the decision had come from a college debating society.

The principals in the debate received the news calmly—even disinterestedly.

EVADE COMMENT

They evaded comment—a bit undignified, they felt, perhaps.

The ladies of cinemaland were interested—there were some "ahs and ohs" after they had recovered from their surprise and even a few uplifted eyebrows but little comment.

Perhaps they were recalling the strained relations which resulted when Marlene Dietrich returning from Europe was asked in New York her opinion of the new Mae West style, and in an unguarded moment—or was it unguarded—dropped the remark she hadn't heard of such styles. It took weeks to calm down this little "tempest in a teapot."

RALLY TO MAE

But if the ladies held their tongues, the men did not.

La Belle West's co-workers—the male contigent—rallied as a man in her behalf. W. C. Fields snorted:

"Humph! After a decision like that you can't call the college men 'men' any more. Times certainly have changed since I was in school."

Jack Oakie was just plain indignant. He said:

"Mae doesn't have to worry about what college boys think. She is more highly educated in a number of things than they'll ever be."

George Raft Rejects Part With Mae West

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 9.—(AP.)—George Raft, screen actor, has notified Paramount studios he will not play opposite Mae West in a forthcoming screen production. Studio officials said another actor would be chosen.

Sequences in the picture call for a number of close-ups of Miss West with the back of the leading man to the camera. It was this fact to which Raft was reported to have objected.

$1,000 in Whiskies Stolen From Show

CHICAGO, March 9.—(AP.)—Somebody had made off with $1,000 worth of rare liquors today from the National Wine and Liquor Show, despite the presence of 100 guards and detectives.

It was taken from the roof bungalow of the Sherman Hotel, where a package wrapping contest was held.

Charge Spy Sleuth With Non-Support

NEW YORK, March 9.—(INS.)—Baron Rolf Van Heitzenstein Steinach, 48, described as "Germany's outstanding espionage officer," was held in $500 bail for a hearing March 21 in Domestic Relations Court on a charge of failing to support his wife, Helga, 37.

Boys Find Man Stricken in Street

Found lying in the sidewalk at Montezuma street and Lemington avenue by four small boys last night, William Coffey, 58, of 1304 Point View avenue, was dead upon arrival at Pittsburgh Hospital. He had been suffering from asthma for some time, it was said. An autopsy was ordered upon his body.

84 in California; Trees Bud Early

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—(AP.)—Southern California thermometers registered 84 yesterday, a new high for the warmest "spring" in 20 years. Citrus trees were budding ahead of schedule.

SPINACH RECIPE WINS PRIZE

Prudence to Give Readers Big Collection

It may seem a little early to be thinking of canning, but some of our far-sighted housewives have requested Prudence Penny to publish recipes for canning vegetables so that when the season is at hand, they will be prepared. In the summer the pleasant weather keeps us so much busier than the winter, making it advisable to assemble recipes now which we plan to use later.

Each woman, through experience, has adopted certain ways of canning vegetables which vary from the standard methods and are perhaps more satisfactory. You have your ways, your neighbor hers. Exchange them through the Sun-Telegraph prize recipe column, and by summer you will have a private prize winning collection.

Send all of your best recipes to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Some of them may bring you a $5 first prize or one or more of the ten $1 prizes. No recipes, due to the hundreds received daily, are returned.

FIRE INSURANCE ASSETS IN QUIZ

HARRISBURG, March 9.—(AP.)—Charges that 90 per cent of $9,000 collected by the State Insurance Department on the assets of the Provident Mutual Fire Insurance Company, of Braddock, Pa., was spent in liquidation were on the records of a legislative investigating committee today.

The charges were made yesterday before the committee probing the Insurance Department by George F. McCann, of Philadelphia, who resigned as field representative of the liquidation division last January.

McCann also charged that in six months the division collected about $9,000 in the liquidation of Lloyd's Insurance Company of America and spent $6,000 more than $5,000 for salaries.

PROBE BLAST KILLING FOUR

International News Service.

KENVIL, N. J., March 9.—Two separate investigations—one by state authorities and one by company officials—began today into the explosion of the Hercules Powder Company plant which resulted in the deaths of four persons and caused damage over a radius of 15 miles.

Company officers said they were at a loss to explain the blast.

The explosion occurred in the dynamite packing house as 300 men on the day shift were being relieved by an equal number of night shift workers.

All of the workers were knocked from their feet by the force of the blast and more than 100 were reported injured.

HEINZ

Great successes may come overnight, but invariably back of them are long study, work, experimenting, testing. Appert did not count time while developing a basic method to preserve food. In applying that method to modern needs, we are equally patient. Months, years may be spent in developing a product. Results justify the effort. We have always been sure of the merits of a product before it is offered to the public. We always will be.

Heinz prepares strained foods for babies to save you the trouble. Yes. But more than that! These eight Heinz foods, because of the Heinz method, have more vitamins than ordinary home-prepared baby foods.

Heinz keeps the fresh fruits and vegetables in air-tight vessels all through the cooking process, keeping in them all the juices, and thus retaining valuable minerals and vitamins.

Economy note: Heinz strained foods are of heavier consistency, so go further.

Chicago U. Buys Rare Manuscript

CHICAGO, March 9.—(AP.)—A 12th-century Greek manuscript of the life of Christ, bought by the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick in 1928 for $25,000, is to go to the University of Chicago for $14,000.

The probate court authorized the sale by the trustee of Mrs. McCormick's estate. Known as the Byzantine manuscript, it contains 90 miniatures of great value and interest to artists and historians.

State Asks Bond In Milk Licensing

HARRISBURG, March 9.—(AP.)—Milk dealers will not be licensed unless they file a surety or collateral bond under a regulation issued by the State Milk Control Board.

The board said each application for exemption will be passed upon individually, and that dealers financially unable to post bonds would be excepted if they obtained the consent of producers who sell milk to them.

Bear at Zoo Gives Birth to 11th Cub

MILWAUKEE, March 9.—(AP.)—Milwaukee's zoo today offered another phenomenon for naturalists to marvel at when Sultana, 25-year-old Polar bear, ambled through the entrance to her den with a roly-poly cub, believed by zoo directors to have been born December 12.

The cub is the eleventh born to Sultana, the only Polar bear in captivity to raise her babies to maturity. Her first cub, Zero, was born at the zoo in 1919.

Completes 3-Year 'Concert' of Bach

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 9.—(AP.)—The three-year task he set himself of playing all the organ music of Johann Sebastian Bach was completed yesterday by Prof. H. Frank Bozyan, of the Yale School of Music.

It was the last of 30 recitals of Bach's compositions for organ, given at Yale during the three years. Prof. Bozyan played nearly 300 compositions, and was heard by several thousand persons.

WHAT TO COOK, HOW, TOLD BY PRUDENCE

Here it is Easter and not an egg in the house! Easter has sort of sneaked up on us this year . . . it falls on April 1, which by rights is April Fool's Day. So we who work ahead of time must start planning menus along about now if we expect to beat the Easter bunny.

Meantime, there's St. Patrick's Day to think about . . . and the business of rounding up everything green that's edible for St. Patrick's Day parties. (Goodness, how few foods are green!) We've dug up a few suggestions for this and that . . . If you can use them, in whole or in part, you know you're welcome.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY MENU

Canape Shamrock
Puree of Split Pea Soup
Lamb Chops with Mint Jelly
Parsley Potatoes
Buttered Broccoli
Shad Roe with Watercress Salad
Pistachio Ice Cream
Cookies Coffee

Canape shamrock is made by cutting a piece of toast with a club-shaped cookie cutter. (The ace of clubs, of course, isn't exactly like a shamrock, but it's near enough to do in a pinch.) Spread with cream cheese tinted green with vegetable coloring, or use plain cream cheese and garnish with chopped parsley or chopped green pepper. If you like a bit more tang, flavor the cheese with anchovy paste, horseradish or finely minced onion.

With the puree of split pea soup, serve oyster crackers as a change from croutons.

Lamb chops with mint jelly, parsley potatoes and buttered broccoli carry out the Irish spirit and color scheme. For the salad, cut the shad roe in cubes and saute in butter until golden brown; serve on watercress with French dressing. Parsley potatoes are merely boiled and buttered potatoes sprinkled with chopped parsley.

Pistachio ice cream is conveniently green; or if you prefer you may serve lime gelatin on a brick of vanilla ice cream. With dessert, serve a plate of assorted sweet cookies.

With runners of green crepe paper on the table, a bowl of

SCIENCE FINDS NEW PROCESS

PASADENA, Cal., March 9.—(AP.)—Hot, blue stars photograph 25 per cent brighter in telescope mirrors surfaced with a new vaporized aluminum coating, Dr. Edison Pettit, astronomer of the Carnegie Institution's Mount Wilson Observatory, said today.

The process whereby a mirror is placed in a vacuum and aluminum reduced to vaper and allowed to settle on the mirror's surface like dew was developed by Dr. John Strong at the California Institute of Technology here. Previously silver has been used almost exclusively.

BALKAN STATES IGNORE LEAGUE IN PACTS FOR PEACE

BULGARIA NOT CONTENT WITH BOUNDARIES

Editor's Note — Pactomania has spread to the Balkans, H. R. Knickerbocker writes from Sofia in the twenty-third article of his series "Will War Come."

Foreign ministers are rushing rapidly from capital to capital saying "let's make a pact not to fight."

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service.

SOFIA, March 9. — Ice floes rise out of the mist and hasten silently by on their way to the Black Sea. We sit in a long thin skiff. Six oarsmen provide the motive power. A tall leather-skinned pirate at the helm guides us and murmurs in a husky voice his orders to the crew. We are in the middle of the beautiful Blue Danube.

An ice floe slips up on us from behind. The oars knock harshly on the ice. The steersman bears down hard, the boat rocks, the six passengers look at each other but the oarsmen laugh and 30 minutes later we are in Bulgaria.

This is the only way to get from Bucharest to Sofia. The way they made the journey 1,000 years ago when the ancestors of the Balkan peoples wore skins and bridges were unknown. There still is no bridge across the Danube below Budapest.

There is no bridge because the nations on each side always distrusted each other so much that they preferred the river between them. Today the distrust is not dead, but the bridges of international politics, treaties of non-aggression, are being signed with bewildering rapidity in this part of the world.

League Sees Europe Losing Its Faith

"Pactomania" is what they call it in Geneva. League of Nations circles dislike it because it means that Europe has given up hope that the League can be effective in preserving peace. As the League crumbled, first one nation and then another set hastily about the task of making its own individual treaties with its neighbors. When Hitler came to power and Germany left the League this movement accelerated until today the diplomatic scene in Europe is dominated by foreign ministers rushing from one capital to another, seizing other foreign ministers by the hand and saying: "Let's promise not to fight."

The Soviet Union started it. She always has been in fear of attack because Lenin taught that the capitalist world would not permit a Socialist state to live. Today Japan has made Russia's theoretical anxiety a very real one. Driven by desire to protect her back, the Soviet Union, through the astute Maxim Litvinoff, hurriedly made treaties with all her western neighbors. From Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland and even Rumania, she obtained the pledge not to fight.

Russia Surrenders Bessarabia Claim

The Russian counter-promise to Rumania meant in fact that she surrendered her claim to Bessarabia, which Rumania snatched while the Bolsheviks were busy with their revolution. Bessarabia is another one-time war scare that has passed completely out.

Hitler's coming drove France into the Soviet camp. France had been divided from Russia by the old quarrel over the Czarist debts. Moscow had previously been most friendly with Berlin. One glance at Nazi Germany sufficed to bring Moscow and Paris together. They pacted also, and though their friendship is not yet comparable to the old alliance of Paris with St. Petersburg, the lineup of the great powers in Europe in 1934 is almost identical with the lineup in 1914. France, Russia, England stand in sympathy at least against Germany, while Italy plays the undecided role.

Now the "pactomania" has spread tot he Balkans. First came the action of the Little Entente in the spring of last year when Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Jugoslavia consolidated their front and announced that henceforth no one of them would take any political action without the others.

Lifelong Enemies Sign Pacts of Peace

The clever Tewfik Rushdi Bey of Turkey and the shrewd Maximos of Greece led the way by signing a pact of non-aggression and friendship last September, an act that was far too little noticed in the Western World. It signified once more that two lifelong enemies, divided by centuries of hostility, had made up their differences, and that one more possibility of war had disappeared.

Today the same two statesmen have launched the most pretentious of all the Balkan pacts, a pact to include all the Balkan states, to make them all swear eternal friendship for every other one, and promise non-aggression. Turkey, Greece, Rumania and Jugoslavia are the principal participators. But what they most want is to get Bulgaria in. Bulgaria, on the other hand, insists she will not enter if the pact contains a reaffirmation of her present boundaries.

Her premier, Nikola Mushanoff, big, broad, ruddy-faced, with a cavalryman's white moustache, is elated over the improvement in the chances of keeping the peace in the Balkans. He is particularly pleased with the improvement in Bulgarian-Jugoslav relations. The two countries, ever since the war, have been in a state of latent war. Macedonia lies partly in Jugoslavia, partly in Bulgaria. Macedonian bands from Bulgaria constantly raided into Jugoslavia. Belgrade was on the point of mobilizing a dozen times. Today the Sofia government has quelled the Macedonians to such an extent that raids have ceased.

Belgrade also, impelled by anxiety over the gathering storm in Western Europe, and wishing to protect her back, made overtures to Sofia. The two kings exchanged visits.

It is clear that Bulgaria could prefer a bilateral treaty of friendship and non-aggression with Jugoslavia rather than enter the big Balkan pact which would force her to reaffirm her boundaries with Greece, Rumania and Turkey, who have all taken territory from her.

Fears War Threat In Western Europe

On the general subject of peace or war in Western Europe the premier was not too hopeful.

"There is only one way to prevent war," he said, "and that is by removing the injustices that lead men to desire to fight, and then disarm. If Germany succeeds in inducing the other powers to live up to their promises and disarm, there will be no war. If disarmament does not come war eventually seems to me to be inevitable.

"But no war ever solved any problems. New wars would only create new problems. It is absolutely clear to me that after another war all Europe would go Communist, and in my opinion the so-called 'victors' would be just the ones who would lose the most."

These were almost the identical words that Hitler used. I asked him what he thought of the German intentions.

Hitler," he declared, "cannot want war against a united Europe. There are definite signs of a change in the German attitude, Hitler for the last several months has spoken of nothing but peace."

The catastrophe theory, i. e., that war would bring the end of civilization, is the most widespread argument in Europe today against the possibility of war. The second most important argument is the growing inclination to examine the possibility that Hitler himself really wants to keep the peace and may want to do so permanently. Not every European statesman believes it, but the complete incredulity of Europe towards his promises last year has given way today to a sceptical "maybe."

STUDENTS JOIN ALBERT RITES

The ROTC units of Pitt and Tech will join in the memorial services to be held for King Albert of the Belgians in St. Paul's Cathedral at 10 a. m. tomorrow, Col. W. R. Dunlap has announced.

Massed flags of all military organizations participating will lead a procession from Webster Hall to the Cathedral.

The day has been proclaimed as a special term of mourning for the late King by Mayor McNair. Among those arranging the service are Col. Dunlap, Capt. Arthur Pasquier, of the Belgian army; Col. Eric F. Wood, Col. Samuel D. Foster, Lieut. Col. John H. Shenkel and Maj. C. F. Schisano.

Germany Declared Preparing for War

Dr. Heber Harper, of Columbia University, told members of the Congress of Clubs yesterday that Germany is preparing for war, but that Hitler wants to wait four or five years before beginning the conflict. If war comes before that time, he said, it will be directed toward German expansion into Russia. The Russians are fearful of such action, he added.

A trip into one of the concentration camps in Germany was described by the speaker, who said conditions were "indescribable."

OMELET MODERNE—4 crackers, ½ cup milk, 4 eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter.

Finely roll crackers, add milk and well-beaten egg yolks. Add salt and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Heat butter in heavy frying pan and pour in omelet. SPEAK UP, SISTERS!

Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance

By MARION BRUNOT

We Often Change Minds After Gaining Objective

The Jesse James brothers. I remember the thrill yet, when I gathered myself into a big chair in my Uncle Jim's room and laid the old red book in which were pictures of those desperadoes . . . right on my lap . . .

I all but shed tears when I came to the page where the greatest of the rascal brothers, Jesse, was hanging a picture on the wall, and was shot by one of his own gang.

Never have I taken a picture down from the wall since, or hung one up, that I haven't looked over my shoulder and imagined the lurking pistol.

It didn't seem fair to me that such a perfect criminal should have the life snuffed out of him in such a pastoral position. Much better the firing line on an aisle of a through-Western train, or on a wild horse near a railroad bridge on a moonless night.

For years, I never nestled down under the gray blankets of a Pullman sleeper without fancying those James men galloping up outside of the windows and creaming: "Hands up."

How I hugged my few precious possessions to assure safety for them.

And now I see where the biggest, "baddest" actor of the wild west days, has died. So this "Jesse" will never again be depicted as he really was even on the stage. The big black moustache, the wirey form and the villainous look of the old-time bandit has gone. And now we have the modern gunman, the racketeer, the two-faced society climber, in his stead. Poor pickings, I say.

What does an Al Capone in his bullet-proof limousine know of real danger? Where was Ponzi when the light of his bogus stocks went out? In a cell in Sing Sing, taking his medicine.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am a girl of 19, and have tremendous longings to go forth and do something no woman has ever done before. I never see a picture of some young woman who has dared something unusual, that I don't cry out in envy of her.

LONGS FOR ADVENTURE

Eve turned the world upside down when she did the serpent act. Salome found a straight line to publicity when she danced about with the head of John the Baptist on a platter. Jezebel was another who knew how to get headlines. So was Messalina.

Today we have a few of us who have made the world observe us. But they don't go in wholesale for real excitement. Imagine getting any kick out of swimming the English channel. A long piece of dirty work, I say. Helen Wills swinging that tennis racquet. Nothing about that so alluring. And poor little Anne Lindbergh taking that endless ride in the clouds, and getting nothing better than a man-handled medal.

Give me the wide open spaces and plenty of lure and I don't care how I earn it.

I'm a stenographer, and even my boss is just a USUAL man. He takes me home sometimes on a Sunday and feeds me up with mashed potatoes and fried chicken, so I won't be able to say much when he plays train on the floor with his kiddies. And there I sit, saying: "Bravo" when I'd like to get up and shout out loud for a real he-man.

What do you suggest, Miss Brunot! Or are you too prosaical to see the interesting side of a Jezebel. If so throw this in the waste basket.

BANDIT BESS.

A DIFFERENT AGE

The trouble is, Bandit Bess, you've been born in an age not your own. You should have come in with the gold rush of the forty-nines, and been a Kate Bender. Or you should have been living when the pirates were riding the main along the coast of the Carolinas and you could have dealt a few swift hand-outs to the peaceful mariner who was taking goods home to his wife and kiddies. Imagine the thrill of blindfolding some of the slowpokes you know, and watching them walk the gangplank.

You should ride a swift horse, or use the vacuum over an endless stretch of floor, or have 42 childrens' faces to wash before sun up. And then you'd feel better.

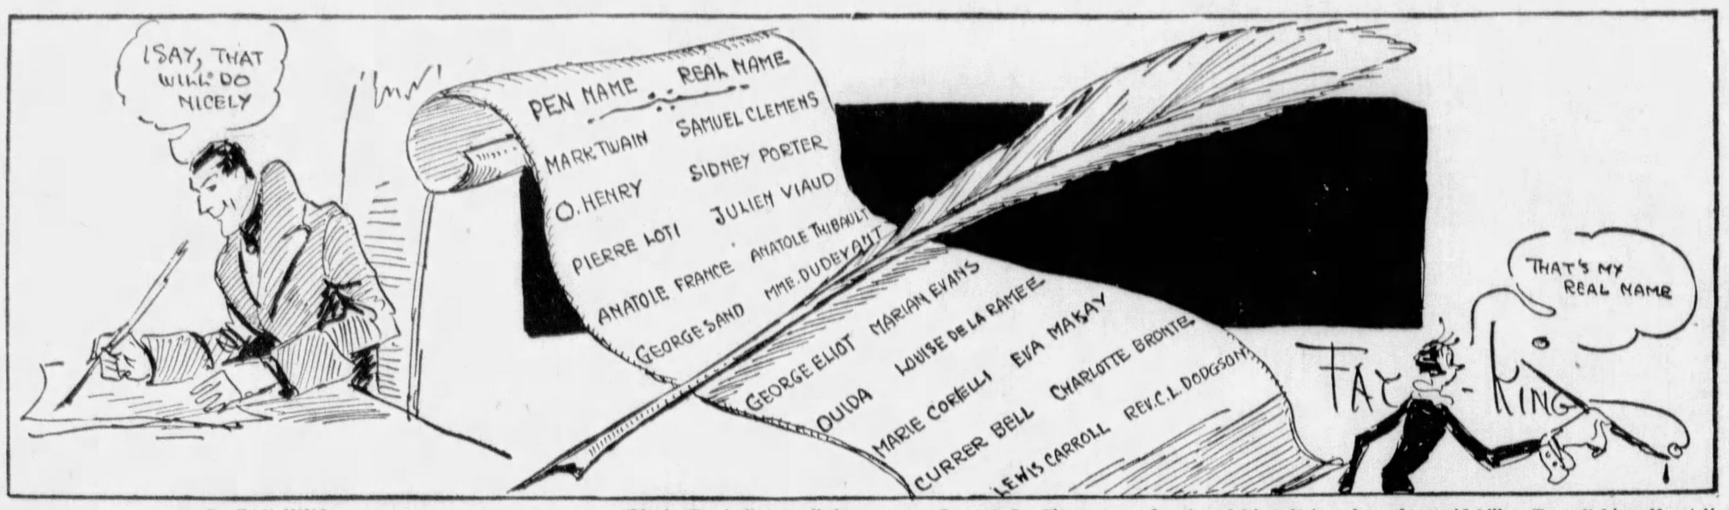
A nice office and a family man. These are nothing to you. You'd rather be on a speed boat with a rum runner. Time may tame you. And the day may come when you sing lullabies over a crib, and are contented.

But there will be water under the bridge in the meanwhile, or I surely would pity your husband. If there is a war, and there may be, get right into the thick of it. When shrapnel falls and when shelling planes hang over you, you may suddenly get a change of heart and run right straight to cover. Even you may make for Pittsburgh and the family man's office.

Nothing like us girls getting exactly what we want. Then we'll change our minds every time.

What do my other readers think of Bandit Bess?

Choose Good Pen Name and You'll Be Happy, Says Fay King



By FAY KING

It is quite a common custom for writers to use a "nom de plume"—that is a pen name.

In fact, there are almost as many pen names among authors as there are stage names among actors.

"Mark Twain," we all know, was Samuel L. Clemens, and Charles Dickens was "Boz" when he began to write.

But I never see or think of a pen name without laughing over one I once read about.

An Englishman had squandered a considerable fortune, and found himself in a bog of unpaid bills. To pull himself out it was suggested he write for publication. He decided to do so under a "nom de plume."

His articles were accepted, and signed Owen Hall.

"I took that because I'm owing all!" he explained.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Neglect of High Blood Pressure

Mark Twain said: "Everyone talks about the weather, but no one seems to do anything about it." This thought can be applied to sufferers from high blood pressure. Many are told they have this trouble, yet they do nothing about it!

Dr. Copeland

High blood pressure does not make its appearance suddenly. It comes on slowly, over a long period of time.

I am often asked, "What is the cause of high blood pressure?" This is difficult to answer in a general way because it may be the result of one or several disturbances within the body. As a rule, it can be traced to some change from normal function, brought about by such factors as heredity, overeating, auto intoxication, worry, lack of exercise, overweight and wrong habits of living.

Often the rise of blood pressure is the result of functional changes within the body. In other cases, the blood vessels of the body become hardened and thickened. This is called "arteriosclerosis" or hardening of the arteries. It is a common cause of high blood pressure.

Temporary increase in blood pressure can often be traced to a localized or "focal" point of infection within the body. For example, disease of the teeth, nasal sinuses, gall bladder or other organs of the body may be the underlying cause of the disturbance. The poisons liberated from the infected tissues circulate in the blood stream and serve to elevate the blood pressure. When the disease of the organ is recognized at an early stage and cared for immediately, relief or even complete cure is brought about.

It is difficult to advise treatment and diet for sufferers from high blood pressure. I say this because each case is different and requires individual attention. Your own physician who is familiar with the special peculiarities of the case, is the only one qualified to prescribe for you.

Those who have high blood pressure should be temperate in the eating of foods rich in albumin and protein, such as meat and eggs. These substances may be present in vegetables, fruits, milk and cream, but such articles can be safely taken. If overweight, the diet must be free from starchy and fattening foods. Overweight places an extra load on the heart and blood vessels.

If you have high blood pressure, my advice is that you place yourself in the hands of a competent physician. Report to him at periodic intervals for observation. He will then be able to determine what progress you are making and to modify his instructions.

Answers to Health Queries

S. D. Q.—What causes pulsating head noises?

A.—This may be the result of some constitutional disorder, or disturbance of the circulation, as well as ear disease. Consult your doctor for an examination.

Mrs. T. Q.—What foods would be suitable for a patient suffering from a gall bladder disturbance?

A.—In this case all rich, heavy and highly spiced foods should be avoided. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Hints for the Household

Asbestos in gas fires that has become discolored can be cleaned by sprinkling it liberally with salt when it is cold.

Piano keys that are discolored or yellow can be restored by wiping them over, one by one, with a cloth dipped in hot water in which a little bicarbonate of soda has been dissolved—about one teaspoon of powder to three tablespoons of water.

Glycerine will remove almost any stain from linen. It is harmless and will not injure the fabric. Dab a little of the warmed oil on the spots and leave for an hour or so, then rinse several times in cold water.

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

Madge, Frightened by Lee Chow, Flees From Room

To most women, moonlight filtering through tree branches, making a grassy lawn look like an enchanted ballroom for fairies, brings romantic thoughts of tender passages in their youth.

I have my own memories connected with moonlight, but it is not of them I shall think when next I see a moonlit garden. I am afraid that I poignantly shall recall the feeling of helpless panic that gripped me when the last car left the farm yard for the midnight drive to the ocean, leaving me alone on the lawn with Lee Chow.

Savagely I scored myself for my cowardice. Even if the Chinese meant physical harm to me, which was too fantastic a conjecture for even my excited imagination, he was so weakened by his recent experience with the poisoned dart contained in Marion's lock box that I easily could have prevented his doing me any hurt; indeed, could have rendered him distinctly hors de combat in any struggle between us.

But though I clinched my fingers into my palms until the nails hurt my flesh almost unbearably, I could not keep my knees from trembling as Lee Chow spoke in the calm, almost monotonous tones he always uses.

"It is a little too cold for you out here, I am afraid," he said. "Will you not come back into the house?"

He stepped aside for me to precede him.

FRIGHT INCREASES

I might have been going to my execution, or to some trial by torture, if my unreasoning fears were any indication of what awaited me. And when, in the hall, I compelled myself to turn and meet those eyes, suddenly devoid of all expression, I could hardly get out the commonplace courteous response which his simple request invited.

But, after all, I reminded myself sternly, I had no other course but to offer him courteous commonplaces, and then to listen to whatever he had to say. Never, in all my long association with him, had he given me any reason to suspect that he had any theory of life incompatible with the ideals of an honorable man.

"Will you come into the living room? There is still a fire in the grate."

Somehow I managed to get the words out, and I found myself waiting tensely for Lee Chow's reply, as if it were likely to hold some new terror for me.

"There is a better one in your little study off the library," he said. "As neither of us is in perfect health, I think we would better go there. I should not like you to have a chill on my account."

HURRIES AWAY

I almost laughed hysterically at the unconscious irony of his words, for I was exerting all my will power to conceal the trembling of my body from the chill which had crept over it for no other reason but sheer fear of him. And my terror was increased by the thought of being shut up with him in my little study, which, although it adjoins the library, is yet singularly remote from the rest of the house, having been added to the original structure as an afterthought upon the part of its first owner a century before.

"The study will suit me perfectly," I said mendaciously, but I made our progress to it as slow as possible, and, once inside the door, I spoke quickly, with my hand still on the door knob.

"Will you please excuse me?" I said. "I shall be back in a minute or two. I find that I have mislaid my evening bag, and I must find it. Just draw up that big chair to the fire and make yourself comfortable."

I did not wait for an answer or possible protest, but swung open the door and passed through it as I uttered the last words. Then I went noiselessly but swiftly through the hall to the front of the house.

The library door into the hall swung open as I neared it, and my hand went to my throat in stark, unreasoning fear. Had Lee Chow come through the door connecting the study with the library, and did he mean to intercept me?

"Margaret!" the most dependable voice in the world said softly.

With a rush of relief and gratitude I looked into the kind, loving eyes of the man who never had failed me since finding me, after his heartbreaking quest for me.

"Father!" I whispered, and, swaying, I felt myself caught and held in my father's arms.

Better Waistlines

Smaller and better waistlines come only through exercise. How the pretty, plump ones hate that word! A rowing machine will take off inches. So will touching the floor without bending the knees. Twisting exercises are good; they make the muscles elastic, tighten them, and they make fat cells so wretched and unhappy they go all to pieces.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Gifts-Shower and Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—My daughters and I have received an invitation to a bridal shower and to the wedding of the bride. I would like to know whether if I buy a shower gift, is it necessary to buy a wedding gift also?

2—Is it necessary for each of my daughters to buy a gift?

G.

1—The gift that we are expected to take to a shower has nothing to do with the wedding gift that we send later. You may "regret" the invitation to the shower, but if you accept a shower-inviation you take a gift to the shower. It need not, of course, be as consequential a gift as the one that you are planning to give as a wedding gift, but there must be some kind of gift, of the type suggested by the shower invitation.

2—You and your daughters may give a "combination" gift . . . this is perfectly proper. Indeed you may combine in giving the shower gift, and later, in giving the wedding gift.

Sympathy

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been going out with a man quite regularly for two years. Incidentally he is my superintendent and employer. His sister, whom I have never met, is quite ill and may not recover. Should I just send my card in case of death, write a personal note, or go in person and leave my card. Would flowers be unnecessary or be a kind expression of sympathy?

A.

Since you have never met the sister, I think that if you merely send your card, with "Deepest sympathy" written on it, you will show the best taste.

PAYROLL WASTE LAID TO EYES

One-fifth of the national payroll is wasted due to poor vision, stated Dr. A. M. Skeffington, eye expert, here to teach Pittsburgh optometrists the latest wrinkles developed by the Graduate Clinic Foundation of Optometry, Chicago.

Skeffington, director of the clinic, is principal speaker on the Pennsylvania Optometric Association's extension program, held in the William Penn Hotel this week.

The present method of testing eyes, he says, is obsolete.

Skeffington stresses the problem of eye fatigue and maladjustment in children and factory workers, pointing out that a complicated system of machinery and training, rather than eye glasses, is necessary to correct visual difficulties. He added that in the state of Illinois four out of every 10 children are visually unadapted to school work. He said:

"Of course they can see—but the important thing is the eye fatigue which makes them incapable of concentration. And in this highly complex society children have to concentrate as they never did before."

Contract Bridge :-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Penalty Pass

Although generally speaking better players do not like to have their Takeout Doubles of opposing Opening one-bids passed for penalties, there are exceptions to every rule. It is granted that the Takeout Double is one of the strongest offensive weapons that we have once the opponents have opened the bidding, and therefore any player with a big hand is justified in attempting to show this big hand to his partner by doubling for a Takeout first, even though his hand be most unbalanced in pattern. The partner of the Takeout Doubler should realize this and should very rarely pass the Double unless he holds at least three certain tricks in the opponents' suit.

However, since there is a still stronger call available than the Takeout Double—namely, the Overcall in the opponents' bid suit—and since this bid should be used whenever the hand is so big that it can guarantee a game even though partner has a blank hand, there are therefore times when partner's Takeout Double can and should be passed for a penalty.

On today's hand, which was played in a recent Duplicate game, the North and South pair scored a cold top on the board for themselves by setting the opposing one-bid three tricks.

West, Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ A 10 7 4 3 ♡ A 10 9 3 ◇ — ♣ A K 8 3
♠ K Q 6 5 ♡ 8 5 4 2 ◇ A Q J 10 ♣ 10	West North East South	♠ J 8 2 ♡ K J 7 ◇ 4 3 2 ♣ Q 7 6 5
	♠ 9 ♡ Q 6 ◇ K 9 8 7 6 5 ♣ 1 9 4 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ◇	Double (1)	Pass	Pass (2)
Pass (3)

1—Although North has no desire whatsoever to risk a "leave-in" of his Takeout Double by his partner, his hand is not strong enough to overcall immediately in the opponents' bid suit as this bid would be a Force to game.

2—South knows that generally speaking one should not pass partner's Takeout Doubles for penalties, particularly when the opponent's bid is at the level of one. In addition, with North and South vulnerable, if by some chance a game can be made, it would be practically impossible to score more points than the value of the game by penalizing non-vulnerable opponents. However, South has a singleton and a doubleton in the two major suits and furthermore feels reasonably certain that his diamond King will be valueless to his partner if the hand is played at either spades or hearts. Furthermore, a notrump game looks unmakable. South quite correctly decides to pass.

3—West should have become suspicious of the distribution at this point and should probably have rescued himself with one spade. However, one spade doubled would not have been much better.

In the play of the hand North opened the King of clubs and then shifted to the heart Ten. When the Declarer finessed the Knave, South's Queen won, and from this point on South was able to secure several ruffs and as a result the Declarer was held to four diamond tricks.

North and South scored 450 points, less 100 honors, for the set, while the best they could have made if they had played the hand themselves was a part-score in clubs.

TOMORROW'S HAND

On the hand below how can North and South reach a Slam in clubs without any unjustifiable overbidding by either player?

North, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 7 ♡ A K Q 9 ◇ A K J 7 6 ♣ J 8 6
♠ A Q 10 9 8 4 ♡ 8 5 ◇ 10 9 8 2 ♣ 7	West North East South	♠ J 6 3 2 ♡ J 6 4 2 ◇ Q 3 ♣ Q 9 3
	♠ K 5 ♡ 10 7 3 ◇ 5 4 ♣ A K 10 5 4 2

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Many of us like matching underwear when we wear black gowns. A new foundation is of heavy black silk elastic tricot with low-back lace and net brassiere and a black pantie ruffle with garters.

A warm welcome is due the Tuxedo rever of fur, a style not current for many seasons. A new suit in flecked rose and gray tweed has a three-quarters swagger coat with Tuxedo revers of mole. The fur continues over the shoulders and forms a small cowl in back.

CHECKERED STAR — PATTERN 624

Large Block Makes Striking Quilt

Checkered Star is a quilt that every quiltmaker would be proud to own. It is among the most handsome of designs and since the block is a very large one—17 inches—only few blocks are needed to make it. This gives the needlewoman the opportunity of having a quilt in the checked effect that is so lovely, with little work. The size of the block makes the patches that form the checks a good size. The quilt is one that is effective in two or three materials or even in scraps, should that be preferred.

Pattern 624 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

JUNIOR PATROL

Don't forget a kind word, fellows.

You know what we mean. When someone helps you, thank them warmly. Say "Please" and "Much obliged." Little pleasant words like these may not seem very important, but they are. People like cheery, sympathetic, kind-hearted friends. Keep your voice from being sharp and harsh. The next time you are angry and feel like speaking loudly, stop and think a minute. Of course, there are times when you have to be firm and emphatic. But it is never necessary to lose your temper.

Today we received a pledge from Mary Dolores Patthoff, of 224 Lloyd avenue, Latrobe, Pa. She is ill in bed, but when she gets well she will be in the sixth grade of the Holy Family School.

And now LaVerne May Allen, of R. D. 1, Pitcairn, Pa., writes: "I have a fox terrier at home and his name is Teddy. I like him very well. I try to teach him a lot of tricks. I try to be kind to animals. I have many other pets at home. I will try to get enough members to start a Junior Patrol Club."

Fine and dandy, LaVerne. We'll be glad to hear from you.

Also today Ritamary Schmotzer, of 28 Estella street, Pittsburgh, sends seven pledges. She writes that she and her members are starting a Junior Patrol Club right away. You only need three more members now before you can have an election for a captain.

And Capt. Mary M. Gorman, of 463 McKee avenue, Monessen, writes that her members are living up to the pledge. She sends three new pledges.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

ACQUIT SQUIRE, CONSTABLE

Justice of the Peace J. Denver Watson and Constable Charles Ulm, of Versailles Township, were acquitted by a Criminal Court jury yesterday of charges of aggravated assault and battery.

Casey P. Van Tassee, of Snake Hollow road, testified the two men struck him on the mouth and eye with their fists. The defendants said they were called into a garage January 20 to subdue Van Tasse, who, they said, was intoxicated and showed evidence of having been in a fight.

Not wanting to arrest him on account of his large family, they said, they took him in their car as far towards his home as their route lay, then put him out and told him to go home.

ACQUIT RENTON MAN IN KILLING

A jury in Criminal Court today acquitted Dominic Tiberio, 45, of Renton, on a murder charge.

He was tried for the killing of William Mellinger, 42, of Renton, on a road near the Renton schoolhouse last December. Tiberio pleaded self-defense.

Witnesses testified that before Tiberio fired his shotgun Mellinger reached into a pocket as if to draw a gun.

Man Shoots Boy For Stone Throwing

FRANKLIN, Pa., March 9.—George Collingwodo, 44, is in Venango County Jail, facing charges of felonious assault, a sequel to the wounding of 13-year-old Tracy Leyda, Jr., who is in Franklin Hospital with a bullet in the hip.

The boy was one of a party who stopped at Collingwood's home after a woodland hike. Collingwood told them to move on. Some stones were thrown. Collingwood fired at the boys, they told Sheriff Herb L. Beatty. Leyda fell in the snow and his companions ran for help.

Discovers Oxydol; Ends Hard Rubbing

Gets big wash and ironing done same day now!

READ MRS. WIRTHLIN'S LETTER

Mrs. C. Wirthlin
Cincinnati, Ohio

"When I washed the old way, I was so tired I could not do my ironing for several days. A few weeks ago I discovered I could get my clothes spotless by soaking them in Oxydol suds! Now I get my washing and ironing done the same day, am not tired, and have a whiter, sweeter bunch of clothes."

NO wonder this new laundry soap discovery has changed all Mrs. Wirthlin's past ideas about fast washing and white clothes!

Why don't YOU try it? No matter what soap is your present favorite, try this latest scientific discovery.

OXYDOL is made by the same people who make famous Ivory. It's the latest, improved laundry soap invention of Procter & Gamble experts. And does these things no other soap can do or has ever done.

Cuts washing time 25 to 40% in tub or machine, thus saves hours of labor. And the OXYDOL you get here contains Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades WHITER, by Tintometer test, than other soaps. Whiter in ONE washing than ANY other soap can get them in TWO to FOUR washings! Yet it cannot fade or injure either color or fabric. Special elements are so blended in it as to protect colors against fading. Even cotton prints and children's dainty frocks are safe. And it's so kind to hands that you're amazed at its power to clean clothes!

It works without back-breaking rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt. OXYDOL SOAKS dirt out in 15 minutes. So you never have to scrub and boil clothes clean.

Thick 3-inch Suds in Any Water

The new, improved OXYDOL will make thick "soft water suds" in any water, hard or soft. Without added "softener" or washing preparations. This is why:

It is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it's sold.

Water in this district, for example, has been tested for "hardness" by expert chemists. And the OXYDOL you get here contains just the right amount of softener to fit it. You can see the results in the suds. OXYDOL multiplies 500 TIMES in suds! Which means at least twice as much "soap action" as from old-style soaps.

We knew it had to be better to win women from older ways. So we made it better, and now we urge you to try the new, improved OXYDOL in your own home. We promise you'll save hours of labor. You'll get clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter, without scrubbing or boiling.

You'll have no more fading colors; no "soap streaks" after ironing; no soap-bitten, red hands. And OXYDOL is economical. By actual test a regular 25c package will do the work of 8 to 10 cakes of bar soap or 2 to 3 times as much flakes!

Send your name and address to Procter & Gamble, Dept. 48-3, Box 1801, Cincinnati, Ohio, and we'll see you get a regular 10c package (enough for 2 full washings) absolutely free. Or to avoid delay—get OXYDOL today from your own grocer.

WAGE, MONEY PROPOSALS DISCUSSED

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, March 9.—A reader submits two general propositions to me, and then adds:

"Please analyze these for me."

The first one is as follows:

"All persons who want work should be employed at the rate of not less than $1 per hour. This would give us a chance to buy up our surplus products."

In dealing with such propositions, one of the clearest ways to test the point is to ask, why not make the minimum $10 an hour, or $20? Why limit the payment to only $1 if the idea is sound?

Clearly there is some limit. What is it?

LIMITED BY OUTPUT

The limit of what can be paid to labor is set by what an industry produces, and by the minimum amounts which must go to capital and enterprise. Clearly a business can't pay wages in excess of its net sales.

Clearly, in fact, it can't pay all its receipts out as wages. If nothing is given as interest on invested capital and profits for direction of the enterprise, the business will cease to exist.

The chief reason why our so-called "heavy industries" are lagging, and thus keeping employment down, is that much invested capital has not been able to get interest. One reason why banks are unable to make loans is that business enterprise is unable to get profits. If too much is paid in wages, we kill the goose which lays the wages eggs.

So we can't just decide to boost wages. We have to consider from what source wages must come, and make allowance for other payments.

PROFITS ESSENTIAL

In many cases, I am sure, the only way to pay higher wages now is to boost the prices of products. But when we do that, we find the cost of living rises, so laborers can buy no more products than before.

The only ways to get rid of surpluses are to sell them cheap or to destroy them.

The only way to create new buying power is to make it possible to increase profitable production

MONEY PROPOSAL

The Second proposition is this:

"What this country needs is two kinds of money—standard money and printing press money."

(My correspondent would call the latter "NRA money"). The latter would be printed in large amounts and be put in circulation by paying high wages.

This idea always comes up in big depressions. It was held by "Coin Harvey" in 1896. It is the idea that we need more money, and that we should add a lot of bad money to our supply of good money.

I don't think that the country needs more money. We have about as much as we ever had.

But aside from that, if we put a lot of printing press money, which is not convertible at its face value into something which has a real exchange value equal to the figure printed on the paper money, the paper money will decline in purchasing power. Prices will come to be measured in this money.

WOULD LOSE POWER

Then the laborers' paper wages will buy no more food and clothing than before. Probably not as much.

You can't keep two kinds of money, one of which is not really worth as much as the other, at par. The good "standard" money will be hoarded. The paper money (whether backed by over-valued silver or not) will replace it in circulation. Inflated prices will result. Labor will be worse off.

This has been tried over and over again, always with the same results.

My correspondent should note that no one would hoard the printing press money, whether you provide some scheme for depreciating it each month or not. No one would want it to keep. That is just the trouble with it. Its purchasing power would be declining.

STOCK MARKET SENTIMENT IMPROVED

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP.)—Sentiment was mildly improved in financial markets today, but trading enthusiasm was lacking and prices were irregular during most of the business hours.

Stocks were fairly active on the upside for a short time after the opening, but profit-taking soon appeared and many gains were either pared or transformed into losses. Strength was displayed by a few specialties, however, including some Canadian issues.

Grains, silver and rubber were steady, but cotton eased. Bonds were narrow, as were international dollar rates.

Car loadings for the week ended March 3 were up 30,766 over the previous week, but this was much less than the seasonal gain owing to the abnormal weather conditions during the period.

While the financial district appeared to be somewhat reassured by developments at Washington which indicated that the bill for regulations of securities markets would be substantially amended, and that the NRA shorter hours' higher wages program would not be forced on those who could not afford it, opinion was mixed as to near-future price trends.

Some market commentators continued to point out that various "blue chip" stocks may have already discounted much of the bright economic news that is now appearing and that quotations, in several instances, seem to be out of line with earnings, both present and potential.

Participation in stocks and bonds from abroad was reported to have depreciated considerably in the past week or so, although sizable balances were being maintained here by leading European traders. There was said to be little change in the short account from its status a month ago. At the same time, a few brokers found that buying recently has been a little better than the selling.

CAR LOADINGS GAIN 30,766

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—Loadings of revenue freight during the week ended March 3 brought the total thus far in 1934 above the same period in 1932 for the first time during the year.

Reports of the American Railway Association today showed that 5,090,568 cars of revenue freight were loaded during the nine weeks of 1934 as compared with 5,069,471 in 1932 and 4,375,582 in 1933.

Loadings for the week ended March 3 were 604,137 cars, an increase of 30,766 over the preceding week, when loadings were reduced due to Washington's Birthday, and 122,929 above last year and 44,658 above 1932.

Every week this year has shown an increase over the corresponding week of 1933 and in most instances over 1932.

WHEAT CLOSES UNCHANGED

CHICAGO, March 9.—All grain values appeared to have hit a dead center late today, with trade at minimum. In the end, the wheat market hovered indecisively around the exact quotations current at yesterday's finish.

Wheat closed inert, unchanged to ¼ higher compared with yesterday's finish, hay, 86½-¾; corn ⅛-⅜ up, oats ¼-⅜ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

Tentative Cotton Quotas Revealed

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(INS.)—Quotas which are expected to be allotted to cotton producing states following passage of the bill by Representative Bankhead (Dem.), of Alabama, imposing compulsory crop reductions, were revealed today.

The quotas, based on the average production of the past five years, permit a total of 10,000,000 bales to be placed in trade channels.

These figures, although not definitely decided upon, are certain to approach the quotas finally adopted, it was stated. They will be effective during the ensuing two crop years, with a third year possible.

Former Messenger Boy Named Bank President

Murray Gains Rank At Front After Humble Start

EUGENE MURRAY

Another chapter in the life of a messenger boy was finished today.

Eugene Murray, who made his appearance in Pittsburgh's banking world back in 1896 as a messenger for the old Tradesmen's National Bank was elected president of the Fidelity Trust Company yesterday.

Having served as vice president and treasurer of that institution for many years, he fills the vacancy caused by the death a week ago of Malcolm McGiffin.

J. Farley Walton, formerly first assistant treasurer, was elected treasurer.

Thirty-six years of continuous services with the Fidelity were climaxed yesterday with Murray's election. He joined the company February 22, 1898, when it was known as the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, as assistant bookkeeper. Seven years later he was made assistant treasurer, and after another seven years he was elected treasurer.

Walton has been with the trust company since April 1, 1914. He was elected assistant treasurer April 12, 1917.

BANKS' EXCESS RESERVES AT NEW TOP

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP.)—Balances of Federal Reserve member banks today reached a record of $3,313,000,000. This figure, a $220,000,000 increase in the last week, represented more than $1,000,000,000 in reserves above legal requirements, exerting a pressure for business loans.

Accompanying the increase in excess reserves was a new record of $4,152,948,000 in gold reserves of the system as more gold purchases were transferred to the Treasury's account. The actual increase in monetary gold stock during the week was $155,000,000 to a new high of $7,556,000,000.

Daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended March 7, as reported by the Federal Reserve banks, was $2,559,000,000, a decrease of $15,000,000 compared with the preceding week and of $1,060,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1933.

On March 7, total Reserve bank credit amounted to $2,539,000,000, a decrease of $28,000,000 for the week.

This decrease corresponds with a decrease of $109,000,000 in Treasury cash and deposits with Federal Reserve banks and increases of $115,000,000 in monetary gold stock and of $10,000,000 in Treasury and national bank currency, offset in part by increases of $220,000,000 in member bank Reserve balances, $19,000,000 in money in circulation, and $8,000,000 in non-member deposits, and other Federal Reserve accounts.

Bills discounted declined $3,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and $5,000,000 at all Federal Reserve banks. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market declined $16,000,000 and of Treasury certificates and bills $13,000,000, while holdings of United States Treasury notes increased $13,000,000.

Allegheny Steel Net Profit to Increase

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor

CONTINUED ACTIVE demand for steel for the automobile industry will make it possible for the Allegheny Steel Company to report the greatest earnings for the first three months of 1934 of any quarter for several years, according to official estimates.

Production schedules of automobile producers call for operations at the present rate for at least three months. This indicates that Allegheny Steel also will show good results for the second quarter of the year unless labor troubles in automobile plants reach a great enough scope to seriously impede production.

Allegheny Steel makes automobile body sheets, stainless steel sheets, electrical sheets, and special types of alloy steel. The electrical industry, which normally consumes a large part of the company's output is working at a low rate at present, but automobile demand is a compensating factor. Electrical sheets are made of steel with a high silicon content and are used for the laminated cores of transformers, motors and generators. Allegheny Steel is a leading producer of this product.

DUQUESNE, DORMONT SET FOR W. P. I. A. L. BATTLE

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Many Fanning Stars Fail. Three Notable Exceptions. Blanton May Be Another.

Practice Field Important. Boost for Pitt Runner. Levinsky in New Test.

It may be argued that Darrell (Cy) Blanton's feat of averaging better than a strikeout to an inning in the Western League last year, piling up frames for the St. Joseph club, is no indication that he will be able to win a place on the Pirate staff for 1934. The doubting ones can point out that, while no modern hurler has succeeded in averaging one strikeout per inning for an entire season in the major leagues, almost 30 made that record before Blanton in the minors from the time that Tom Ramsey did it for Chattanooga way back in 1885. And yet very few of them made the grade in the big show afterward.

Darrell Blanton

The Pittsburgh club itself saw an example in Charley Wood, who couldn't gain a foothold in the majors though he had struck out 197 men in 197 innings for Wichita in 1930. Among others who made the average in the minors but never shone in fast company, were Ed Knuff, with Memphis in 1886; Harley Payne, with Youngstown, in 1890; Martin Duke, also in 1890; Willie Mitchell, with San Antonio, in 1909; Paul Muser, with Des Moines, in 1917, and Harry Ables, with San Antonio, in 1919.

NOT ALL OF STRIKEOUT STARS FAILURES

However, not all of the pitchers who averaged a strikeout per inning in the smaller circuits were failures in the big show, proving that there is a chance for Blanton to succeed. Three fair-to-middling slabmen who may be mentioned on the other side of the argument are Lefty Grove, who fanned 330 in 303 innings for Baltimore in 1923 and also came within inches of the average in 1922 and 1924; Tommy Bridges, who struck out 189 in 140 innings for Evansville in 1930, and Dizzy Dean, who missed by only one strikeout with 303 in 304 innings for Houston in 1931. Perhaps Blanton will prove another exception.

YANKS NEGLECT TO PUT FIELD IN SHAPE

It's surprising how little attention some of the so-called best minds in baseball pay to items that ought to receive special consideration. There's the matter of a spring training field, for instance. While handing Babe Ruth a contract for a trivial $35,000 and giving the usual circus touch to other Yankee affairs in preparation for a new season, it seems that no thought was given to the southern practice grounds by Owner Jacob Ruppert, Business Manager Ed Barrow, Manager Joe McCarthy or anybody else in the wealthy organization. So the Yankee advance squad found Miller Huggins Field at St. Petersburg in such poor shape that the early work must be done under a handicap.

Jacob Ruppert

There are other matters to be considered in pitching a baseball training camp, such as proper living quarters, food, drinking water and environment, but the most important of all is a fit playing field. Poor grounds make the right sort of practice impossible and may cause injury to the players. The Pittsburgh club has been known to send Groundkeeper Jack Fogarty all the way to Paso Robles in advance of the players to assure that everything would be in shipshape. A few years ago Donie Bush took the White Sox away from San Antonio to a new camp because he found the field in wretched condition. The main thing in preparing for baseball is to play it. Seemingly simple items, often overlooked, sometimes are the most important, recalling the time back in 1919 when Tex Rickard spent $50,000 to build an arena in Toledo and then put in a five-cent bell that almost ruined the Dempsey-Willard fight.

MOUNTAINEER COACH PRAISES PITT RUNNER

Mention here the other day of Mel Sheppard's former greatness as a runner, and the possibility of his being able to defeat some of the present stars if he were still at his best, brought an interesting letter from Art Smith, track coach at the University of West Virginia. Smith agrees that Sheppard was fully as good as any of the present-day luminaries and says Mel could beat practically any of them in match running if he were now at his peak.

"You have a distance runner at the University of Pittsburgh, named Wagenhouser, who should be a champion soon," Smith continues. "He showed great promise as a freshman under Frank Shea in 1932, and now, under Carl Olson, he looks like one of the best in the game today.

"I have always doubted the story that Paavo Nurmi carried a stop watch in his hand or on his wrist to time himself in his workouts. One has only to try it to see how hard it is. You have to slow up to see the watch, if not come to a complete stop. If it's a tenth-second watch, you have almost to light a match to see the figures. You know, there are very few official timers at our track meets who can actually read the small figures on a stop watch without the aid of glasses or a lantern, yet they give one glance at it and agree with some other timer who happens to have a loud voice in announcing what he got on his watch. One of the many fast timers that I know actually cannot read the small print in a telephone book, nevertheless he pretends to read a tenth-second watch, which is a whole lot harder.

"Nurmi did train himself to gauge his speed to the smallest part of a second, and was a wonder that way. His trainer held a watch on him for that purpose in practice, and, being a Finn, talked to him at various points in trial workouts. I know, for I saw it done. There are stop watches with special dials, specially large exposure and large figures for 'blind' timers and fellows like Nurmi to use, but Nurmi did not have one, and even if he did, he would have had to check his running to read it, which is not so good. And blind timekeepers have them only on few occasions, but still get by on a bluff."

KING TRIES ANOTHER STEP IN BUILD-UP

In their efforts to build up King Levinsky into a challenger for the heavyweight championship, the Madison Square Garden operators will send the Chicago battler against another hurdle in New York tonight, a 10-round bout with Walter Neusel, of Germany. Neusel has had four fights since his arrival in this country, knocking out Les Kennedy in six rounds, stopping Stanley Poreda in five, getting a decision over Ray Impellitierre in 10, and going 10 frames to a draw with Eddie Brown.

King Levinsky

While not a sensational record, this is a better start than most foreign heavies make over here, and though Neusel is not a great hitter nor a quick thinker, it indicates the German may give Levinsky plenty of trouble. However, the Garden people must have felt in making the match that the campaign to groom Levinsky for a meeting with Primo Carnera would be in no great danger of being wrecked. Judging from Charley Massera's experience, Neusel would have to win by a pretty wide margin to get the verdict, for while many ringsiders agreed that the Monongahela man had Levinsky beaten the decision went to the Kingfish.

Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, the former heavyweight champion, must be convinced the German is through as a topnotcher, following his two beatings by Max Baer and Steve Hamas, for he is reaching out and surrounding himself with other fighters.

One of these is Reds Barry, the Washington (D. C.) heavyweight, who meets Charley Massera, of Monongahela, in the 10-round windup at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Jacobs saw Barry fight Lee Ramage, of California, in Holyoke, Mass., last Monday night and thought he should have had the decision, which went to Ramage, a good fighter, who has just been matched to box Art Lasky, the St. Paul knockerout, in Los Angeles, week after next.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Jimmy Johnston is one of the minority who think Primo Carnera will have little trouble with Max Baer when and if they meet . . . "Where do they get that stuff about Baer being a great puncher?" he wants to know . . . "Sure he knocked out Max Schmeling, but what else did he ever do? . . . He fought 30 rounds with King Levinsky, 20 with Paulino, 10 with Loughran, 20 with Ernie Schaaf, 10 with Les Kennedy and 10 with Tony Heeney, and did he knock them out? Answer me that . . . He hasn't even hit Loughran, and he socked the others with his Sunday punches and couldn't stop 'em away . . . His standup-style will be easy pickings for the Big Guy."

Frankie Klick, the California boxer, must go down in history as a demolisher of reputations . . . He recently knocked out Kid Chocolate in Philadelphia, after Tony Canzoneri had stopped the Kid for the first time, and now he holds Barney Ross, the classy lightweight champion, to a draw in a bout on the Coast . . . In other words, Klick clicks.

R. N. WILLIAMS TO CAPTAIN CUP TEAM

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP.)—The United States Lawn Tennis Association took a step today that critics of its Davis Cup policies have been urging for years. It named R. Norris (Dick) Williams II, of Philadelphia, former Davis Cup player and captain of the team from 1921 through 1925, as leader of America's international tennis squad for 1934.

The announcement was made by President Walter Merrill Hall along with that of the Cup selection committee, a sub division of the larger cup organization announced Tuesday. It has the responsibility of gathering and training the team which will attempt to win back the famous trophy from England.

Holcombe Ward, chairman of the larger cup committee, also heads the selection group with Hall, Williams, Dwight F. Davis, donor of the trophy, John Hope Doeg, Jones W. Mersereau, Walter L. Pate and Bernon S. Prentice, the team captain in 1932 and 1933, as the other members.

A criticism of America's Davis cup teams of recent years has been that the control of the squad was placed in the hands of men who had never played in international matches themselves and who thus failed to handle the youngsters under them properly.

Williams brings both experience and a knowledge of present players to his task.

TWO PANTHER ACES HONORED

Pitt, champion of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball Conference, placed two men and Georgetown, West Virginia and Temple one each on the Conference all-star team selected by vote of the five coaches.

Claire Cribbs, at center, and Russell Ochsenhirt, the Panthers' star guard, are the two Pitt players selected, while the coaches named Harold (Red) Rosan, of Temple, at guard, and Ed Hargaden, Georgetown's conference scoring leader, and Joe Stydahar, of West Virginia, for the two forward posts.

Stydahar, with 96 points scored in Conference competition, and Hargaden, with 83, are the leading point getters of the Conference, while Rosan has totaled 68 and Oschenshirt 57, to lead the guards. Cribbs has only 33 points to his credit, but was the key man in the Panther passing attack and a fine defensive player. The selections:

FIRST TEAM

Hargaden, Georgetown	Forward
Stydahar, West Virginia	Forward
Cribbs, Pitt	Center
Rosan, Temple	Guard
Ochsenhirt, Pitt	Guard

SECOND TEAM

W. Hughes, Pitt	Forward
Colebank, West Virginia	Forward
Brown, Temple	Center
Rigg, Carnegie Tech	Guard
Crowley, Georgetown	Guard

Honorable mention—McCamant and C. Hughes, Pittsburgh; Fox and Mesilhomer, Temple; O'Connor and Connors, Georgetown; Meyers, Bucknell; Silverman, Carnegie Tech; Fidler, West Virginia.

NEW PIRATE PITCHER, ALSO A GOOD HITTER, AT PLATE IN PASO ROBLES WORKOUT

COCHRAN WINS CUE BATTLE

Welker Cochran, former three-cushion billiard champion of the world, and Johnny Clinton, local star and holder of the world's amateur title, will wind up their 1,500-point exhibition match at Joe Tobin's William Penn parlors, Smithfield street, tonight, engaging in the final block of 300.

Cochran last night put the match on ice as he defeated Clinton, 300 to 143, and running the total score to 1,119 to 818. Even a shutout victory for Clinton tonight will not bring him the victory, and his chances of pulling a shutout on Cochran cannot be classed as being exactly rosy.

Cochran had a high run of 72 in last night's match, scored in the fourteenth inning. The match was completed in 17 frames.

Boxing Briefs

Spike Webb, Naval Academy and Olympic Games boxing coach, says Slade D. Cutter, his 215-pound boxer at the Academy, is a potential heavyweight champion. He says he is a better prospect than Gene Tunney was during the World War. In three years of boxing at Annapolis, Cutter has not been beaten and has been held to a draw only once.

King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, is put to the test tonight when he meets Walter Neusel, German threat, in Madison Square Garden, New York, where Levinsky recently made an unimpressive stand against Charley Massera.

Ora Forman, Oakland (Cal.) promoter, has offered Barney Ross a guarantee of $25,000 to defend his lightweight title against Frankie Klick, who held him to a draw in San Francisco a few nights ago.

Ancil Hoffman, Max Baer's manager, is en route to New York from California to sign for another moving picture for Baer and also talk business with regard to a match for Baer with Primo Carnera this summer.

M'ARTHUR VICTOR

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 9.—(AP.)—Buddy McArthur, 118, of Fairmont, beat Chuck Burns, 186, of San Antonio, Tex., on a technical knockout last night by breaking one of Burns' ribs in the fifth round of the scheduled 10-round match. Burns failed to answer the bell for the sixth round.

DENIES GIANTS FOR SALE

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP.)—Regardless of rumors that have flown thick and fast since the death of John J. McGraw, the New York Giants are not for sale, never have been on the market, and will not be unless some extraordinary, unrefusable offer comes along, Charles A. Stoneham, Giant president, said:

"We might just as well get this straight now. No offers have been made me. I expect none. I would not consider selling the Giants unless so much money were offered that no sensible man could refuse."

Rumors that the Giants had been sold have for years been a regular Spring, Summer, Fall and Winter feature on the baseball calendar.

STEELERS SEEK THIRD LEAGUE LAURELS

By JULIUS LEVIN

The second of the four semi-finalists in the annual basketball elimination series of the W. P. I. A. L. will be determined tonight in the Pitt Stadium pavilion when Duquesne High School, defending champion and representative of Section VII, opposes Dormont High School, champion of Section IX, in a quarter-final engagement.

Duquesne High School, winner of the W. P. I. A. L. title in 1928 and last season, is one of the two schools among the seven survivors in the current tournament striving to be the first to win the league championship for the third time. Uniontown, champion of Section XI and which meets New Kensington, champion of Section I, in a quarter-final duel in the Pitt Stadium pavilion tomorrow night, is the other seeking its third league championship.

Organized in 1913, only six schools have managed to win the league toga twice, but none has succeeded in carrying it off for the third time. Wilkinsburg was a winner in 1913 and 1922, Butler in 1914 and 1915, South, of Pittsburgh, in 1916 and 1918, Homestead in 1923 (shared with Monessen) and 1929, Uniontown in 1925 and 1926, and Duquesne in 1928 and 1933.

The Steelers, coached by Ray Henry, are the favorites to reach the championship game, to be played in the Pitt Stadium pavilion a week from tomorrow night. Duquesne swept through its Section VII schedule without the loss of a league decision and its showing against Brentwood in its first appearance in the current series more than upheld the predictions of its supporters. Brentwood, champion of Section XII, defeated McDonald, champion of Section XIV, in a first-round duel, 19-15, before bowing to Duquesne in the second round, 41-20.

SHOW FINE RECORD

Dormont, coached by Sam Smith, likewise boasts an enviable record in league competition. The Section IX champion held the upper hand in this group from start to finish and in its first appearance in the tournament furnished one of the two major upsets when it defeated Washington, champion of Section XV, 37-31. Washington had been rated a favorite, but Dormont took the lead at the start and was never headed.

The coaches of the two competing teams have had a splendid opportunity to scout their opponents. Coach Henry, of Duquesne, got an eyeful as he watched the Dormonters eliminate Washington, while Coach Smith, of Dormont, didn't find his optimism increased as he saw the Steelers smother Brentwood.

Only one change is contemplated in the lineups of the two quintets tonight and that will be made in the Dormont array. Coach Smith announced that he planned to start Taylor at center instead of Brown as was the case in the Washington engagement. Jens and Foster will be at the forward posts and Brubaker and

MANAGER GIBSON TO DRILL ENTIRE BUC SQUAD TODAY

Believe It Or Not (Reg. by U. S. Patent Office) By Ripley

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: TRAVELING PENCIL POINT—Thirty-seven years ago, A. Marks, of Washington, D. C., was engaged in a friendly wrestling bout when a lead pencil, which was in his opponent's pocket, penetrated the flesh of his right shoulder just back of the joint. Not until after the wound healed was it discovered that the point was imbedded in the flesh, and, since it gave him no trouble, Marks neglected to have it removed. But, a short time ago, he noticed an irritation in the calf of his left leg, and then a lump appeared under the skin. Believe It or Not, in 36½ years, the pencil point had worked all the way through his body without harm.

TOMORROW: UNBELIEVABLE FAMILY RECORD.

ARKY VAUGHAN SIGNS FOR CAMPAIGN

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 9.—With all members of the cast in the fold and all present in camp save three and all salary difficulties ironed out to the satisfaction of the club and players alike, the Pittsburgh Pirates today prepared to get down to the serious business of getting into trim for the coming National League championship grind.

The pitchers and catchers and one or two members of the infield and outfield have been hard at it here for a week, but beginning today, Manager George Gibson will work with the entire squad, save for the Waner boys, who are due in camp Sunday, and Bill Swift, ailing pitcher, who will not arrive until Monday.

The Waners were delayed by the illness of their mother and were granted leave of absence. They left Oklahoma City yesterday. Swift, who has been having trouble with his molars and also with his contract, which he finally signed in Pittsburgh day before yesterday, left Scranton this morning for the coast.

Arky Vaughan, star shortstop, and President Bill Benswanger went into a huddle yesterday, during which they came to a salary agreement, and Arky signed for the year.

The first pair of workouts for the entire squad were on for today. All hands will be put through the drills, which will consist of fly chasing, infield work and batting practice. The pitchers have reached an advanced state of condition and will be able to toss plenty of fast ones at the hitters, who'll strive just as hard to pin back the ears of the flingers.

Yesterday the batterymen were given their last extended batting drill.

Larry French is to start the pitching against Portland Sunday, followed by Lloyd Johnson and Si Blanton, the two principal rookies on the staff. French's mother will be a spectator.

Only a few of the regulars will play, probably taking only one turn at the plate. Elmer Trapp, Wilkinsburg boy, who arrived here early and got the jump on other infielders, probably will play the full game at either shortstop or second base.

DUKES MEET GENEVA FIVE IN FINAL TEST OF SEASON

LOCALS EXPECT BATTLE WITH COVENANTERS

THE LINEUP

DUQUESNE.		GENEVA.
Birch	F.	Glasberg
Feldman	F.	Pennybaker
Brenner	C.	Schmitz
Reiter	G.	Grahame
Moore	G.	Littell

By JESS CARVER

There is an old saying among the gentlemen of the prize ring that a punch drunk fighter is a dangerous fighter. You never can tell when he's going to let one go. A punch drunk basketball team, one that has nothing to lose and everything to gain, is just as dangerous, and it is that sort of a team that Duquesne Dukes run up against tonight. The Dukes meet Geneva at Beaver Falls and it's no soft assignment.

The Covenanters came to town here a month or so back and tossed a real scare into the Duquesners. They were nicely ahead at half time, and had they not cracked wide open in the second period, might have put an early kibosh on Duquesne's then ambitious winning streak.

EVERYTHING TO GAIN

Since that time the Genevians have played only so-so ball. They lost to Waynesburg, Westminster (twice) and to Thiel, the defeat at the hands of the Yellow Jackets erasing them from further consideration in the Tri-State Conference race. That defeat did not do the Covenanter morale any good. Subsequent losses to the Titans and Thiel put the Loefflermen back on their heels.

However, realizing that they can salvage much from a somewhat sunken cause by beating the Dukes, they may be depended upon to give their well-known all. It will take just that to beat the Dukes, of course, but the Genevians may have one more winning volley in their systems at that.

At any rate, Coach Chick Davies plans to take no chances. The Duquesne regulars will start and they'll stay in the action until a safe margin has been established. Chick will fight it out along that line if it takes all night.

CURRIE, JANOSIK THROUGH

A brace of sterling athletes wind up their varsity basketball careers tonight as Waynesburg and Washeff tangle at Waynesburg. The ads are Rab Currie and Joe Janosik, of the Jackets, who started their athletic careers on the same Monessen High School team eight long years ago and have battled through thick and thin ever since.

About all Wash-Jeff can hope for tonight is to hold the score down. The Jackets laid it on fairly thick in the first game of the series at Washington and there's nothing in the stars to indicate any change tonight.

There will be a dearth of Pitt athletes around Oakland with all Panther winter sport teams, save the wrestlers, seeing action abroad. While high school quintets are battling for honors in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion, the Blue and Gold swimmers, basketball players, boxers and track and field stars will be engaged elsewhere.

Dr. Carlson's cagers, still minus the services of Claire Cribbs, star center, will meet the vastly improved West Virginia Mountaineers at Morgantown.

WEST VA. DANGEROUS

The continued improvement in Bleepy Glenn's court team, which has lost but four games all season, only one less than the Panthers, has made the boys from across the state line a much-feared foe. With Cribbs out of action, West Virginia fans are counting upon Big Joe Stydahar to have a good day against Pitt for the first time.

After the varsity and freshmen floor teams are through tomorrow night, the boxing teams of the two schools will go to it.

Carl Olson has a picked squad of track and field artists at South Bend today, waiting for the trial heats tonight in the Central Collegiates to be held in the Notre Dame field house.

Tonight the Pitt swimming squad, 15 strong, entrains for Newark, Del., where they will take part in the Eastern Collegiate Swimming Association individual championships, to be held in the University of Delaware pool.

Bucknell and Wash-Jeff meet in an Eastern Intercollegiate boxing match in Washington, Pa., tonight.

Brown or Tabachnick at the guards.

LINEUP INTACT

The Steelers will take the floor with George Kocheran and Al Gabrelcik at the forwards, Eddie Wisbar at center and Joe Proksa and Mike Krenitsky at the guards.

The winner earns the right to battle the victor in the Ambridge-New Castle game, carded tomorrow night in Beaver Falls High School, in the semi-finals next Wednesday.

The playing of the last two quarter-final matches tomorrow evening, New Kensington and Uniontown in the Pitt Stadium pavilion and New Castle and Ambridge at Beaver Falls High School, will leave four survivors and set the stage for the semi-finals, the first of which is scheduled next Tuesday. New Castle will be without the services of Jack Hitchens, who sprained his ankle in practice yesterday.

SCOTT QUINT VICTOR

Ernie Bache, Scott High School's star, is the hero of the school today as the Scott quintet finds itself in the semi-final round of the W. P. I. A. L. tournament. The Scott passers came dangerously close to not being in such a position, for Mapletown High School's tossers gave them a merry tussle of it in a quarter-final battle at Washington, Pa., last night, the North Braddock team winning by the narrow margin of two points at 25 to 23.

With two minutes left to go in the final period Mapletown held a two-point lead, 23 to 21, but Bache came through with a pair of goals to bring his team the victory.

Mapletown led at the end of the first period, 7 to 2, Scott was ahead at the half, 10 to 9, and at the finish of the third period, Mapletown again held the lead, 18 to 17. The final period was a mad scramble, with Mapletown once losing a glorious opportunity to put the game on ice when the officials refused to allow a goal scored by Ross, star center, under the hoop. They awarded him two foul shots instead and badly rattled by the cheering crowd, he missed them both.

Ross was the leading scorer, with 13 points. Aleskus, Scott center, tallied 11 and Bache was good for 10. The lineup:

Scott	G.	F.	Pt.	Mapletown	G.	F.	Pt.
Widlocier, f.	1	0	2	Yanosh, f.	2	1	5

WILLIAMSPORT OUT

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., March 9.—(AP.)—Williamsport High School has been eliminated from the playoffs for the sectional championship of District No. 4 of the P. I. A. A.

The district committee announced that it has upheld protests from Keystone League teams that Williamsport is ineligible to compete because it was twice defeated by Sunbury High.

Outboard Racers Resume Cup Duels

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 9.—(AP.)—Speed boat drivers from this and six other countries set their craft in the waters of Lake Worth today for the second of a three-part international regatta.

The first part of the regatta was held at New Smyrna recently, and the final part will be held at Miami later this season.

Today and tomorrow the outboards claim attention, but Sunday the main attraction will be the first American appearance of the 12-litre racing boats brought over by the foreign teams.

KISKI BOASTS FINE GOLFER IN MEYER

By TOM BIRKS

One of the best junior golfers in the district, Foster Meyer, has been named captain of the Kiski golf team.

Meyer will succeed Jim Marks, Jr., who is following in the footsteps of brother Wilson and has entered Princeton, where he will make a bid for the Tigers' golf team when eligible. Both of these golfing sons of Jim Marks, Kiski dean, hope to enter the nation's golf spotlight as candidates for the Princeton team.

It was George Dunlap, Jr., wearing the spangles of Princeton, who astounded the large gallery at Oakmont Country Club a few years ago when he staged one of the greatest comebacks in the history of golf to overcome a 4-up lead held by Larry Molnar, of Notre Dame, to win his first intercollegiate title.

Meyer is a son of C. F. Meyer, of the Highland Country Club, one of the stalwarts of the club, and where Mrs. Meyer, as chairman of the women's committee, has helped to make it one of the most progressive in the district.

Vincent Eldred, club professional, who has been polishing young Meyer's game, is certain that the young Highlander is going to be one of the best amateurs in the district before long.

Foster has the ideal temperament for a golfer, according to Eldred. He is assimilating plenty of knowledge playing with good amateurs such as Knox Young, the present West Penn amateur champion, Jerry Wyman, Dick Boucek, Jimmy Ramsey and Frank Nash. Being a natural golfer, his game is bound to improve. He is going to make a good leader for Jim Marks' boys in the tough battles that lie ahead.

PRIMO'S PILOT JAILED

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP.)—William J. Duffy, American manager of Primo Carnera, was sentenced to the Federal House of Detention for four months today, for failure to file an income tax return for 1930.

FARGO, N. D., March 9.—(AP.)—Russell (Russie) LeRoy, former contender for the lightweight and welterweight boxing championships, died in a hospital today after a week's illness with a complication of diseases.

He began his ring career when he was 18 years old under the guidance of Jack Hurley, who also managed Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express, until his recent retirement. LeRoy retired in 1930, after losing to King Tut, of St. Paul, in St. Louis.

He engaged in 105 fights, scoring 25 knockouts and losing five times in that manner.

Neusel Outscaled By King Levinsky

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP.)—King Levinsky, of Chicago, will have nearly a seven-pound pull in weight when he meets Walter Neusel, German heavyweight, in their 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight.

The Kind tipped the scales at 203½ pounds at the weighing-in ceremonies today while Neusel balanced the weights at 196¾.

League flag and the West Penn cup last season, will be out to repeat its triumphs.

Harry Sickles, captain of the Gallatin club, is classed as the best center halfback in the district, and makes a specialty of watching Donnelli. If the upriver star can stop Buff, Gallatin may win.

Net Tour Draws $75,000 to Date

ST. LOUIS, March 9.—(AP.)—The touring Franco-American tennis professionals are luring customers to the box office at an even merrier clip rate than the all-American troupe, Bill O'Brien, manager of both tours, disclosed today.

O'Brien beamed as he announced that gate receipts for the first half of the Franco-American tour totaled $75,723, about three-fourths of the amount collected for the entire tour of Big Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines, Vincent Richards and Bruce Barnes. He expects to get at least $50,000 more from the matches here, in Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

A. B. C. Tournament Opened; 2,282 High

PEORIA, Ill., March 9.—(AP.)—Peoria booster teams will get their first crack at the pins in the thirty-fourth annual American Bowling Congress tonight when 24 squads take charge of the alleys in the State Armory.

Booster teams generally are given the honor of opening the A. B. C., but last night the Peorians relinquished the honor to teams from the State House at Springfield.

A 2,282, rolled by the Department of Finance team, was the best effort turned in by the Springfield squads.

That Spring Golf Feeling Doesn't Last—Ouimet

By FRANCIS OUIMET

Former National Amateur and Open Golf Champion

Judging by the calendar spring and golf soon will be with us, although a look out of the window at the snow-covered terrain as this is being written hardly would confirm this prophecy. It won't be long before the old familiar foursome once again will be unlimbering their muscles and alibis in the fairway and rough. Even now there are many who are lining up their putts on the living room rug in the hope of getting a head start.

Oftentimes the average golfer will be able to score better for the first nine holes of his yearly initial round than he will for some time afterward. I have known golfers to step up to the tee after a long winter's layoff and drive the ball straight down the fairway in a manner comparable to mid-season form. I have seen them hole putts from the far edge of the green as if it were a common occurrence. Players running into such a low scoring spree as this will be inclined to think that they have at last mastered the game. Perhaps the long winter layoff was just the tonic needed; maybe their minds and muscles have unconsciously worked over this idea of a grooved golf swing during the inactive months and perfected it. They see brilliant days ahead in which their scores never shall be over 80 with a chance of placing the cup emblematic of the club championship on the mantelpiece.

MUSCLES START TO TENSE

It is a shame that such blissful day dreams should have a rude awakening, but along about the tenth hole an alarm clock rings and they snap out of their reverie. The shots do not seem to be going as well as they did at first. Perhaps the drive was a bit off or a short putt missed the cup. By the time the eighteenth hole is reached the game is only a sad resemblance of the one on the first hole and the player's face mirrors it.

There probable are several reasons for this strange occurrence, which, after all, is not so uncommon. The player's muscles, generally unused through the winter months, are not taut and the swing is smoother as a consequence. Then, again, the player probably has temporarily forgotten all the little things he was supposed to do with this swing in order to make it function correctly, as he had forced himself to do last season, and he thus was able to concentrate on hitting the ball. Experimenting had been temporarily sidetracked. Later on the muscles unused to the swing at this early stage begin to tighten up and in an effort to iron out the difficulties he tries different remedies with the result mentioned above.

TAKE LONGER BACKSWING

Getting attuned to the golf swing is often a discouraging process in the springtime. After the first fruitful results mentioned here it often is a struggle to regain last year's form. Particularly is this true of the duffer who lacks a grooved swing that he can depend upon. If he plays only once or twice a week it naturally will take him longer to reclaim the game he has been used to playing. One idea that helps is to make oneself take a longer backswing than the natural inclination calls for. This in turn will tend to smooth out the kinks and at the same time add an easy accelerated momentum to the stroke. Desperate hitting at the ball not only will shock the hands but the nervous system.

FOXX ACCEPTS TERMS WITH MACKMEN

International News Service.

MIAMI, Fla., March 9.—Jimmy Foxx, home run champion of Connie Mack's dismantled Philadelphia Athletics machine, today deserted the holdout ranks, accepting terms after a conference with Mack. It was reported that his salary was slightly below $20,000 and it is a one-year agreement.

Mack's first offer was said to have been $11,000 which represented a $5,000 slash in the salary Foxx had been receiving. Then Mack raised the ante to $15,000 and a bonus based on attendance figures. Foxx rejected this because Mack wanted to base the bonus on a million attendance at games in Philadelphia, a figure which the Athletics haven't reached in many years, if ever.

The Macks and Giants open their spring series at Miami Beach today.

Baseball Briefs

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—(AP.)—Dick Bartell, captain and shortstop, is the latest addition to the Phillies' training camp. Bartell held a long conference yesterday with Manager Jimmy Wilson, and then went through a brisk workout in the infield with his mates. He was enthusiastic over the club's pitching prospects this year.

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP.)—For the first time since they established camp, the pitching staff of the Cleveland Indians began hitting some fast ones over the plate to test their speed. Curves were taboo, but Manager Walter Johnson thought his pitchers already had reached the point where they can show the hitters some stuff when the latter report for duty next Monday.

BROWNS ALL SIGNED

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP.)—The last of the St. Louis Browns has signed, completing the roster for the 1934 season. First Baseman Jack Burns signed here yesterday nd worked out with the squad, as Art Scharein, young third baseman, came to terms in St. Louis. George Blaeholder, pitcher, who delayed his arrival several days, came into the fold last night.

AVALON, Cal., March 9.—(INS.)—George (Tuck) Stainback, Chicago Cubs' $75,000 rookie outfielder, suffered what was feared a broken ankle here yesterday. Stainback turned his ankle when he leaped for a batted ball and slipped on the wet grass. At a hospital X-ray pictures showed a break just under the inside of the left ankle.

ORLANDO, Fla.—(AP.)—Jimmy Jordan, last heard of in South America, has arrived in the Brooklyn Dodgers' training camp and immediately relieved Manager Casey Stengel of the worry as to the status of his promising young shortstop by agreeing to financial arrangements for 1934.

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP.)—Five Boston Red Sox hurlers, including Bob (Lefty) Grove, were certified as ready for action by Jack Onslow, who was detailed by Manager Bucky Harris to take charge of the conditioning of the pitching staff. The former Richmond pilot named Grove, Bob Weiland, Rube Walberg, Fritz Ostermueller and Dusty Rhodes as fit and the veteran Herb Pennock as the only sluggard getting into shape.

ALTROCK IS TUTOR

BILOXI, Miss.—(AP.)—Nick Altrock is trying to teach Ray Prim how he used to chuck them over for the White Sox "Hitless Wonders" of 1906. Manager Joe Cronin, of the Senators, believes all that Prim needs is more stuff on his curve ball, and Nick has been given the job. He's throwing in some tips on how to keep runners hugging first base.

LAKELAND, Fla.—(AP.)—Manager Mickey Cochrane will get his first look at the Detroit Tigers in action today when the club plays its first six-inning practice game here at the training camp. Herman Clifton, the 155-pound infielder who spent last season in the Texas League, has joined the squad and is out in uniform.

PASADENA, Cal.—(AP.)—Mule Haas led the White Sox Regulars to a 7-to-3 victory over the Yanigans by cracking out a home run and a double yesterday. The game extended over six innings and was surprisingly well played, three double plays being completed in the first two innings.

BRADENTON, Fla.—The second squad of Cardinals reported for training today, but Outfielders Ernie Orsatti and George Watkins and Pitchers Flint Rhem and Paul Dean were not among them. The four are listed as holdouts. Several veteran pitchers were ready to throw "stuff" in today's batting drill.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The New York Yankees' holdout roster numbered only three today—Catcher Bill Dickey, Ben Chapman, fleet footed outfielder, and Lynn Lary, utility infielder. Fred (Dixie) Walker came to terms with the management yesterday.

TAMPA, Fla.—The veteran pitcher, Dazzy Vance, is performing impressively with the Cincinnati Reds, to whom he is a newcomer. He said to be more advanced at this stage of spring practice than he ever was before.

POPE, SUMMERS SPLIT EVEN AT SQUASH

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Ben F. Pope, instructor at the Keystone Athletic Club, split even with Jack Summers, national professional champion and coach at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in the first four matches of their 25-match squash racquets engagement at the Keystone Athletic Club today. Pope won the first, 15-7, and the fourth, 18-15, while Summers took the second, 15-10, and the third, 15-11. The series will consist of 25 games spread over six sessions.

Ben F. Pope

The second block is scheduled for 5:15 this afternoon, with others others listed for 1 and 5 p. m. tomorrow and 2:30 and 5:30 p. m. on Sunday. Concurrently with the moneyed exhibition will be staged quarter-finals, semi-finals, and final of the annual city Class B championship tourney.

The Class B title affair, its original field of 61 reduced to a group of eight survivors, resumes action at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, when Dr. Whitey Stegeman, P. A. A. star, engages Jean Caspar, home club performer. George Henderson, Winged Header, meets Chip Kennedy, veteran Keystone tactician, and Rod Flannery, another Red and Gray giant, battles the writer.

MANOS MEETS O'LOUGHLIN

Theos Manos, handball premier who has lately attained notable proficiency with the racquet, encounters Dr. John O'Loughlin, fifth of the P. A. A. contingent, at 6 p. m.

Summers, a cagy, all-court player, has attained fame not only for his ability to produce the proper stroke at the proper moment, but also for an indomitable fighting spirit that has made it possible for him to struggle past spectacular opposition to annex top honors in three of the last four nation-wide titular conclaves. Summers defeated Pope in the national wind-up at Boston in 1931, but suffered reversal at the hands of the Pittsburgher in special tilt at the K. A. C. a few weeks later. He downed Danny Martella, brilliant Wilmington Racquet Club "pro," in the 1932 final, lost to Johnny Skillman, then of Princeton and now of the Apawamis Club, in the 1933 quarter-finals, and outstayed Skillman as the latter developed a foot injury in the 1934 trophy round not long ago. Large throngs are expected to sit in at the various showings of the event.

HANDBALL STARS CLASH

Handball captures attention tomorrow with terminal joust slated in the post-campaign Class A playoff round robin in the City League. Y. M. H. A. and Keystone A. C., both still in the going for laurels, are paired for the ultimate fray, with the former needing 4-1 victory to cop and 3-2 decision to tie. The affair is booked for the Downtown Y. M. C. A. courts.

Art Scher will receive entries for the Junior A. M. A., A. A. U. glove championships at the Y. M. H. A. until tomorrow evening. Singles activity begins Monday and doubles two days later.

Pairings Arranged For Floor Tourney

Pairings have been announced for the Negro basketball tournament, sponsored by a local Negro weekly, which gets under way Monday evening at the Soho Community House when the Master Minds meet Saratoga. Center Avenue Y. M. C. A., Sixth Ward Republican Club, Rankin Christian Center and Phipps Gymnasium on the North Side, will be the scenes of the early-round games. The pairings:

By CARL W. SHATTO

In a wild, bloody skirmish that was an excellent takeoff on the battle of Bunker Hill, the Yellow Jackets extended their lead in the American and International Lacrosse Association to six points by downing the Chicago White Sox, 11 to 9, at Motor Square Garden last night.

Al McLean, Pittsburgh's big, rugged center, captured the lion's share of the laurels by scoring four goals, assisting on two others and wrecking Kelly DeGray, the leader of the Sox, in a stirring fistic combat. DeGray warmed up for his battle with McLean by engaging Percy Langevin in a fist fight in the first period. It was a draw, each drawing major penalties.

STARS IN SCRAP

Late in the second chukker, DeGray, still full of fight, squared off against McLean. There was a wild flurry of fist throwing, and both fell to the floor as members of both teams sought to separate the combatants. When the lads came out of the huddle and the wreckage was cleared away, DeGray was bleeding profusely from a cut above his left eye, and his side was so badly caved in that it is feared a couple of his ribs are fractured. An X-ray picture is to be taken today to determine the full extent of his injuries.

DeGray, a game battler, showed he could "take it" by attempting to return to action in the third period after being carried off the floor. The injury to his side was so painful, however, that he had to quit and call it a night.

Although the warriors swung their sticks in a manner that was little short of brutal from start to finish, the only other fistic combat was staged in the third period, when Til Stokes, Chicago goalie, rushed out of the net and let go a punch at Referee E. A. Corey. Corey suffered no damage, and put an end to the affair by sending Stokes to the cooler for five minutes.

LAFRANCE INJURED

Harry LaFrance, Jacket forward, suffered a painful injury when he was accidentally hit in the mouth by Roddy Clarke as he slammed home a goal early in the third period. The blow was particularly painful because LaFrance had had a few teeth extracted only a few hours before the game.

Although blanked in the second period, the locals held the lead throughout. In carrying the attack to the S

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XIII.

More than 20 years since Chickie and Barry Dunne had parted. Much more than 20. In 20 years they had not seen each other's face. Chickie's heart shook.

She wore a blue sports dress and a soft sailor hat. The gold hair showed and a faint shadow deepened her dark, tender eyes. She looked like a girl. In the first flashing moment she looked exactly as she had that summer day at the Abbot week-end when Barry Dunne first so flamingly said: "I love you."

His eyes in a strained ashen face stared past and beyond her. His hands pressed the table. Something in his pose and his dead pallor recalled piercingly to Chickie their last terrible meeting when it was borne in on her that she was deserted utterly. He would not marry her. Alone she must bear the child. Alone she must take the shame. She had gone from him and tried to drown herself in the bay.

For the first time in years—many years—the memory was a red flame in her mind. She saw herself hanging from the pier, her hands burning and the winds of desolation blowing on her heart.

Mechanically she heard herself answer: "I have met Mr. Dunne."

She did not glance at the man before her, but at the Barry who stooped that night of doom and touched the wet hem of her skirts; who caught her bruised hands and looking at them, said with a sob:

"Heavens—what did you do!"

Memories Return

Chickie found herself weak and sat down. In the years of her marriage she had grown away from the past. The wounds were covered over. Rarely—almost never—did the image of the man she had once so wildly loved come into her mind. With the birth of Jon she lost even the wish to vindicate herself. She no longer thought with anguish and pity of the little grave where the child of that love lay buried.

But now the tiny thing was in her arms, its cheek against her breast. She clasped her two hands together under the table, and knew that she smiled and made casual, easy answers to her hostess. Knew that Barry Dunne said in a hollow strained tone:

"We thought the boats would never reach them."

Unaware of the ghostly drama going on behind their two minds, Mrs. Southley chattered brightly:

"Helena, dear, you should be proud. Mr. Dunne was with me on the beach when Pippin covered herself with glory. The girl is not only brave, but adorable. She is just like you."

"Oh, no!" said Chickie, shutting her eyes and hearing her voice sharp: "She is NOT like me! She is like her father. She is David all over again."

Appearance Changed

The words summoned David as though he were actually present. She felt his hand on her shoulder—it steeled her—it shut a door on the old torment. So that she looked up and said with sudden happy relief: "I am so glad about it all. Is Eric quite recovered now?"

"Yes . . . Helena, think what we are spared! I have a call in to his mother. She must not hear it from others and grow frightened."

She went almost immediately to the telephone. Chickie and Barry Dunne were left alone.

Through lowered eyes and a vibrant, oppressive silence Chickie saw his fingers driven against the tines of a fork. Pictures were in her mind. She regarded them remotely. She saw a pale, lovely girl clinging to Barry Dunne's arm and pleading:

"You think you have to leave me? Oh, Barry, no!" And in a hushed, frightened tone: "Then, Barry, kiss me."

These memories did not belong to her. They were of some dweller in another world. Yet they made a burning, an oppressive hurt when she tried to breathe.

Presently, without looking up, his voice came, impersonal, like the voice of a machine:

"This is a beautiful place, is it not?"

"Very—one of the loveliest on Tahoe."

"It would have been spoiled forever if the boy had drowned."

"Ah, yes."

For some reason she was never able afterwards to explain, Chickie glanced up and found her eyes laid full on the eyes of Barry Dunne. They were the most tragic eyes she had ever beheld. His face was thin, more aquiline than ever; the hair still thick and still red, but the mouth, once so full cut, so reckless and sweet, was drawn, was grim.

With her glance, a flood of color swept to his temples. Quickly he raised his hand and swept it back over his hair. He sa[id] hastily and without seeming to know the words that d[id] from his lips:

"[the] boy, Jon, your son?"

"[he] is my oldest son."

Li[ke] wo Strangers

A [si]lence loud with unspoken things . . . What was Barry Dunne thinking? That Chickie was compensated? She could look at a boy like Jon and laugh forever, let the hurt of the past be what it would? . . . Was Barry Dunne thinking this? Or was it shouting only in Chickie's heart?

He made words:

"He handles a boat well."

"He has had plenty of practice on the lake since he was a child."

They spoke in casual tones like two strangers. Chickie took bread and buttered it. Barry Dunne cut meat and set the knife carefully back on the plate. It was quiet—it was unbearable. The laughter from the nearby tables seemed grotesque—echoes from some strange, heedless world.

Pippin, with a group of girls, came trouping by. The girl stopped with an eager:

"Mother! When did you arrive? Isn't it a gorgeous party?—"

Then Pippin saw Barry Dunne and instantly recognized the man who had spoken on the beach. She gave a happy laugh.

"So, you're old friends, are you? Isn't that exciting! What do you think, Helena? Mr. Dunne saw me and thought I was you. He said 'Chickie.' I felt so proud."

Barry Dunne, standing and taking all this from Pippin, grew white. His face looked like powdered ash. As the girls moved away, he gave a little tug at his collar and said dully:

"Warm, isn't it?"

Chickie felt like weeping. But Barry Dunne dropped back to the stiff chair with a grim, blanched look and his eyes fastened on his plate. He shoved it from him with a low, strained:

"The resemblance is startling. You seem scarcely to have changed at all."

Chickie felt a shock—a queer, shivering chill. Not changed? But there had been a time when she poured herself out like a wine for this man to drink . . .

She looked clear into his face and said with quiet, deep tranquillity:

"You think I have not changed? I have. Completely."

Barry Near Collapse

Almost with a song she saw David coming through the trees. Coming swiftly with a smile and a gallant: "Helena, dear! I'm so sorry! Did you wait very long? I've brought the little lads—we're awfully starved! Can we be fed?"

He reached the table, recognized Barry Dunne and in a moment crystallized the whole poignant intolerable drama.

"How do you do?" said he, bowing. "Isn't it a marvelous day for the meet?"

Barry Dunne looked as though he would collapse. There was a harsh thin line about his mouth. He and David had not met since that dinner when someone jeered at Chickie Bryce—someone asked, as David defended her:

"If she is so fine would you recommend her as a wife for your best friend . . . or better, as a wife for yourself?"

And David answered:

"I can think of no greater good fortune for my best friend—no dearer honor for myself than to be chosen as the husband of Helena Bryce!"

Few at that party knew Barry Dunne was the man responsible for Chickie's fate.

David knew it. When Barry's hand shook so that the wine spilled from his glass, David reached across the table and mopped up the red trickle.

WILLIAM PENN WELCOMED TO PHILADELPHIA BY THE OLD DUTCH SETTLERS

The first settlement (called Wicaco) within the limits of Philadelphia was made by Swedes in 1636, sent by the government of Queen Christina. An English settlement was founded in 1681 under the auspices of William Penn, holding a charter for Pennsylvania. During Penn's first stay in America a city was laid out and named Philadelphia (city of brotherly love).

While in America, Penn governed his colony in wise, benevolent and liberal manner, creating a popular assembly, granting religious freedom. His publicity campaign soon induced English Quakers, Germans of various Protestant sects, Scotch-Irish Presbyterians, Welsh Baptists, Irish Catholics to settle in Pennsylvania.

When visiting a second time (1699-1701), Penn found his colony flourishing. Thereafter he experienced many adversities due to the villany of his governors and the failure of many settlers to pay their quitrent. Driven to offer Pennsylvania for sale, he was accused by the colonial legislature of "first fleecing then selling out," though Penn's outlays were greater than his receipts. Full of sorrow, Penn died in 1718 in England.

PLATO, ARISTOTLE—GREAT INTELLECT TEACHES GREAT CONQUEROR

Aristotle (384-322 B. C.) the "Walking Encyclopedia" was Plato's disciple at his "Academia" in Athens. After Plato's death Aristotle taught at Mysia, then became tutor of young Alexander, later the Great of Macedonia. When his pupil became ruler, Aristotle returned to Athens, opened a school in the Lyceum, teaching there for about 13 years and producing most of his numerous writings. After the death of Alexander the Great, reaction against the Macedonians forced Aristotle, accused of impiety, to flee to Chalcis, where he died.

Aristotle mastered all resorts of philosophical and scientific research of his time, systematized, subdivided knowledge. His conclusions, though in many instances faulty, marked great advance and were believed in firmly up into the Middle Ages when observation, aided by inventions of instruments, superceded speculation in natural science. His works numbered 146 by ancient writers, but only 46 came down to us. (World History)

JUMP-SPARK IGNITION FOR MULTI-CYLINDER ENGINES

The three-cell battery furnishes low tension (6 volt) current of a few ampers intensity in the primary circuit leading through the primary winding (few loops of insulated thick wire) of the induction coil. The primary current is interrupted by the breaker, causing induction of high tension current (several thousand volts of little intensity) in secondary winding (many loops of insulated thin wire) of the coil. The high tension current is led to the spark plugs by the distributor and cables, producing sparks to ignite the explosive gas-mixture in each cylinder. (Automobile)

THE PLOW, AN IMPORTANT AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENT

To produce crops the soil has to be tilled for a deep, mellow seedbed of good texture, covering trash, destroying weeds and insects; also to retain moisture and to promote air circulation. The most generally used tool for the first step of soil cultivation is the walking plow (above). The result of its work, the "furrow" (opening) and the "slice" (raised inverted soil) is shown below (left).

The rolling coulter is a sharpened disc placed before the share to cut the furrow slice loose. The jointer is a miniature plow in front of the main plow-bottom for turning over the trash (below right). (General Science)

WATER SUPPLY AND PURIFICATION

Surface water may contain clay, bacteria, microscopic plants, to be eliminated by settling, chemicals, filtration.

A COMMON FORM OF LIVERWORTS

Liverworts constitute, with mosses, the second phylum (Bryophyta) of the plant kingdom. Most of the liverworts are flattened, skin-like structures often without distinct stems or leaves, growing in moist places and in water. As with mosses, liverworts reproduce by alternation of sexual and spore-bearing generations. (27—III—B)

Government's efforts to shoo the small investor from Wall street are bringing results.

First of all, you can't dabble on margin. If you want to buy a share of repossessed chewing gum you have to purchase it lock, stock and barrel.

In the old days it was different. You called your broker on the telephone and said, "Gimme six shares of what you got."

The broker said, "Mongolian Brigand is very good. All the tourists are going for it."

You asked, "How's Minneapolis Snatch and St. Paul Grab?"

"Well, said the broker, looking over his books which he kept on his left cuff, "that's a pool. They will take in outsiders. But not as partners."

"Can I crash Tammany Gravy Train?" you wanted to know.

"Well, there's a little investigation going on there," was the reply. "Seems that an honest man woke up in New York and they forgot to hit him on the head again."

"How's Airplane Subsidized, mister?" you queried.

"That's bad," the ear-piece buzzed. "That's bad. The boys flew too low and had to use the Senate floor for a landing field. Have you got any money?"

"Well, I ain't got no money," you said, "but I've got prospects. What do you think of Army Motorized?"

"They're going back to mules," the broker said. "They're going back to mules as fast as four legs and a whip can carry them. Somebody talked in his sleep, and they found the man who burned the preferred stock had wasted a match."

However, the broker would let you in on the ground floor as a little favor. You didn't have any money. But, like a perjured witness in court, all you had to put up was your right hand. You got the stock, skimmed the top off it, and let somebody else cut it up into paper dolls.

When the investigations started you learned to moo softly and gently, and left for Greece in the duke's stall on a cattle boat. They were giants in those days. But the midgets have caught up to 'em.

Good Legislators

Now Is the Time to See That Desirable Candidates Run in the Primary.

Gov. Pinchot gives excellent advice in his weekly statement to the citizens in calling upon them to take advantage of the opportunity now afforded to send good men and women to the Legislature.

He says, truly, that because of their inertia the people often find on the ballot on election day the names of no candidates for whom they can vote with enthusiasm.

While the political bosses and the business bosses make certain that candidates run who can be depended upon, if elected, to do their bidding, citizens who have no special axes to grind are not so careful. Consequently we frequently have in the Legislature members who are not responsive to public opinion.

The Governor says:

"The only real way to make sure that the special interests are thrown out of the law-making bodies of Pennsylvania is to get on every primary ballot for state and local offices the people's representatives; then a good man will win in the general election.

"The movement of government control back to the people must begin now while nominating petitions are still being circulated. The last day for filing nominating petitions is March 26. After that it will be too late."

If the social reforms for which the people are clamoring, the measures to eliminate oxcart government and modernize the public service, and other worth while laws are to be enacted at the next regular session of the Legislature, it is important that in every legislative district the citizens shall see that candidates who support these things run in the primary.

Mental Health Problems

Dr. Henninger's Report Suggests the Need of the Proposed Psychiatric Hospital.

In a paper on "Some Effects of the Economic Depression on Mental Health," published in the current issue of the Pittsburgh Medical Bulletin, Dr. C. H. Henninger, chairman of the Western Section of the Pennsylvania Mental Hygiene Committee, makes some statements which strongly suggest the need of the proposed State Psychiatric Hospital.

Dr. Henninger expresses the belief that "stress and worry, associated with lack of employment or insufficient nourishment to sustain good physical health, may be factors in precipitating a psychosis in people constitutionally vulnerable to any of the types of mental illness."

He calls attention to the steady increase in suicides in Allegheny County in recent years, and declares "many cases of melancholia and the depressed types of manic depressive psychosis were simply considered a normal mental depression resulting from the chaotic state of our economic affairs, and steps were therefore not taken for their treatment or protection."

The proposed State Psychiatric Hospital, for which the University of Pittsburgh has donated a site at DeSota and O'Hara streets, and for which surveys, estimates and architects' plans have been prepared, is sponsored by Senator Frank J. Harris. It is designed to treat in their incipiency improvable and curable mental disorders, with a view to saving the sufferers from commitment to asylums or other misfortunes that result from non-treatment.

The Legislature passed a bill in December which authorizes the Governor to accept funds from the federal government for the construction of state mental hospitals and other institutions.

It is about time that the public was informed if there is any hope of early construction of the proposed Pittsburgh hospital.

A Building Gain

Construction News Is More Encouraging, But Not as Good as It Should Be.

The report of the State Department of Labor and Industry on building operations in Pennsylvania in January has just been issued, and is more encouraging than some of the other reports that have been issued in recent months, but is still far from satisfactory.

Pittsburgh reported a gain of $162,163, or 248 per cent, as compared with January of last year, and 32 other Pennsylvania municipalities also report gains; but 23 municipalities, among them Philadelphia, report losses.

The new buildings for which permits have been taken out represent for the most part factory and mercantile construction. Residential building has fallen to the lowest point reached in the 10 years that the Department of Labor and Industry has been compiling building permit data.

The situation merits repetition of the important fact that the building industry is one of the largest employers of labor and requires materials produced in Pittsburgh, such as iron and steel, glass, sand and gravel, hardware and electrical equipment. Hence every effort should be made by Pittsburghers to stimulate its revival.

B'nai B'rith Week

The Great Jewish Organization Has Done Much to Overcome Bigotry and Ignorance.

On this, the opening day of B'nai B'rith Week, the Sun-Telegraph desires to extend to the Pittsburgh Lodge and Ladies' Auxiliary of this famous world-wide Jewish organization our congratulations on the ninetieth anniversary of its founding.

B'nai B'rith, dedicated to the ideal of a unified Israel, has been a powerful influence in combating bigotry and ignorance. Events of the past year in Central Europe show how great is the need of such work as it is doing.

B'nai B'rith is described as "sectarian only in its religious idealism." Its aims are broadly philanthropic, and during its 90 years of existence it has made its influence felt in all countries. It has numbered among its members most of the Jews who have been distinguished for public service.

The organization's week of celebration is accordingly of general interest.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 9.—Thoughts while strolling: Wonder if Spring Byington knows Winona Winter? And Hazel Dawn, June Knight? O, yes, and Max Baer, William Fox. In this hoity-toity town they call a sling-shot a slung-shot. Somehow I always expect Mary Roberts Rinehart to wear a Merry Widow hat, and Miriam Hopkins to carry a sun parasol.

One word description of Vicki Baum—sputtery. It would take gall to slap Edwin Arlington Robinson on the back. Sudden thought: Title for an autobiography: "First Person, Singular!" How proud Sime would be with the fine progress of Variety. No matter the chill, a push cart man goes bare handed.

Secretary Ickes' name suggests being squeamish. So does the second row of letters on the typewriter—qwertyuiop. One thing a good restaurant doesn't need is a prominent location. The best are usually in out-of-way streets.

One of my favorite people—Page Cooper. The boarding house where George Randolph Chester used to live on West Forty-ninth. And where he wrote the Wallingford tales. I've run into that lady four times today. What is this strange power over women? Florence Ryerson doesn't look unlike Katharine Cornell.

Alexander Woollcott's skip-stop stride. And seraphic smile. Never knew a young artist who did not think magazine editors hostile. Beginning tomorrow I'm going to get my hair cut oftener and improve my finger nails. The last of the dandies!

* * *

It was Gene Crawley—no, I think Minnie C. Vesey—who told me this story. In one of those slanting downpours an autoist was driving along a Westchester road. Zig zags of lightning revealed a young walker afoot. He pulled up and invited him to ride. They babbled inconsequentials as strangers will. After a while, the car owner fumbled for his watch. It was gone. The same hand flew to his wallet. It, too, was gone. He stopped the car and coldly told his guest to get out. Then: "Now give me that watch and wallet." The youth looked nonplussed. Again and fiercer the demand. The youth turned over a watch and wallet and went off in the soaking rain. At home, the autoist's wife called: "I'm glad you are home, dear. I worried you might miss your watch and wallet I found on top of your bureau."

One of the crazy cafes in Greenwich Village features a professional laugher. He has a booming voice and merely sits around and guffaws until everybody is in an uproar. The contagion of laughter, like yawning, has long been neglected until Olson and Johnson took it up on the radio.

Among the infectious laughs that have wafted me off into gales are those of Joseph A. Moore, Trixie Friganza, Irvin Cobb, Joseph Urban, Jimmy Hussey and a giggling barber on the Aquitania. You could tell this barber any story and he would start a contagious giggle. Yet despite his convulsions and pitching of the boat I don't think he ever nicked a throat.

There seems to be a full stop in enthusiasm for Mae West. Her name swung from lip to lip and her tight-rope toddle was the delight of impersonators everywhere, but the ardor has cooled. She became a definite character in the American scene—along with Amos and Andy, Will Rogers and other fortunates of fancy. It is always distressing to witness a tumble from the heights, for rarely does anybody stop to pick up the pieces. It may be just gossip to be sure, but when it becomes so general it is often authentic. Anyway, in the crack up, if it comes, it may be said in more ways than one she was a grand bust.

* * *

And among the pretty boys my enthusiasm is least fervid for Buddy Rogers. He has such a cocksure complacency and ain't-I-the-one manner. When all he does is to play a few musical instruments. But he is a handsome chap. And what a marcel!

Most people defer a trip around the world until life has settled into the serenities. The Bruce Bartons faced every reason for not going—his pressing affairs and their children in school. Yet they decided not to defer it like so many others who wind up never going. So they are on their way. And from all reports the rest of us better be hiking off to see the world while there is something left of it.

'Little Man'—You and I—'What Now?'

I read it in October, with the first fall wind whining at the window . . . and the memory of that terrible Times Square breadline whimpering in my heart. I read it in December, with the black rain beating upon the pane . . . and the menace of the mining riots plucking at my mind.

Now I'm reading it in March... with a film and flicker of spring spreading beneath snow and ice . . . and a buoyant hope, at last, stirring in the hearts of men! And it's still like a sane, strong hand reaching down into human misery . . . striking straight into human ignorance . . . leading us out, and up, into better understanding, into a new faith.

Plenty of words to spend in describing one small book—and the simplest of tales, at that. But it merits them all. For here at last comes a writer who dares to tell the truth about the Little Man and his poverty . . . about You and Me in the world we've made . . . without tears or fears, false hopes or maudlin mumblings.

"LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?" by Hans Fallada, is, I believe, the most honest, healthy and hopeful book that has ever been written about poor people and their lives. I like it because I have been a poor person most of my own life . . . and because I think the salvation, or the damnation, of the world lies in the hands of poor people.

If you're a spunky poor person, you should read this book because it will make you proud of yourself.

If you're a snooty rich person, you should read this book because it will make you ashamed of yourself. If you're an in-between person, you should read this book because it will put you wise to yourself, your world and where you're—maybe—heading.

Most books about poor people make me see red. They are either written by young Smart Alecs who have pestered Dad into giving them journalistic courses and are getting a big bang out of facing Ugly Reality between manicures . . . or by smug successes living on fat royalties . . . or by campus theorists who never smelled sweaty shirts or ate stale meal in their lives.

There "oughta be a law" against people like that using words like "grim," "gaunt," "gripes," and "guts." Those words can only mean something to people who know what they're all about . . . to people who have lived them. They mean something to Hans Fallada. They mean so much that he's able to write so that, before you know it, you're wanting to cry. And if you don't do just that when you read Hans Fallada's story of Pinneberg and his Bunny, it's a cinch there's something gravely wrong. And you'd better get busy on it—pronto!

Pinneberg and Bunny are not characters in fiction. And "LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?" is not a novel. Here are two loving, living, frightened, stupid, brave youngsters, and their story is—OUR MODERN WORLD. It is the story of the struggle of two plain young people in a society robbed of beauty, decency and dignity by the greedy, powerful and selfish.

But Hans Fallada doesn't rave or wring his hands or go literary over poverty. He doesn't make poor people seem "dramatic" or "different." He makes them seem what they are—human beings like the rest of us. Glad and sad, mad and bad, but mostly just middling.

And, suddenly, the barriers are down between the Rich and the Poor, the Masses and Classes—and you're just a Person, sitting beside little Bunny on the park bench, holding her hand as she bends, panting, eyes closed, in her labor pains.

Little, brave, soft Bunny, who laughed, and prattled, and let her man have his cigaret and his complaining—before her face went gray and she gave that one, unmistakable cry. And poor, bewildered, adoring, clumsy Pinneberg, saying over and over to himself those terrible words, that nearly every man says in his time: "Suppose I never see her again... suppose I never see her again."

Just two young people walking to the hospital so their baby may be born. The girl laughing, gasping. The man sweating, praying. Both accepting the simple fact that they must get along as best they can in a world where, for lack of a few pfennigs for taxi fare, a woman in labor must walk to her hospital bed. And be gay about it!

And you and I made that world.

And youngsters like that are living like that...going on and on ...gaily, generously, gallantly... BUT FOR HOW LONG?

Oh, well! Read that book.

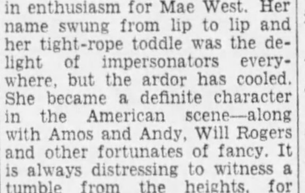
MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Brides—And Other Riddles

Sometimes a modern bride is prepared to go through everything for the man she has promised to love and honor—and sometimes she is merely preparing to go through everything he's got.



What profiteth it a damsel, though she gain the whole world, if there is always going to be a newer, younger and prettier girl, waiting to snatch it away from her?

* * *

The most delightful parties, says the popular bachelor, are those that you never can remember next morning—but the most delightful kisses are those that you never can forget.

* * *

A girl forms her opinion of her own charms and attractions by what she sees in her looking-glass; but a man doesn't bother to look in a mirror—he can size up his charms pretty accurately by what he sees in women's eyes.

* * *

In some countries the bride and bridegroom never see each other before the wedding; in America, apparently, they don't get to see anything much of each other until after the divorce.

* * *

To fall head over heels in love with a man may increase a woman's capacity for happiness; but it always minimizes her chances of getting either happiness or the man.

* * *

Really, no man should object to paying his wife's bridge losses when he reflects that, while she's concentrating on tricks and prizes, she has little time to think up the brutal truths she was going to say to him after dinner.

You can never tell why a woman "gets on a man's nerves;" it may be because she never will pick up his things and clean his safety razor—or it may be because she is forever following him around like a detective "picking up his things!"

Human Side of the News

Washington Has Become the Scene of an Exciting Drama, With Thousands of Visitors Daily

By Edwin C. Hill

FOR a year now, Washington, the capital, has been the stage of the most thrilling drama the country has known since the tumultuous preparations for the World War. The city itself has visibly changed. From the leisurely, easy-going Southern city it remained up to almost the present year, it has become a bustling, surging nerve ganglion, taking the shock, every day and every hour, of the troubles of all the rest of the United States.

Travelers used to visit Washington, a few hundred a day, by train, on their appointed errands. Nowadays they pour in by train, airplane and motorcar, thousands a day, bent, a large share of them, on finding a good place under the spout which is pouring out many millions of dollars a day for the enterprises of the New Deal.

Many come with their programs and pabulums to submit to Congress or to the President—schemes guaranteed to choke the big bad wolf of hard times. The corridors and galleries of the Capitol are thronged with them. They border the walls of the waiting rooms in the executive offices of the White House. They buttonhole influential gentlemen in the lobbies of the big hotels. They dash hither and yon with the passionate intensity of crusaders.

All Washington is a stage. The debates in the Senate and House have not been so salty for years. But the center of all the drama, actually, is a small room in the most beautiful building in the world. Thirty minutes in that room on Tuesdays and Fridays is 30 minutes with American history in the making.

Navy Prints In Executive Office

FOUR p. m. at the White House. The circular office where the President does his work, where he toils with his responsibility for the security and happiness of a hundred and twenty-five million people. The walls of the office decorated with Navy prints from the President's private collection—fighting ships of the Revolution, of the War of 1812, of the Civil War—the Navy, dear to the President's heart. Only one other picture—that of Mrs. Roosevelt. On his desk another mute symbol of the sea, the chronometer, a ship's clock, in silver.

In front of his desk, the massed body of the newspaper correspondents of Washington, young men and elderly men representing the great press associations and hundreds of individual morning and evening newspapers—veteran newspaper reporters who have gone through the political storms of 30 years in the capital, who have seen Presidents come and go, but who have never known quite such a personality as the man they are facing at this moment; youngsters, new to the game, eager and fresh with zeal and energy, burning with ambition. All standing there bareheaded, pads of paper or envelopes in their hands—anything to scribble on, as they get ready to bombard with questions the arresting figure sitting at the big, flat-topped desk.

Sitting easily and comfortably, smiling, friendly, amused, smoking a cigaret in a short holder, nodding here and there as he picks out individuals he may not have seen for a week or so, passing a word now and then to Mrs. Roosevelt, who sits at his right hand. And then the barrage of questions, coming thick and fast, as reporter after reporter wants to know about the money question, the air mail contracts scandal, the Russian trade situation, the Civil Works Administration graft charges—questions covering almost the whole complex and diverse activities of this amazing administration.

Questions Are Frankly Answered

AND to every question a quick, alert, frank, good-humored reply, in an attitude as natural as breathing. No evasiveness. No dodging. No holding back. No pomposity. Just a perfectly human man doing the best he can to keep pace with the quick wits of a hundred and fifty correspondents who gang him twice a week.

And presently the conference is over, and the reporters go trooping from the circular office like a chorus leaving the stage. The star remains for a personal chat with two or three introduced into the conference by Secretaries Marvin McIntyre and Stephen Early, an honor in which this writer was included.

It is a pleasure indeed to report that the President is in tip-top condition, brimming with health and vitality, just past his fifty-second birthday, showing very little, indeed, the stress and strain of the tremendous year that has passed over his head—of the terrific back-breaking responsibilities and labors that have been borne up by his shoulders.

He keeps in condition, principally, with his daily swim in the big tank which was installed seven or eight months ago in the basement of the White House. He swims half an hour every day at 6 p. m., and then he gets a brisk rub down, and after that he feels like a new man . . . In the evenings when he can find time, he sometimes nears a bit of a radio program or sees motion pictures, news reels especially, and often a feature. In that way he gets along very nicely.

But he does not, out of modesty, mention the real and basic reason for his amazing endurance and vitality in the hardest presidential task that has fallen to a Chief Executive since the Civil War. And that reason is his liking for people and his intense love of his job.

It is work that men do not like which kills body and soul. Franklin D. Roosevelt is passionately fond of his work. Every problem is to him a challenge which he must meet and overcome. He finds mental relaxation in labors that might defeat and destroy nine men out of ten.

3,800 Plane Air Force Asked by Army

By James T. Williams, Jr.

IF Congress authorizes at this session the increase in the efficiency and effectiveness of the Army Air Corps for which the War Department Air Corps bill provides, the United States will soon have a military air force equal to the strongest.

This vitally important legislative proposal is now before the House Committee on Military Affairs. In fact, it was introduced in the House more than a month ago by the chairman of that committee, who gave the War Department to understand that he and his committee were in hearty agreement with the War Department's program for building up the Army Air Corps.

This program was formulated after the most intensive study by the general staff which is made up of representatives of the Air Corps and the other arms of the service.

One of the merits of this measure is that it embodies the best judgment of the best general staff which has ever served a Secretary of War.

Another merit of this measure is that it accords with the national defense policy established by Congress for the development of American air power.

In sending to Congress the War Department bill to increase the strength of the Army Air Corps, Secretary Dern is following the policy established by Congress and bringing that policy up to date.

As a result of intensive studies made by the War Department general staff since Mr. Dern became Secretary of War, the War Department reached the unanimous conclusion that the Army Air Corps should be strengthened by the addition of a homogeneous air force known as the GHQ air force.

MacArthur Describes New Air Force

THIS new unit, which will comprise all military elements of aviation, was thus described by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the Army's able Chief of Staff, when he appeared before the House Committee on Military Affairs more than a month ago, by invitation of the chairman of that committee:

"The GHQ air force contemplates five wings. Perhaps I should sketch very briefly the organization of the Air Corps. They have tactical units, just as have the other branches.

"The smallest is called the 'flight,' consisting usually of five planes. It corresponds, in general, to the platoon or fraction of a company or troop. The next larger element is the 'squadron,' which corresponds roughly with the company.

"Then comes the group which corresponds with the battalion. Then comes the wing, which corresponds roughly to the regiment.

"Under conditions now current, I believe that the air force should have five wings. There should be two pursuit wings. There should be one attack wing. There should be two bombardment wings.

"The size of the tactical unit of the air should be just as flexible as the size of the tactical unit of any other branch. Efficiency requires flexibility in the air just as it does in the other branches.'

Will Give Army 3,800 Planes

IF Congress will pass the War Department authorization bill to increase the Army Air Corps, now before the House Committee on Military Affairs, the United States will have an Army Air Corps of 3,800 planes as soon as Congress appropriates the necessary money to procure the planes and to provide the increase in officers and men required to man them.

This is what Congress will do at the present session if the Democratic leadership of both houses is sincerely desirous of building up the national defense and will patriotically refuse to play politics with the national defense.

The War Department Air Corps bill points the way. It carries forward the established national defense policy formulated by Congress. It represents the best judgment of our best military authorities—the War Department general staff, the chief of the Army Air Corps and the chiefs of the other branches.

It is up to the present Congress to say whether this vital legislative proposal shall be enacted into law or be pigeon-holed in committee.
